PREFACE.

SEVERAL books have been published of late, containing references to the Dudleys. One is "Browning's Americans of Royal Descent," which prints the pedigree given by Adlard's Sutton Dudleys without any statement that it is of doubtful authenticity. That is very strange, seeing that Adlard himself only "presumed" it might be as he represented.

He presumed that Katherine Dudley's brother, Roger Dudley, might have been the father of Gov. Thomas Dudley; but the Roger Dudley whom Edward Dudley, in 1542, made his principal legatee, was of too early a date to have been the father of Gov. Thomas. Who that first Roger was he does not presume to guess. However, he found a Roger at St. Dunstan's, that is, a record of him, dated 1603, at which time his daughter Dorothy was baptized March 31st. "But," says Adlard, "Gov. Thomas would then have been 27 years old, whereas Mather says he was left very young at the death of his father." Still he hobbles over this objection somehow, and puts this Roger into his pedigree, as the Capt. Roger Dudley, who was father of Gov. Thomas. He does not know that this Roger was a military man. He knows nothing whatever about him, except that he was living and had two or three children in 1603.

I put John Dudley among the sons of Richard of Yanwath, because I could not call Robert, the Alderman of Newcastle, son of Richard, as he was found to be the son of John, by a daughter of William Carre. But the Herald's Visitation of Yorkshire gives Richard no son John, unless we understand "Jone" to be a mistake for John. That Visitation gives two of Richard's children as "Jone" and "Jane." Now Joan is another form of Jane, and it was not proper to name one daughter Jone and another Jane. I wish to say that I do not know that John Dudley of Newcastle was a son of Richard of Yanwath, as is printed at page 61. I am very anxious to find who he was. Mr. Grazebrook found a court record referring to this John Dudley of Newcastle. Richard ought to have had a son John, named for John of Stoke Newington, his eldest brother. Robert, son of Richard, I know nothing of. Did he also live at Newcastle? In my alphabetical list of Dudley descendants of other names. I have printed in this No. VI. what ones I have ready as far as "Field." I will print another alphabetical list in No. VII., beginning with A as before. if I find any omitted, in the first letters, and then proceed to the end of the alphabet.

I have now issued seven numbers of this work at one dollar each. Those who have not had the previous numbers will please send me their subscriptions for the whole work. The postage is six cents per number.

The numbers or parts are as follows: No. I., No. II., No. between II. and III., No. III., No. IV., No. V., No. VI. There are seven numbers. The 1st and 2d numbers are growing scarce; so I have put the price of them at $1.50 each, unless the whole are ordered together. I intend to give a list of my authorities more particularly in the last number. Corrections of errors and omissions are solicited—also portraits and pedigrees. Capt. Roger Dudley is somewhere spoken of, as a son of Thomas of Westminster, but Adlard's pedigree makes him a son of John, son of Thomas. His pedigree is not based upon any known data, such as are indispensable for the foundation of a correct line of descent.

Another number (VII.) of this work will soon be issued.

I wish to print the 8th and 9th generations of the Dudleys by name in the next number if they are ready. Some lines have been furnished me and I have gathered others from public records. The Dudleys of Gov. Joseph's posterity have of late been more dilatory than others about sending me their family records, but in 1848, when the great English inheritance was agitated, they were more prompt than any others of the name.

In sending me pay for the work, it is best that checks or postal notes should be enclosed in letters, as bank bills are more easily lost. I cannot take the risk of sending the book before receiving the dollar and postage.

MRS. HARRIET C.⁶ BARKER is the only one living of the eleven children of Capt. William⁵ Dudley. She sends me these additions and corrections from Mrs. Charles Dudley's house at Providence. She was born in Douglas, Mass., Jan. 9, 1820; married to George R. Barker of Cornville, Me., Oct. 21, 1847. Their three children were born in Cornville, Me., and their father died there June 19, 1865, and Mrs. Barker returned to Douglas. They had three children, viz.: 1, Harriet Dudley,⁷ born March 23, 1852, died at Douglas, Sept. 15, 1876; 2, John Fremont, born April 9, 1856, went to Roseburg, Oregon, in 1876, married Annie Jones, Oct. 17, 1883, and had (1) Zelia Vell,⁸ born Sept. 15, 1885, (2) Harriet Dudley, born March 3, 1887; (3) Charles Dudley, born Oct. 2, 1857; married Maud M. Tucker, Nov. 20, 1889, and they reside in Providence.

THE KENTUCKY DUDLEYS.

Pages 517, 551, Number V.

WHEN Ambrose Dudley moved to Kentucky in the spring of 1786, he bought fourteen hundred and fifty acres of land at two shillings per acre. This land is located three miles east of Lexington, and is in the heart of the famous "blue-grass" region. He married Ann Parker in Virginia, Feb. 2, 1773. For sketch of Ambrose Dudley, see Sprague's Annals of the American Baptist Pulpit, and Taylor's History of Virginia Baptist ministers, Vol. I.

After the battle at Raisin, T. P. Dudley (Ambrose,² Robert¹) was taken to Detroit without hat, overcoat or shoes, and was bought by a British officer and sent home. He was ordained to the gospel ministry in 1823, by Louis Craig, John Shackleford, and one other, the same ministers who ordained his father in Virginia. He was a Baptist minister of the Predestinarian order (not Presbyterian, as in No. V.).

He was appointed by Jackson to wind up several of the branches of the National Bank in central Kentucky, in which he was engaged about seven years. Previously, at the battle of New Orleans, Jackson had cast some reflections upon the valor of the Kentucky troops; and young Dudley, meeting him, rashly denounced him and even cursed him for what he regarded as an aspersion of his fellow Kentuckians. Possibly there may have been a little wine about. Anyhow Jackson cherished the warmest respect for Dudley and confidence in him, as is shown by his appointment to wind up the banks.

T. P. Dudley (Ambrose,⁴ James,³ Ambrose,² Robert¹) married Mary S. Gentry and had nine children: John, died; Richard M.; Ambrose F.; Thomas P.; Sallie; Charles, died; James; William; and Mary.

Ambrose F. Dudley (brother of above); married Sue E. Gilbert and had nine children: Richard M.; Gilbert, died; Nancy died; Lucy, Bessie, Gordon, Herndon; Florence, died; Charles.

R. M. Dudley, Jr. (R. M.,⁵ Ambrose,⁴ James,³ Ambrose,² Robert¹) died in infancy. It was his father's second marriage. April 3, 1877, with Miss Mary Henton, daughter of Thomas Henton, deceased, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Medford County, Ky., and deacon of the Glenss Creek Baptist Church. It is of this marriage that Anne, Mary, June (not Jane), Louise, and Rose were born. See No. V., page 518.

Page 584, xii., STEPHEN MERRITT⁶ DUDLEY, who died March, 1841, and Lucy Dudley had six children, viz.:

1, Myra A.,⁷ born Oct. 1828; married J. D. Cooke of Sturgis, Mich., 1848, and died in California, 1862, leaving two children, viz.: J. F. and R. W. Cooke, both now living at Condon, Gilliam County, Oregon.

2, Jonathan Merritt (who sends this account), born Sept. 7, 1830; married Nov. 24, 1857, at Dixon, Cal., to Miss Elizabeth F. Dixon. Mr. J. M. Dudley has been twice elected to the California Legislature and served two terms, 1862 and 1863. He also was elected and served as a delegate in the constitutional convention that made the present constitution of the State of California. He was elected and served in the State Senate of 1883. His five children by Elizabeth, are as follows: (1) Lucy J.,⁸ born at Dixon, Aug. 19, 1858; married at Dixon, July 2, 1882, James Campbell of Seattle, Wash., and there they reside. (2) Earl Delmar, born at D., June 13, 1860; married in 1888, and has one child, a farmer of Willows, Colusa County, Cal. (3) Frederick Merritt, born in Dixon, Oct. 28, 1861; married at St. Paul, Minn., in 1889, and had one child, a lawyer, of St. Paul, Minn. (4) George D., born at Dixon, Aug. 1, 1867. (5) Elizabeth, born at Dixon, April 26, 1873.

3, Sophia, died in infancy.

4, George Stephen, born March 10, 1834; married Miss Emma Leopold at Suisun, Solano County, Cal., 1869. He lives in Seattle, Wash., has two children at home with him.

5, Lucinda E., born Aug. 25, 1835; married Aaron Bodley, s. p. She died August, 1876. at Dixon.

6, Grove Hall, born Sept. 11, 1838, at Orland, Ind. He served in the Union Army a little over three years, was with Gen. Sherman from Vicksburg to the surrender of Johnston in North Carolina. He belonged to company B, 100th Indiana Regiment. He is married and has six children, lives in Orland, Ind., on the old homestead of his father.

All of Stephen M.⁶ and Lucy Dudley's children, except Grove, were born at or near Hannibal, N. Y. Lucy died at Orland in 1863.

But Surtees, in History of Durham, says, “I believe the Heralds do not allow this coat to these Dudleys”; and Mr. Grazebrook says they did not enter any coat with their pedigree in the visitation. Well, what arms does Mr. G. attribute to them? They must have belonged to some gentle family. I followed the best authority I could find. Ambrose Dudley had a lease of the manor of Chopwell in co. Durham. His pedigree is printed on page 61. He signed the Durham Visitation, and no arms appear on it for his family. Whether he intentionally omitted to give his arms, or the herald refused to allow him the arms he wished to enter, we know not. Ambrose Dudley's father was knighted by king James I. See p. 21. It is incredible that he should have borne no arms.

Page 646, lines 20-21, except the grandson of Thomas, who could have, &c., not "except the son of Thomas." I do not mean, that this Roger is proved to have been the father of Gov. Thomas. He does not answer the description given by Dr. Cotton Mather in the Magnalia, &c. We have no other account of him.

DUDLEY CASTLE.

LELAND, the old antiquary, says "Dudley Castle is hard on the borders of Worcestershire, but the Castle itself standeth in Staffordshire." Twamley, the last historian of the ancient fortress, says the parish of Dudley is an island of Worcestershire, being entirely surrounded by Staffordshire, Sedgley and Rowley lying on either side of it. It is on a high hill which overlooks several counties of England and Wales. The waters from one side flow into the German Ocean, and from the other side into Bristol Channel. It is a barren, rocky ridge of limestone and brambly pasture land.

The Castle was first built by the Norman followers of William the Conqueror, says Mr. Twamley, but Camden relates that Doddo or Dodo, a Mercian Duke, erected a castle here about the year 700. Still another account is that Dudde, Earl of Coventry, Somerie and Arden had a son Athelston, who built this castle. Dr. Nash says, the Habingdon MSS. have it that Dodo the famous Saxon raised a strong fortification at Dudley, which remained till the Conquest. See Nash's Worcestershire.

Edwin, Earl of Mercia, held the lordship of Dudley before the Conquest. In 1071 he was slain by the Normans and his Dudley estate was given to William Fitz Ausculph or Ansculf. Domesday book says, "the said William holds Dudley and there is his castle." This date was the 14th year of William, A.D. 1080. It is probable that Fitz Ausculph left a daughter, who inherited the Castle and carried it to one of the Paganels. Fulke Paganel held the estate soon after Fitz Ausculph's time, and was succeeded by his son Ralph, who sided with Maud against King Stephen. Ralph Paganel had six sons, the eldest of whom was Gervase, who inherited Dudley, and founded the Priory about 1161, as has been related in another place. King Henry II. demolished the Castle in 1175 because Gervase Paganel helped this king's rebellious son Henry.

Gervase, by his wife Isabell, had only a son Robert, who died young, s. p., and Hawyse, sister of Gervase, became his heir. She married John de Somery, and had a son Ralph de Somery, son and heir in 1194, who died 1208. His son Wm. Perceval de Somery was heir, and dying 1222, left his son Nicholas, heir, who died 1229 and left the inheritance to his uncle Roger. About 1262 Roger de Somery "began to make a castle of his manor house at Dudley." He was a warrior and the king gave him license to castellate his manor house. He died 1273.

After two more Baron de Somerys the Castle was carried by Margaret de Somery to John de Sutton as before related. John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, obtained the castle by purchase, about 1538, and made great improvements to it. But Queen Mary gave it back to the Suttons. After three more generations of Suttons it was carried to the Ward family by Frances, daughter and heiress of Sir Ferdinando Dudley alias Sutton. In the Civil war it was held for the king, till May 1646, when Col. Levison surrendered it to the Parliamentarians, who soon made it untenable and reduced it to a defenceless condition. It has remained a ruin ever since. The only building preserved is the keep. Under the keep were the vaults where prisoners were confined. There was also a dungeon under the chapel. The keep originally had four towers flanked with spacious curtains. This mighty edifice was the stronghold of the fortress and the last resort of the besieged. Its walls are pierced with port holes, and its difficult entrance was by an arched gateway, under a formidable portcullis. The ruined buildings on the east side of the court contained many apartments, gateways, sally ports, towers, halls, and colonnades. The old mouldering ruins are covered with moss and vines. The shape of the court yard is an irregular oblong, and occupies about an acre of ground. The castle grounds are about sixty acres in extent. The garrison well is six feet in diameter and 108 feet deep, and always nearly full of pure water, but is now kept covered under ground.

CHILDS.

HANNAH M. DUDLEY (David,⁶ Thomas,⁵ Thomas,⁴ William,³ Gov. Joseph,² Gov. Thomas¹) (See page 451), married Albert Childs, Dec. 3, 1856, and they have two children, viz. :

I. ALBERT WALTER, born April 11, 1861, married Elizabeth L. Bradlee, of Boston, Feb. 7, 1887, and they have one child, David Bradlee, born in Kansas City, Mo., March 12, 1889.

II. FREDERICK TRACY, born April 16, 1866.

REFERENCE TO ROBERT DUDLEY, EARL OF LEICESTER, IN THE LONDON RECORDS.

THE Remembrancia, which extend 1579-1664, are original records belonging to the Corporation of London, and are so called because they are in the custody of an officer called the Remembrancer. The Corporation printed, for presents only, a handsome volume of 625 pages as a catalogue raisonné of the collections, and a copy Chamber of London, the Treasury of the City, practically the City. Hence the Treasurer is called the Chamberlain.

July 12, 1582.—Robert Earl of Leicester, wrote to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London, stating that the Lord Mayor and Aldermen had, at his request, granted to his servant and solicitor, Richard Sutton, of Lincoln's Inn, a Citizen, the reversion and next avoidance of the office of Common Serjeant, or of one of the Judges or under Sheriffs in the Sheriffs' Court, which of them should first become vacant, and requesting the Common Council to grant their consent thereto.—Remembrancia I. 371.

Feb. 19, 1587.—The same Robert wrote to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, stating that his servant Richard Sutton had bought at a great price a lease in reversion of a tenement belonging to the Chamber of London, meaning to make it his dwelling-house, in which lease the City reserved the power to charge a reasonable fine, and requesting them to deal favorably with his servant for such fine.—Rememb. I. 581.

Undated but c. 1587.—The Lord Mayor writes to the Earl acknowledging his letter on behalf of Mr. Sutton, and informing him that the Common Council, out of special regard to him, had fixed the fine for renewal at fourscore pounds, £40 to be paid down, and the other £40 at £20 per annum.—Remb. I. 582.

THE LADY DOUGLAS SHEFFIELD DUDLEY.

This lady was the mother of Sir Robert Dudley, son of the Earl of Leicester, Queen Elizabeth's favorite. She was the eldest daughter of Lord William Howard of Effingham, eldest son of Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk. She was married first to John Sheffield, second, Baron Sheffield, by whom she had two children. Lord Sheffield died in 1569. Their children were:

i. EDMUND, successor to his father, and a distinguished man in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, Earl of Mulgrave, and Knight of the Garter under King James I.

ii. ELIZABETH, who was married to Thomas, Earl of Ormond.

The lady Douglas had three sisters, who were married to noted men:

1, Mary, was married to Edward, Lord Dudley, being his third wife, and after his death she was married to Richard Mompesson, Esq.

2, Frances, married to Edward, Earl of Hertford. She died 1598.

3, Martha, married to Sir George Bouchier, Kt., third son of John, Earl of Bath.

The Lady Douglas was the second wife, as she declared, of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, being married to him at Escher in Surrey, in 1573, the same year that her father, Lord William Howard, died. But Dudley denied this, although he recognized her son, as his "base son," and his brother, Lord Ambrose Dudley, recognized him, as a legitimate son of Leicester. She was married to Sir Edward Stafford of Grafton, after leaving Lord Leicester, and he married Lady Lettice (Knollys) Devereux, Countess dowager of Essex. In 1605, Sir Robert Dudley, the son of Lady Douglas and Lord Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, brought a suit in the Court of Audience of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and got permission to examine witnesses to establish his legitimacy. He did examine the witnesses, and his mother testified, as some writers say [See Lodge's portraits], that she was married to Leicester, but that he, after a while, abused her and compelled her to marry Sir Edward Stafford. But, before the court had given their decision in the case, Lettice, Countess of Leicester, having great influence at the Court of James I., procured an information to be filed by Sir Edward Coke, the King's Attorney General, in the Star Chamber, against Sir Robert Dudley and his friends for a conspiracy, and, upon the petition of Lord Sydney, an order issued out of that court for bringing in all the depositions, sealing them up and depositing them in the council chest. All the evidence also taken in the Star Chamber was locked up and no copies allowed to be taken but by the King's license. Thus ended Sir Robert Dudley's suit.

When we consider that this union between Lady Douglas and Lord Robert Dudley was the marriage of a granddaughter of Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk (who presided as Lord High Steward at the trial and condemnation of John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, father of this Robert Dudley, who was also condemned to death for the same cause), how can we wonder that there should soon have arisen discord and a consequent separation?

Lady Douglas had been brought up, as a Roman Catholic, by the Romish family of Howard, who are papists to this day, while Robert Dudley had stood firm as a rock for the Protestants, and was hated with deadly rage and malice by every papist in the world. It was common for the priests to denounce such marriages as of no binding force unless consecrated by a regular Romish ceremony. What Lady Douglas thought of it we only know by her acts; and her son, born of that marriage, followed her example when he married his third wife in Italy while his second was living in England.

I have no further details of the life of Lady Douglas while living as the wife of Sir Edward Stafford. As to her being compelled to marry Stafford, it seems very doubtful that he would have accepted her under such circumstances. Much of her testimony is only known by hearsay. All the papers in that case of her son have never since been found.

JOSEPH W.⁷ DUDLEY, Esq. (*Col. Joseph,*⁶ *William,*⁸ *Thomas,*⁴ *Hon. William,*³ *Gov. Joseph,*² *Gov. Thomas*¹) was town treasurer and tax collector of Roxbury for many years, a man of intelligence and noted integrity.

He said to me in 1847, as my written memorandum bears witness: "I hope you will find the Biography of the Dudley Family, which was in manuscript, and was sent by my father in 1816 or 1817, that is, about 20 years since, to Samuel Williams, banker, of London, Eng. Williams having died, his effects went to Wiggins of London." See Wiggin Genealogy.

LADY DOUGLAS SHEFFIELD, Second Wife of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, K. G., etc.

Col. Joseph,⁶ being the eldest son of his father, who was eldest son of the eldest son, back to Gov. Joseph, who entailed his real estate in the old English fashion, as his Will shows, had a claim to vast quantities of land, which his father had never obtained possession of in his short life. The land had become more valuable since the Revolution, and he was told by the lawyers that he might recover it; but he had little money to carry on suits at law. However, the lawyers, for an exorbitant promise and security by mortgages, brought the suits for him and obtained judgments in his favor. Harrison Gray Otis was one of his Attorneys. They got lands in Roxbury for their pay, and he got lands in the country towns. They, of course, had things their own way, and took the lion's share. Col. Joseph bought the claims of the other heirs. I have not investigated the Court records to learn how all things were done; but I have seen the records of one case between Lieut. Thomas and Paul Dudley vs. Col. Joseph and his brothers and sisters, in which the judgment was for defendants. This was Paul, who afterwards went to Milford, Me. After Col. Joseph had recovered his lands, he became very pompous and extravagant. He would make great feasts for his friends and boon companions, and drink excessively. He would drive a team of four white horses with splendid coach and liveried lackies. But this did not last long. He was too lordly for his income, and went out like a rocket's blaze. Then he doffed all his proud array and put on a butcher's frock, driving about in a meat cart, and his children went to work at trades or whatever they could find to do. Joseph W. told me he learned the tanner's trade. His father, he said, had lost his fortune, his family records and his pride.

HON. JASON HENRY⁸ DUDLEY (Jonathan,⁷ Jacob,⁶ Samuel Paul,⁵ Stephen,⁴ Stephen,³ Samuel,² *Thomas*¹), senator from District No. 1, N. H., son of Jonathan and Minerva (Armstrong) Dudley, was born at Hanover, Nov. 24, 1842. He is a descendant in the eighth generation from Gov. Thomas Dudley of Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Jason H. Dudley's early education was acquired in the Hanover common schools; this was supplemented by private tutors. In the fall of 1858 he entered the Chandler Scientific School, and in 1859, became a member of the freshmen class of Dartmouth College, and graduated in the class of 1862. During his collegiate course he taught a select school at Cornish Flat, in the fall of 1861. After graduating, he went to Colebrook as principal of Colebrook Academy, which he did not find in a very prosperous condition. For three years he threw into the development of this school all the forces of his energetic nature, and brought up the attendance from forty to nearly one hundred pupils, by his fidelity, enthusiasm, and thorough fitness for his work. During this time he became a student of law under Hon. William S. Ladd. In the fall of 1865 he went to Danville, Vt., and had charge of Phillips Academy for a year, continuing his legal studies with Hon. Bliss N. Davis. In the fall of 1866 he conducted the academy at West Randolph, Vt., pursuing the study of law with Hon. Edmund Weston while there. In December, 1867, he was admitted to the bar at Chelsea, Vt. He then settled in Colebrook, and entered into partnership with Mr. James I. Parsons in the practice of law, under the firm name of Dudley & Parsons, taking the business of Judge Ladd who had removed to Lancaster. This partnership continued two years, when Mr. Parsons disposed of his interest to Mr. Dudley. Since then he has successfully practised alone, with the exception of four years, from April, 1878, to May, 1882, when D. C. Remich was associated with him as Dudley & Remich. Mr. Dudley was superintendent of schools at Colebrook for several years; has been a member of the board of trustees of Colebrook Academy since 1872, and its chairman for many years; has served as town clerk for three years; he was elected county solicitor in 1878, and re-elected in 1880, '82, '84, and '86, holding this important office longer than any other man in the state under the elective system. He is one of the trustees of the State Normal School at Plymouth. He was a member of the House of Representatives from Colebrook in 1889, and took a prominent part in the deliberations of that body. He is a member of the Grafton and Coös Bar Association and of the Dartmouth Alumni Association, and belongs to Excelsior Lodge, No. 73, I. O. O. F. of Colebrook, and is also a member of the Knights of Pythias.

Elected senator of his district by a handsome majority in November, 1890, he was made chairman of the committee on the Revision of the Laws, although a member of the minority party, and does his full share in looking after the public interests as a senator.

Believing fully in the principles of the Democratic party, he has been, and is, energetic, fearless, and zealous in maintaining its integrity and influence; stands in the front rank of its active workers in the "Northern District," and is a prominent factor in the politics of "Upper Coös."

Mr. Dudley married, September 22, 1869, Lucy A., daughter of Dr. Austin and Aurelia (Bissell) Bradford, of Vergennes, Vt., a descendant in the eighth generation from Governor William Bradford of Plymouth Colony. Children,—Allen B., born June 18, 1871; William H., born April 13, 1873, died July 2, 1876.

Mr. Dudley's success as a lawyer is due not only to his natural and acquired ability, but to his vigorous and efficient action in the understanding of his causes. He is a peacemaker instead of a promoter of strife, and believes that a suit is best won when justice is attained and every person has his rights firmly secured to him. He generously takes his full share of all necessary burdens, and is public-spirited in that he does everything in his power to advance all public improvements. His official life has tended to strengthen his naturally fine intellectual powers, and his standing is assured among the members of the Coös County Bar. In every work committed to his hand, in public and private life, Mr. Dudley has labored with diligence, perseverance, and efficiency, and wholesome practical results testify to the value of his services.

Hon. A. S. Batchellor, of Littleton, thus characterizes his friend:

"Mr. Dudley is square, genial, approachable, faithful to his friends, one who has made the best of his opportunities, a man of sagacity in affairs, a wise judge of character. These qualities he has combined with well directed industry. He has taken a prominent position in public affairs on his merits: and he has maintained himself in prominent positions in northern New Hampshire, and more recently in the general concerns of the state, by proving himself a man who is always true to the trusts confided to him: and he is all this without ever losing a friend by any false word or unfair act. These qualities have made him conspicuous and popular in social, political, business, and professional circles. He is capable of graceful and appropriate expression in prose and verse, on occasions where these qualities are in demand. His efforts in verse are often commended; at the same time, in serious argument, he is skilful in marshalling facts, and forcible and effective in their presentation before any tribunal."—Granite Monthly.

FRANCES (DUDLEY) WENYEVE.

THERE is an inscription on a memorial stone in the Parish Church of Brettenham, Suffolk, Eng., to Frances (wife of George Wenyeve, Esq., one of the daughters and co-heirs of Edward Dudley of Clapton, Northamptonshire, Esq.), who departed this life, March 23, 1658.

THOMAS DUDLEY ESQ., OF LONDON.

ON the Docket of the Signet Office in the Public Record Office, London, Eng., March, 1592, Thomas Dudley, Esq., has a protection granted him to continue 12 months, cost of it 6s. 8d; and May, 1593, he has another to continue a year, cost 6s. 8d.

This was probably the brother of John, of Stoke Newington. Their father was Thomas, of Yanwath, Esq.

1607-8. Ambrose Dudley, gent., had a lease of the manor of Chopwell in co. Durham for 21 years, and a lease of a coal pit.

FERDINANDO DUDLEY OF DUDLEY CASTLE.

ACCORDING to the Docket of the Signet Office, April, 1613, Ferdinando Dudley, Esq., had a license to travel three years, with two servants and two horses.

LONDON DUDLEYS.

THERE was a John Dudley at London, in 1603, who was called gent. (of St. Dionis church), called also, "free of the cloth workers." He had a son Andrew. Another John Dudley was of St. Dunstan's, gent., and had Thomas, baptized May 30, 1591, and William, baptized Aug. 27, 1594.

POST MORTEM INQUISITION.—Thomas Dudley, gent.

GUILD HALL. City of London, 6 Sept. 1623, 20 James I. After the death of Thomas Dudley, gent., the jurors say that the aforesaid Thomas Dudley was seized of eleven messuages and four gardens lying in the parish of St. Olave, pertaining to the late dissolved priory of Christ Church, London, and also of another messuage in the parish of St. Olave, in Silver Street, aforesaid. The aforesaid Thomas Dudley died 20 November, 35 Eliz. (A.D. 1592). Lucy, Bridget, Mirabel, Susanna and Barbara Dudley, at the time of the death of aforesaid Thomas Dudley, were his sisters and co-heirs, but of what age they were we are altogether ignorant.

THE BARONS OF DUDLEY.

THE Wm. Salt Society's "Collections for a History of Staffordshire, Eng.," vols. 9 and 10, contain recent data and criticisms by H. Sydney Gracebrook, Esq., on the Dudleys, their ancestors and descendants. The old histories and original records are copied, criticised, compared, &c. After studying these things I have drawn facts and conclusions as follows about the barons of Dudley. "1st B." means first baron, "2nd B." second baron, &c.

1ST B. JOHN DE SUTTON,¹ son of Richard of Worksop, Notts, Aston le Walls and Byfield, Northamptonshire, married Margaret de Somery, sister of Baron John de Somery above mentioned, and thus acquired Dudley Castle. He was probably summoned to Parliament in right of his wife, as there was a John de Sutton summoned Dec. 26, 1323. His mother was Isabella, daughter and heiress of William Patrick, lord of a moiety of Malpas, and her husband Richard Sutton was called Lord of Malpas and Shocklach, co. Chester, and he bore a cross patonce or flory. Such was his seal in 1323.

John de Sutton,¹ in 1319, was a warrior in the retinue of his brother-in-law John de Somery, Baron of Dudley. He was the first Sutton that was Baron of Dudley. He was alive in 1329, and was called baron in right of his wife.

2D B. JOHN DE SUTTON,² the second baron of Dudley, or lord of Dudley, was engaged in the Scotch war, 1333, in the retinue of Ralph Basset of Drayton. He was a knight in 1338, and was in the King's service in 1347 and then called "Lord of Duddeleye." In 1350 John de Sutton, baron of Dudley, was sent as one of a relieving force from England to St. Jean de Angely, and was summoned to advise with the King, as to the safety of the kingdom. In 1352, John de Sutton² of Dudley was one of the commissioners then appointed to array archers in Staffordshire. In 1359 John de Sutton, chevalier, was in the retinue of William de Bohun, Earl of Northampton, then proceeding to France, and died in November of that year. He had been summoned to Parliament Feb. 25, 16 Edward III. as John de Sutton de Duddeley. This was the only summons he ever had, although he lived 17 years afterwards, nor was his son or grandson ever summoned to Parliament, says Courthope in his edition of Sir H. Nicolas's Synopsis of the Peerage. The tenure of the Castle of Dudley rendered the tenant liable to serve in Parliament if the King thought proper to issue his writ of summons. But no writ was issued again till 1440. 18 Hen. VI. From this time till the time of Henry VIII. writs of summons were continuously issued to the Lords of Dudley. The Barony of Dudley was then a territorial dignity. The last writ was that of 18 Hen. VI. which would determine who inherits the dignity, as Mr. G. thinks, that is, when the abeyance of the Barony shall be terminated.

The tenure of the Castle of Dudley did render the tenant liable to serve in Parliament, if the King thought proper to issue his writ of summons, although some antiquaries denied it.

The Castle of Dudley was in the hands of Baron John Dudley's² widow Isabella till 1397, and that was the reason that this John Dudley's son and grandson did not hold the tenure while Isabella, the widow, survived.

The mere issue of a writ of summons to Parliament to an individual was not intended to create in him a hereditary dignity. It was regarded rather as a burden or duty incident to the tenure of their lands. At the post-mortem inquisitions taken on the death of this Baron John de Sutton II. the juries found that he died 23rd November, 1359, and that his next heir was his son John de Sutton,³ who was then of full age. The juries also found that he held nothing of the King in capite on the day of his death, but that jointly with his wife Isabella, he held the vill. of Dudley, the Castle of Dudley, the manors of Sedgley, King Swinford, Rowley-Somery, Penn, etc., of the King in capite per baroniam, and by fine "ex dono et feoffimento Stephen de Dudley, et Johis de Cole-shull, capell." He also held Aston in Northamptonshire of the Earl of Hereford by the service of one knights' fee. By Isabella, he had three children, viz.:

3^D B. JOHN DE SUTTON,³ and Thomas Sutton, who was a warrior under the Black Prince in France in 1369. It is not known what became of this Thomas Sutton. Isabella, wife of John de Sutton II., was daughter of John de Charlton, Lord of Powyis, by Hawyse, his wife, who was sister and heiress of Griffin ap Owen, surnamed de la Pole, Lord of Powys. Isabella was married to John de Sutton II. before 1329, and, after his death, remarried one Sir Richard Dudley, Knight. She held the castle and lands of Dudley; and Sir Richard Dudley, her second husband, in her right, and by the courtesy of England, styles himself "Richard de Dudleye, Seigneur de Dudley." in a charter "don a Duddley le Samady p'chain apres les utaves de Sente Michel l'Archangell. Pan de regne le Roy Edward tierce, puis la conq'st trente quatre" (1360), whereby he and Isabelle sa femme "grant and confirm to Thomas de Alleford, for the term of the life of Isabella, certain lands in King Swinford which she had by the grant and feoffment of "Mons^r de Sutton."

To this deed are appended two seals, one of which exhibits the two lions passant of Dudley with a lion's head in a ducal coronet for crest, and is circumscribed, "S. Johannis" and the other (non-armorial) shows the figure of an angel. The seals are in trick. These things are from Philpot's Collections, in Lands. MS. 269, folio 172.

Richard Dudley and Elizabeth, his wife, held the manor of Essington, co. Stafford, and conveyed it to Sir John Swynnerton, who died about 1379. Elizabeth was often written for Isabella in old documents.

Isabella died April 10, 1397. The post-mortem inquisitions say that she held the Castle of Dudley and the manors of Sedgley, Himley, Swinford, etc., and certain lands in Tybington, also lands in Gloucestershire in company with her husband Richard de Duddeley, chevalier, which lands, after the death of said Richard and Isabella, were to revert to John de Sutton, chevalier, and Joan his wife, and the heirs of said John. The jury also said that Isabella died the 10th of April, second year of King Richard II., and that John de Sutton is next heir of Isabella, viz., the son of John's son John, son of aforesaid Isabella, and next heir of aforesaid John de Sutton. So that it is plain that Isabella's heir was her great-grandson John de Sutton, and not her grandson as usually stated.

The fact appears in one of the post-mortem inquisitions that Isabella had by Sir Richard de Duddeley a son Richard, their heir; and John, son of Sir Richard de Duddeley, is mentioned in a grant preserved at Wrottesley, dated 1382-3. This John Dudley, Mr. Grazebrook says, was the "undoubted ancestor of the Dudleys of Sedgley, and, I think also of the Dudleys of Clapton in Northamptonshire, both which families bore for their arms Azure, a chev. between three lions' heads erased or (sometimes argent)."

MARGARET DE SUTTON (daughter of 2d B. John de Sutton) was married to Sir Roger Hillary.

3RD B. JOHN DE SUTTON³ was of full age at the death of his father, November, 1359. He sold parts of Malpas Barony in 1367. He was a knight and in the French war in 1369, and died soon after, as his widow Joan had married Henry ap Griffith in 1370. His first wife was named Katherine, as stated in a document of 1361. Joan, his last wife, was daughter and heiress of John de Clinton of Coleshill, co. Warwick, sometime wife of Sir John de Mountfort. After Sutton's death she is, by Dugdale, said to have married Sir Henry Griffith of Wichnor, co. Stafford.

4TH B. JOHN DE SUTTON,⁴ the only child of John,³ as far as shown, was under age when his father died. His wardship and marritagium were granted to Richard Fitz Alan, Earl of Arundel, who sold them in 1382 for 350 marks to Philip le Dispenser, Lord of Carlington. He is said to have married 1st, Alice, dau. of Philip le Dispenser, and secondly, Joan.

He was born about 1361, at Coleshill in Arden, an estate inherited by his mother Joan, in the county of Warwick. He died March 10, 1396.

5TH B. JOHN DE SUTTON⁵ was born in or about 1380. He was 17 in 1397, and 21 in 1401 when the inquisition of his great grandmother Isabella was held. He had livery of his lands and Dudley Castle in the last named year, but died in Sept., 1406, in his 26th year.

He held the manors of Sedgley, Kinswinford and Rowley-Somery in Staffordshire and also Himley and Over Penn in the same county as members of Dudley Castle. He also held lands in Tipton and the manor of Prestwood in the forest of Kinver.

He married Constance, daughter of Sir Walter Blount of Barton, co. Derby, who was slain at Shrewsbury Battle in 1402.

He was a knight. His widow Constance (Blount) died in 1432, at which time her son John, heir of Sir John de Sutton, was 37 and more. Besides this son John there were two other sons, viz., Thomas Sutton alias Dudley, and Humphrey Dudley who married Eleanor, daughter and coheir of Sir Robert Roos, fourth son of Thomas Lord Roos of Hamlake.

6TH B. JOHN DE SUTTON alias DUDLEY,⁶ K.G., was born in 1401, and married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Berkeley, of Beverstone, co. Gloucester, knight (son of Thomas Lord Berkeley by his second wife Catherine, daughter of Sir John Clivedon), and widow of Edward Charlton Lord Powys.

He was summoned to Parliament as "Jobanni Sutton de Dudley, Militi," from 15th Feb. 18 H. VI. 1416, to Sept. 3 H. VII., 1487, and was elected a Knight of the Garter before 23d April, 1459. He was a prominent figure in the reigns of Henry VI. and Edward IV.

In his will he calls himself "John Dudley, Knt., Lord Dudley." The date is Aug. 17, 1487, and it is registered in P.C.C. 8 miles. He died Sept. 30, 1487.

The arms on his seal are the two lions passant, but on either side is a smaller shield, that on the dexter side being a cross patonce or flory, and that on the sinister side being a blue lion rampant, which the herald, Glover, probably intended for Sutton's paternal coat; but, if so, the lion should be green.

In a roll of arms of temp. E. II., Sire Richard de Sottone bears "de or, a un Lyon rampaund de vert." Erdeswick said, Glover, Somerset Herald did cut off one of Dudley's lions' tails, because the Warsop Suttons bore the single tailed lion.

Dugdale says that John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, bore the lion rampant, by him assumed for Sutton's coat.

By Elizabeth, his wife, John Lord Dudley⁶ had the following children:

1. EDMUND SUTTON alias DUDLEY,⁷ heir apparent, died v. p. He was a knight.
2. JOHN DUDLEY⁷ of Hatherington, Sussex, "from whom the Earls of Warwick and Leicester (says Dugdale) did derive their descent."
3. WILLIAM DUDLEY,⁷ Bishop of Durham, 1476-83.
4. OLIVER DUDLEY,⁷ slain at Edgecote, near Banbury, July 25, 1471, at the same time his brother-in-law fell, son of Lord Latimer, and both were buried in Beauchamp Chapel, at Warwick.
5. MARGARET,⁷ married to Sir George Longueville, of Little Billing, co. Northampton. She was second wife and died 1457.
6. JANE,⁷ wife of Thomas Manwaring, of Ightfield, co. Chester.
7. ELEANOR,⁷ first married to Henry Beaumont of Wenedeshury, who died Nov. 16, 1472, and secondly to George Stanley of West Bromwich.

Here the fiction of the low origin of Edmund Dudley, Esq., the great lawyer of Henry VII., is repeated, and what Dugdale did about it and what Sir Philip Sydney said. Says Mr. G., to my mind there is really no doubt that John Dudley of Hatherington was (as asserted on the monument of Ambrose, Earl of Warwick, at Warwick), "Second Sonne to John Lord Dudley, Knight of the Garter."

Here is the evidence of the wills of John and Oliver Dudley, sons of Sir John, Lord Dudley, K. G. :

John Dudley's will is dated Oct. 1, 1500: proved June 26, 1501. Two copies of it are recorded on the books at Somerset House, in Register Moone ff. 19 and 23.

"I John Dudeley, of Hatheryngton in Sussex, Esquyer," and he wishes to be buied "in the College Church of Arundel, in my tombe of marbill there, where Elizabeth, late my wife, lyeth buried."

He gives vestments, etc. to numerous priests, churches and monasteries, and (inter alia) a vestment with a "Scoecheon of myn armys and my wiff's on the Same."

"I will that myn executors doo fournysh my tombe wt myn armys and my wiff's, and wt a conveyet scription for her and me thereupon to be sett." His executors to make "a cheyne of fyne gold of the value of x li., and to deliver it to Anne Dudley, my daughter-in-law, to the entent She shall pray for me;" such chain, after Anne's death, to "remayne to litell Elizabeth Dudeley, doughter to my sone Edmond." To his said son Edmund Dudley, "my cheyne of gold which wayeth xxxiiij li." Legacies to his servants, George Dynge, John Sharpe, and others.

He desires his executors to cause two honest priests, being bachelors of divinity, or "well spedde towards being bachelors in the Universitie of Oxenforde," to sing masses for the space of seven years for the souls of "William late Bishop of Dunelme, my fader and moder's souls, my wife's soule, myne owne and all Cristen Soules," and for the prosperity of Sir Reynold Braye, Knt., and for the prosperity, etc., of my son Edmund Dudley, Anne his wife, and their children. "And if my newew Thomas Dudley will take upon him, I will he be oon of the ij preestes; and that every of the said preestes shall have yerely during the said vij. yeres, and doying the charge above rehearsed, vj li. xiijs. iiijd. by the yere." He also desires prayers for the soul of William (sic) Bremshot, my wife's father, the soul of my brother Oliver Dudley, the soul of John Draper, late of London, skinner, the soul of John of the Avery (or Ewry), and the priest of the Wrekin. "I freely and hooly give and bequeath to my saide sonne Edmund Dudley towards his costs and charges with his (sic) too yonger sonnes John and Peris; the disposition of my (sic) which ij. sonnes

I oonly remytte to the discrecon of my said soune Edmund." He appoints as executors, "my well beloved friends the Pryor of Tortington, my son Edmond Dudley, and my kynde neybor John Amys."

John⁷ Dudley was sheriff of Surrey and Essex in 2 R. III., 1481-5, and about the same date he had a grant from the King of of the Stewardship of all the manors, lands and tenements of the Duchy of Lancaster within the counties of Berks and Hants. He was M.P. from the Co. of Sussex 17th Edward IV. to meet 16 Jan. 1477-8.—See Off. Return.

This John⁷ Dudley, Esq., and his Bremshot wife, produced the most noted and most interesting house, or line, of all the Dudley family. The history of their times is full of their deeds and their fame. The names of his children have been mentioned as they occur in the father's will.

Oliver⁷ Sutton alias Dudley, calls himself "Oliver de Dudley, son of the most noble Lord Sir John Dudley, Knt." His will is dated July 22, 1469, three days before the battle of Edgecote, and is proved by his wife Katherine and Wm. Dudley, afterwards Bishop of Durham, called "Mr. Wm. Dudley, my brother."

His wife's mother was Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Richard Beauchamp, late Earl of Warwick; and she asked him in her will to be buried in St. Mary's Chapel in the Collegiate Church at Warwick, which her father had caused to be made. But Oliver Dudley's wife "desired" to be buried at Stowe, in the parish church. Oliver Dudley died s. p.

Sir Edmund⁷ Sutton alias Dudley's first wife was Joice Tiptoft, sister of John Tiptoft, Earl of Worcester, who was made Lieutenant of Ireland in 1370, and had Edmund Dudley, Esq., for his Deputy, for which service Edmund was recompensed with the Stewardship of the manor of Aberbury. This John Tiptoft, K.G., was beheaded in 1470, because he had been an adherent of Edward. Joice Tiptoft's mother was second daughter and co-heiress of Edward Charlton Lord Powys, K.G., by Lady Alinor Holland, widow of Roger Mortimer, Earl of March, and daughter of Thomas Holland, Earl of Kent, which Thomas Holland was son of Thomas Lord Holland, K.G., and Earl of Kent (in right of his wife), by Joan Plantagenet, the "fair maid of Kent," granddaughter of Edward the First, King of England. Their children were:

1. EDWARD⁸ SUTTON alias DUDLEY, successor to his grandfather as Baron Dudley in 1487, being then 28 or 30 years of age. He was made a Knight of the Bath, Nov. 25, 1485.—See Metcalfe's Knights. He was summoned to Parliament from the 12th Aug., 7 H. VII., 1492, to 3 Nov., 21 H. VIII., 1529, and was elected a Knight of the Garter in 1509. He died Jan. 31, 1532. His eldest son and heir was John Sutton, Knt., Lord Dudley, aged 36 and more at the time of his father Edward's death.
2. JOHN⁸ DUDLEY, who had Aston le Walls by gift of his brother Sir Edward, Lord Dudley, K.G. Baker says he had grants from the crown of the manors of Apeltre and West Wardon, and lands in Clipping Wardon, Hinton, Egdon, Culworth Boddington, Abbey lands, etc. He married a daughter of Charroll, and had a son Richard, who died s. p., and two daughters, viz.: Margery, married to John Butler, and Jane, wife of Francis Snell of Hampsted Marshall, co. Berks. Butler had Aston, which, after three generations, went by an only daughter and heiress to the Plowden family.
3. JOICE⁸ SUTTON alias DUDLEY, married Sir Edward Benstead, Knight, of Bennington, Herts.
By second wife, Maud Clifford :
4. OLIVER⁸ DUDLEY, died s. p.
5. JOHN⁸ DUDLEY, died s. p.
6. ROBERT⁸ DUDLEY of Shrewsbury. He was aged 66 in 1533. He said then, in a deposition, that he had lived at Shrewsbury over 20 years, and was brother to the late Lord Dudley, grandfather to the Lord Powys (Edward Grey). His will, May 20, 1538, was proved May 28, 1539. He mentions his brother, George Dudley, clerke, and Lord Dudley; but no other Dudleys. His first wife was Elizabeth. But the surname is not known. He had no issue by either of his two wives.
7. RICHARD⁸ DUDLEY, a priest. He was of Oriel College, Oxford, M.A., and sometime proctor of the University, and was sometime styled Doctor. But he is not known to have been a D.D. He founded two Fellowships at Oriel in 1529. He was Chancellor of the Cathedral Church of Salisbury, and incumbent of Brington, Northamptonshire, and St. Martin's, Birmingham, being presented to the last in 1501 by his half-brother, Lord Dudley. To Brington he was presented in 1513 by Sir John Spenser. He had much church preferment. His inquisition p. m. was taken in 1536. The jury say that he died June 5, 1636; and his next heir was John Dudley, son of Baron Dudley. His will is in Latin, and is quoted without any translation.

8. THOMAS⁸ DUDLEY, who married Grace, daughter of and co-heir of Lancelot Thirkeld of Yanwath, in Westmoreland County, and had the manor of Yanwath with his wife.
 9. GEORGE⁸ DUDLEY, LL.D., a priest. Rector of Aston le Walls, where he was buried, says Baker, Jan. 6, 1563. His will is dated July 28, 1561, proved in the P.C.C. Dec. 27, 1572. It mentions no Dudleys.
 10. WALTER⁸ DUDLEY, ob. s. p.
 11. JANE⁸, married Sir Wm. Middleton of Stockeld, co. York, son and heir of Sir Piers Middleton. She died in 1500.
 12. ALICE⁸ DUDLEY, married Sir John Ratcliffe of the Derwentwater family. He died Feb. 2, 1527. She made her will March 31, 1554; proved the next July.
 13. DOROTHY⁸ DUDLEY, married Richard Wrottesley of Wrottesley, co. Stafford. She died 1517.
 14. MARGARET⁸ DUDLEY, second wife of Sir John Musgrave of Hartley, Knt.

7TH B. EDWARD SUTTON alias DUDLEY,⁸ Lord Dudley, K.G., the son and heir of Sir Edmund Sutton alias Dudley, and grandson and heir of Sir John Sutton alias Dudley, K.G., had the following fifteen children :

1. JOHN,⁹ "Lord Quondam," successor to his father.
2. EDWARD,⁹ ob. s. p.
3. THOMAS,⁹ of whom nothing is known. He might have been ancestor of our New England Governor Dudleys, as they bore the same arms. But Mr. Grazebrook denies this.
4. ARTHUR,⁹ a priest, according to Harwood's History of Litchfield, was appointed a prebendary of Colwich in 1521, and of Litchfield, Nov. 29, 1531. An Arthur Dudley was incumbent of St. Michael's, Coventry, in 1537, and parson of Malpas about the same time. Perhaps they were not all the same Arthur. He succeeded Mr. Harley at Worcester, who, in 1552, was elevated to the See of Hereford, and Rev. Arthur was succeeded in 1576 by Dr. Carrington. Lord Quondam accused Rev. Arthur, about 1536, of stealing his deeds and charters and unjustly detaining them. A Mr. John Hewitt in a paper relates that the relics of St.

Chad were taken from Litchfield Cathedral by a prebendary named Lord Dudley, and confided by him to two ladies, his kinswomen of the same noble house, inhabitants of Russell Hall, a house near the village of Dudley. This must refer to this Rev. Arthur Dudley and Geoffrey Dudley's daughters.

5. GEORGE⁹ DUDLEY (Glover says).
6. GEOFFREY⁹ DUDLEY, of Russell's Hall, Dudley, called in the Staffordshire Visitation of 1614 (Dickinson pedigree), "younges sonne to the Lord Dudley."
7. ELEANOR⁹ the third wife of Charles Somerset Lord Herbert, afterwards Earl of Worcester, K.G. He died April 15, 1526, and by his will, dated 1524, left 600 marks in plate to Eleaor his wife.
8. MARGARET⁹ married to John Grey Lord Powys, who died in 1504, aged 19, leaving by her a son Edward, then aged 1 year.—See Feudal Barons of Powys, by Morris C. Jones, p. 87.
9. JANE⁹ married to Thomas Fiennes (who died v. p.), son and heir of Thomas, Lord Daere.
10. KATHERINE⁹ the second wife of Sir George Gresley of Colton. (See Visit. of Staff. 1583.)
11. ELIZABETH⁹ first married to Sir John Huddleston of Sawston, Knt., and secondly to Thomas Butler of Bewsey, co. Lancaster. ×
12. JOICE⁹ married to John Leighton, esquire of the body to King Henry VIII., who died in 1532.
13. DOROTHY⁹ Yorkshire Visit. 1563-4.
14. WILLIAM⁹ died young, Dec. 22, 1504; buried in Himley Church.
15. CONSTANCE⁹ died young, March 15, 1501; buried in Himley Church. In Himley Church is tricked a Shield Quarterly 1 and 4, Somery and Sutton (the Malpas Cross) quarterly; 2 and 3, Charlton Quartering Tiptoite.

This inscription is interesting as showing that Edward Lord Dudley had assumed the title of Lord Powys in right of his maternal descent from the second daughter and coheirress of Edward Charlton, Baron Powys.

GEOFFREY DUDLEY⁹ the sixth child of this last family, was the ancestor of the Dudleys of Russell's Hall, Dudley. He married Eleanor, one of the natural daughters of Sir Gilbert Talbot, Knt., of Grafton, co. Worcester, in whose will, dated Oct. 19, 1542, and proved June 15, 1543, she is thus referred to: "To Eleanor Dudley, wife unto Jeffrey Dudley, Esquier oon of my daughters, over and besides those landes and rentes wthin the lordship of Feckenham, which I have geven unto the said Jeffrey and Eleanor, all the Stuffe of her chamber which she lyeth in, and a gown of unwatered chamlot, and six poundes xiijs. iiijd.; and to my son Dudley a gowne of black velvet." Geoffrey was buried at St. Edmunds, Dudley, June 26, 1571. His will is dated June, 13 Eliz., 1571, and proved at Worcester, June, 1572. The original, preserved in the district Registry at Worcester, is much decayed, and partly illegible. He calls himself "Jeffrey Dudley, Esq.," and desires to be buried in the netcher church of Dudley (St. Edmund's), "so near to my daughter as may be." To "Elynare my wife the house called "Russells" wherein I now dwell, for her life. The children of Geoffrey and Eleanor Dudley were :

1. THOMAS,¹⁰ of Russells, buried June 17, 1615. Elizabeth, buried at St. Edmund's, Dudley, Jan. 13, 1570-1.
2. BRIDGETT,¹⁰ baptized at St. Thomas's Church, Dudley, Dec. 4, 1545; married Thomas Wynne, son of Humphrey of Garth, co. Montgomery.
3. KATHERINE,¹⁰ baptized at St. Thomas's, Dudley, June 10, 1548, sole exeeutrix of her mother's will, 1582, and then unmarried. She was after that married to Simon Dickenson of Bradley, near Stafford, and had Edward Dickenson, living in 1614, whose son and heir, Walter, was then aged 4 years.

Thomas¹⁰ Dudley appears to be the gentleman who married Dorothy Lascelles, sister of Sir Bryan Lascelles, of Sturton and Gaytford, son of George Lacelles, as mentioned in Visitation of Notts, 1569 and 1614. His mother, in her will of 1583, mentions his children, as follows :

1. GEOFFREY¹¹ DUDDELEY, her godson, to whom she gives one cow. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Edward, Lord Dudley and Elizabeth Tomlinson, Jan. 29, 1611.
2. ELINOR¹¹ DUDDELEY, her goddaughter, giving her a cow.
3. WILLIAM¹¹ DUDDELEY? giving him two year-old heifers.

Here is confusion and a break in the pedigree, not much being recorded about these Russells Hall and Netherton Dudley families. Maybe the records were destroyed by the Lords of Dudley, who might not have liked to see this legitimate Dudley house so near to Dudley Castle. However, I do not attribute this suggestion to any one but myself. Wills, Post Mortem Inquisitions and Heralds' Visitations, all seem to be wanting from Geoffrey Dudley Esq.'s time. Lord Edward Dudley's son, Rev. Arthur, was not, perhaps, the only one of his house to purloin public documents from their neighbors and rivals.

Mr. Grazebrook says, "The entries at Dudley of baptisms, marriages and burials of persons bearing the surname of Dudley and even Sutton, alias Dudley, are so numerous and so confusing that, in the absence of wills and deeds and other corroborative evidence, I find it absolutely impossible to give a trustworthy account of the branch before us until I reach the beginning of the 17th century."

In regard to several different branches of the Baronial family or clan, who bore their arms, nothing new has been discovered yet. One of these branches is the New Castle and Chopwell line, which bore or, a lion ramp. queue furchée vert, with a crescent for difference; another is that of our Gov. Dudleys. Simon Dudley of Hackney bore two lions passant, within a bordure, granted by the heralds of his time; and still another the house of Lord Quondam's sons Henry and George. Of Thomas Dudley (son of Edward, Lord Dudley and his wife Cecilia Willoughby), nothing is found, but that he existed and might have married, had children, &c. His father was "Lord and K. G.," and Lord Quondam was one of his brothers. His two brothers Edward and William are recorded to have died s. p., but not he; so he probably did have children, and his house was the second house bearing the green lion rampant for Dudley and the red lion rampant for Powys, which his brother Lord Edward bore. They also bore the blue cross of Malpas and the two lions passant in pale, az. of Somery. All but the green lion rampant they inherited from female ancestors, who were heiresses.

I must be careful to explain that Mr. Grazebrook doubts whether the Chopwell Dudleys or the Gov. Dudleys of Massachusetts were of the Baronial line; but I have no such doubts. Mr. G. is inclined to limit the Baronial branch to what he can trace by clear record proof. The records were very few and relate almost entirely to rich and titled persons, or, at least, such as were distinguished for their learning and great works.

As to the ancestry of the Gov. Dudleys, we have made out a prima facie case, that they were of the Baronial line, by the arms they bore undisputed in their time, and by contemporary statements of their families and friends most intimate with them. Now the burden of proof is on those who deny or doubt it, to show that we must be in the wrong and that the fact cannot be as we assert. We shall take great interest in observing how far our opponents succeed in this direction.

I spent a year in England in 1850 studying the original records of the Barons of Dudley and other branches, or families, of the Dudleys. But the search was tedious and costly at that time before the great record societies had published any of their works. Scarcely one herald's visitation had been printed. Now there are good facilities for such investigations—Indexes, State papers, parish records, &c., printed in fine style, and there is often free access to wills and many other original documents. Vast collections are deposited in London favorable to genealogists, and books are plentiful to direct the foreign inquirer.

Let our friends examine the records of London, Westminster, Stoke Newington, Hackney, New Castle on Tyne, Yarmouth, Coventry, Hardwick, Pitchley and Faxton in Northamptonshire, Poynton and Tattersal in Lincolnshire, &c.

Let them look up the military records in London and the records of the Mechanic Guilds, such as the Drapers, Skinners, Merchant Tailors, &c. No Roger Dudley has been yet discovered, except the son of Thomas the draper of Westminster, who could have been the father of Gov. Thomas Dudley. No one has yet answered my query about the Chronicle of Henry IV. of France, translated from the Spanish language by a London author about 1872. In that it was said that two Captain Dudleys were slain at the Battle of Ivry which occurred in 1590. I want to find the book. What were the names of the author and translator?

Gov. Thomas Dudley's lion had not the forked tail, and in his father's day, according to Glover and Erdeswick, it was doubtful whether the Sutton lion had a single or double tail. It was borne both ways by the Dudleys.

Erdeswick says (Harwood's edition), p. 333, that "Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, was the only sufficient man in his time for armory and descent in this land." And again he says,—

"But Glover (Somerset), supposing him" (Lord Dudley), "to descend (as I have said) from Warsope, and that Sutton of Warsope bore the lion, but with one tail, did also cut off one of Dudley's lion's tails."

The Barons of Dudley did descend, as is now well known, from the Suttons of Warsop, Notts.

About 1550 the Heralds' College allowed the green lion rampt.

of Sutton to Sir Richard Sutton,* not of the Baronial family. This lion had the forked tail. Slight variations in form or colors were often borne by persons of the same family. No one in New England or anywhere else ever charged Gov. Thomas Dudley with using his armorial seal. No other citizen here in America used that seal. If he was not of the baronial family, knowing, as he certainly did, that the lion ramp. was the Baronial Dudley ensign, yet put it on his seal with a crescent in due form for difference, then he intended to deceive people; and when hearing that he was called of the Baronial Dudley family, yet did not deny it plainly and positively, then I say he would have acted dishonorably and ought to be denounced as a false pretender.

The last Baron of Dudley, says our English author, was Ferdinando Dudley Lea of Halesowen Grange, Worcestershire, who was summoned to Parliament in 1740, when the title fell into abeyance among his five sisters and co-heirs, in which state it still continues. Mr. Lea enjoyed the title only. The Castle and the old Dudley lands passed to the male heir of the Ward family, whose descendants have been ennobled under the titles of Viscounts and, more recently, Earls of Dudley.

The old Peerage writers, scarcely any of them, agree with each other in regard to the genealogy of the Dudleys and their progenitors of Dudley Castle. Glover, the oldest consulted, wrote in 1581, what is at Brit. Mus. (Harl. MS 6182), as Somerset Herald.

"Some descents of the Dudleys are entirely fictitious. Glover had no information about the Paganel's tenure of Dudley. Erdeswick follows Glover. Dugdale is the great Homer of genealogical writers, but sometimes he nods, and some writers quote his errors."

So writes Mr. Grazebrook.

ATKINS of Maine.

BETSEY⁷ DUDLEY (Nathaniel,⁶ John,⁵ James,⁴ Stephen,³ Rev. Samuel,² *Gov. Thomas*¹), born Jan. 19, 1786, at Raymond, N. H.; married Thomas Atkins, of Mt. Vernon, Me., a native of Cape Cod.—(See his autograph, page 499, No. 4.) He and his brother Charles went from Provincetown, Mass., to Maine, and both had children born at Mt. Vernon. Thomas Atkins was son of Charles, who was born at Truro, but his family settled first at Chatham. He had: 1, Thomas; 2, Charles, who married a Miss Nickerson of Provincetown; 3, Mary, married Rev. Mr. Snelling, ob. s. p.; 4, Betsey, died young; 5, a daughter, married Capt. Barber, of Boston, Mass.*

Aunt Betsey was a woman of strong mind, and wrote sometimes for the press. She was deeply religious, and in her last days became despondent. I saw her in 1843. She then lived alone on her little farm. She said her children slighted and forsook her. When I published my Dudley Genealogies in 1848, she subscribed for the book. After living a widow many years she committed suicide. She had three children:

i. THOMAS,⁸ a tailor and preacher. He was some time Town Clerk of Canaan, Me. He was a good scholar, very active all his life, but a religious zealot. He told me he had been a Deist, and after I knew him he changed his belief many times. He preached at different times for the Methodists, Baptists, Congregationalists, Millerites, Universalists and Episcopalians. He was a strong revivalist, and would help to convert hard, old sinners, by praying and exhorting with fearful zeal. On one occasion, at Canaan, some of the sects united in a protracted meeting, which was kept up for a week or two every night and day. At last they got so excited that Mr. Atkins and others prayed for fire to come down from heaven; and some cried out that they saw the fire in the church; which so frightened all, that they jumped upon the top of the pews and screamed, and several went crazy. Rev. Thomas told me he never really lost his reason but once; but among those whom I knew then and there, were: Silas Barrett, who afterwards hung himself in the insane asylum; he told me he had committed the unpardonable sin. Mary Ann Wilshire, who died in the same asylum; she was a young girl then. Ensign Frye had to be confined for some time. Two others of the Barrett family were off their base for many years afterwards. These persons all lived in one little village, and were at the protracted meetings. Cousin Thomas Atkins was all carried away with Miller Adventism in 1842. He told me he had the evidence of it from mathematical calculation, and showed me his figures, covering a sheet of paper as big as a newspaper. The books of Daniel and Ezekiel were his prime authority; and he said God had confirmed him in the belief, by special revelation to his soul. I replied that it was all a mistake, and he would be ashamed of it sometime. One of his little boys went barefooted in the winter, and I asked him what that was for; to which he answered, that his father said the world would come to an end shortly, and there would be no use for shoes. This was Grenville M., who now lives at Lynn, Mass. As soon as the year 1843 had passed, and the world was not destroyed, cousin Thomas turned Universalist, and preached that doctrine awhile. I have narrated this in as brief a way as possible. It is an experience that ought not to be omitted. Rev. Thomas's brother, Rev. John W. Atkins, was also a Millerite at one time, but he belonged to the Methodist Episcopal church, and was a great preacher of that sect. Rev. Thomas Atkins d. at Farmingdale, Me., Jan. 24, 1867, and was buried with his wife at Canaan, Me. She d. at Canaan, Feb. 9, 1867. Their children were: 1, *Thomas Henry*⁹; 2, Joseph Lucien; 3, John Wesley; 4, Greenville Mellen; 5, Alexander Blanchard; 6, Almira; 7, Francis D.; 8, Sullivan Holman; 9, Lydia Melvina; 10, Charles W.; 11, Lizzie M.; 12, Ellen S.; 13, Frank W.; 14, Emma J.

ii. JOSEPH, Esq., a farmer, of New Sharon, Me., m. 1st, Eliza Blanchard, from Weymouth, Mass.; 2d, Eunice Carr. By the first wife he had: *Irena D.*⁹ b. July 22, 1830; m. Capt. Wm. C. Fuller, of South Yarmouth, Mass., and has a daughter, Emma J.¹⁰ m. David S. Taylor of South Yarmouth, where he keeps a store. He was formerly of Attleboro'. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor have a "son" about 3 years old, bright and smart. By his 2d wife Joseph had: 2, Henry Joseph, b. Feb. 23, 1835, a well educated lawyer, who entered Bowdoin College, and there studied two or three years, then studying law, and practising some years at Jacksonville, Ill., where he was prosecuting attorney of his County, and stood high. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention of Illinois. He married a lady of that city, and probably had one or two children. But consumption soon carried him off. He d. December, 1870. He was a particular friend of mine, and I helped him to enter college. 3, Howard Molecome, b. 1838, lawyer at Elk River, Minn.; County attorney for many years. 4, Annie E., b. 1843, who became insane at about 18 years of age, in 1865, or near that date. She died in 1889, having never recovered her reason. It was religious insanity. 5, Flora Abbie, d. young. 6, George F., d. 1882, aged 32, in South Africa. 7, Eliza Eunice, b. July 4, 1840; m. 1st, Dawson L. Reynolds, who dying in 1870, she m. 2d, Mr. Robert Pentland, who d. 1887. By their first marriage she had: 1, a daughter, who is married and lives at Salem, Oregon; 2, another daughter, who is unmarried. Mrs. Pentland is now a widow, and has recently settled at Salem, Oregon, near her daughter's home. She was formerly of Seio, Oregon, and her second husband died there. Cousin Joseph Atkins, their father, was a prosperous farmer of New Sharon, Me., but was killed by a stroke of lightning as he was mowing in his field.

iii. JOHN WESTLEY, an eloquent preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Saco, Me. He had sons and daughters by his wife, Elizabeth Pierce, viz.: 1, Wilber Fisk; 2, Alexine E.; 3, Annie, d. young; 4, Marcia, who was deranged; 5, Charles,—all dead but the oldest son.

The cause of insanity in the three or four instances mentioned in this Atkins family was religious frenzy. I used to see my cousins go into convulsions at the prayer meetings, and fall down groaning and panting, as if possessed by some demon. But the revival preachers called it the power of the holy spirit. Whole families of girls would be converted in that way. Some men of feeble constitutions were also similarly affected. When very young, it used to make my hair stand on end to witness those terrible contortions and howlings. No wonder some of them went mad. They were intensely excited by fear of damnation, and the satanic torments that were pictured to their unsophisticated minds. They were instructed that they must make desperate efforts to shake off their sins, and break away from the toils of the devil. These affectations or disorders of the nervous system were apt to become chronic, like other diseases.

BRADSTREET.

MRS. ANNE BRADSTREET was the eldest daughter of the Hon. Thomas Dudley, one of the primitive Governors of New England. She was born about 1612, in Northamptonshire, probably near Canons-Ashby; since the great nonconformist, Rev. John Dod, at that time preached there, whose ministry her parents are said to have attended.

Her mind became early imbued with Puritanic religion, as appears from a manuscript found among her papers after her decease. She says in this, that she began to make confession of her wrong ways at the age of six or seven years; and if overtaken in sins, she could not rest, till she had confessed them unto God by prayer; and even then she found much comfort in reading the Scriptures.

“But, as I grew up,” says she, “to be about fourteen or fifteen, I found my heart more loose from God. Vanity and the follies of youth took hold of me.”

About 1619 her father removed with his family to Sempringham, in Lincolnshire, and undertook the management of the vast estates belonging to the Earldom of Lincoln.

In what schools Mrs. Bradstreet was educated we are not told;

Mr. Bradstreet, already one of the five assistants, was, Aug. 23d, at the first Court in Charlestown, elected Secretary of the Colony; in which office he continued until 1644. He became the seventh member of the first Congregational Church of Charlestown and Boston.

In the spring of 1631, he removed with his father-in-law (Dudley) and others, to Newtown (now Cambridge), and resided near the present locality of the colleges. Here the muse of poetry began to inspire her American votress, dwelling not by the streams of Helicon, but amid the savage wilds, which were, however, destined to become a favorite haunt of all the muses. For, what place should the gentle sisters be supposed to frequent, if not the vicinity of old Harvard?

Her first poem, bearing date, is a short piece on a fit of sickness, "Anno 1632, and of her age, 19." She afterwards resided at Ipswich, from 1635 to 1644, and then removed to Andover. It was while at the former place, that she wrote the satirical "Dialogue between Old England and New, concerning their present Troubles, Anno. 1642," in which the mother country is made to confess many unbecoming faults, and much cruelty towards her children. But, still New England has a word of sympathy for the unfortunate old dame:

"Dear mother, cease complaints and wipe thine eyes,
Shake off thy dust, cheer up, and now arise;
After dark Popery, the day did clear,
But now the sun in brightness shall appear.
Blest be the nobles of thy noble land,
With ventured lives for truth's defence, that stand;
Blest be thy Commons, who, for common good,
And thy infringed laws, have boldly stood.
Blest be thy preachers, who do cheer thee on—O, cry the sword of God and Gideon!"

The next date affixed to her poems is March 20th, 1642; at which time she inscribes the first volume to her honored father, Gov. Thomas Dudley. The book was not, however, published till 1650. Rev. John Woodbridge, who had married Mrs. Bradstreet's sister Mercy, and Rev. Nathaniel Ward, author of "The Simple Cobbler of Agawam," both admirers of her genius, then resided in England; and, doubtless, it was owing to their suggestions that the poems were printed.

A copy of this edition, preserved in the British Museum, was seen by the writer in 1850.

It is a small, elegant 16mo, of 207 pages, entitled "The Tenth Muse, Lately sprung up in America, &c. By a gentlewoman in those parts; printed for Stephen Bowtell, at the sign of the Bible in Pope's Head alley."

The dedicatory verses have been noticed on page 82 of this work.

In the preface, written by Rev. John Woodbridge before alluded to, he says—"I fear 'twill be a shame for a man that can speak so little, to be seen in the title page of this woman's book, lest, by comparing the one with the other, the reader should pass his sentence, that it certainly is the gift of women, not only to speak most, but to speak best. I doubt not but the reader will quickly find more than I can say, and the worst effect of his reading, will be unbelief; which will make him question whether it be a woman's work, and ask—"Is it possible?" If any do, take this as an answer from him who dares avow it:—

"It is the work of a woman honored and esteemed, where she lives, for her gracious demeanor, her eminent parts, her pious conversation, her courteous disposition, her exact diligence in her place, and discreet managing of her family occasions; and, more so, these poems are but the fruit of some few hours, curtailed from her sleep and other refreshments."

He also says, in a poetical address to the author:

"What you have done the sun shall witness bear,
That, for a woman's work, 'tis very rare;
And, if the nine vouchsafe the tenth a place,
I think they rightly may yield you that grace.

* * * * *

If you shall think it will be to your shame
To be in print, then I must bear the blame;
If't be a fault, 'tis mine—'tis shame that might Deny so fair an infant of its right
To look abroad; (I know your modest mind,)
How you will blush, and say 'tis too unkind."

The principal poems in this edition were "The Four Elements," "The Four Humors in Man's Constitution," "The Four Ages of Man," "The Four Seasons of the Year," "The Four Great Monarchies," "A Dialogue between Old and New England," "Contemplations," "Elegies and Epitaphs."

The whole are preceded by a prologue beginning with the following stanzas:

"To sing of wars, of captains, and of kings,
Of cities founded, commonwealths begun,
For my mean pen, are two superior things;
Or how they all, or each their dates have run.
Let poets and historians set these forth,
My obscure lines shall not so dim their worth.

But when my wond'ring eyes and envious heart
Great Bartas' sugared lines do but read o'er, Fool, I do grudge the muses did not part
'Twixt him and me, that over-fluent store!
A Bartas can do what a Bartas will,
But simple I according to my skill."

This Bartas, so much admired by our authoress, was William Sallust Du Bartas, the favorite poet of the day, especially among the Puritans. He was a gallant Frenchman, who died in 1590. His great poem, "The Divine Weeks and Works," contains more than twenty-four thousand lines. It went through thirty editions in five or six years. The translation mostly used, by the Puritans, was that of Joshua Sylvester. The Mosaic account of the creation, fall of man, the flood, and the history of the Jews, are treated of by the poet in a dull, laborious style, the following opening lines being a fair specimen :

"Thou glorious Guide of Heaven's star-glistering motion,
Thou, thou (true Neptune) tamer of the ocean;
Thou earth's dread shaker (at whose only word
The æolian scouts are quickly stille'd and stirred.)

"Lift up my soul, my drowsy spirits refine,
With learned art enrich this work of mine:
O, Father, grant I sweetly warble forth,
Unto our seed, the world's renowned birth!"

Rev. Nathaniel Ward thought Mrs. Bradstreet's poetry as good as the above; and other good judges will, perhaps, coincide with his opinion. He says,—

"Mercury show'd Appollo Bartas' book;
Minerva this, and wish'd him well to look.
And tell uprightly, which did which excel;
He view'd and view'd, and vow'd he could not tell."

Mrs. B.'s longer pieces are mostly descriptive and narrative. She portrays the qualities and operations of the Elements, Humors, and Seasons, representing them as speaking for themselves.

Of the "Four Ages of Man," she says:

"Their method was that of the Elements,—
That each should tell what of him-self he knew Both good and bad, but yet no more than's true."

Youth, in reference to his proneness to intemperate indulgence, remarks:

"That he who loveth wine, wanteth no woes."

Old Age says,

"I have been young, and strong, and wise as you.
But now, Bis pueri senes is too true."

Of the Seasons,

Spring speaks of her birds and flowers, and pleasant days :

“ The pleiades their influence now give,
And all, that seemed as dead, afresh doth live;
All flowers the sun now, with his beams, discloses,
Except the double pinks and matchless roses.

When spring had done, the summer did begin
With melted, tawny face, and garments thin.”

Her longest poem, “ The Four Monarchies,” is a metrical history of Assyria, Persia, Greece and Rome. The rhymes are very good, and much learning is displayed, for a woman of that day. At the end of the Grecian Monarchy she says :—

“ And how, from small beginnings, Greece did grow,
To fill the world with terror and with woe,
My tired brain leaves some better pen :
This task befits not woman like to men,
For what is past, I blush excuse to make,
But humbly stand, some grave reproof to take.
Pardon to crave for errors is but vain—
The subject was too high, beyond my strain!
This my presumption, some, now to requite,
Ne sutor ultra crepidam, may write.”

After she had spent much time and labor upon this long poem, she says she was—

“ At length resolved, when many years had passed,
To prosecute my story to the last ;
But, ere I could accomplish my desire,
My papers fell a prey to the raging fire.”

Her house, at Andover, was burned to the ground July 10th, 1666, and many of her books and manuscripts, with much other valuable property, were thus destroyed. This misfortune was so discouraging, that she had no heart to proceed further with her monarchies, and, therefore, she left them forever unfinished.

In the “ Elegy on Queen Elizabeth,” her Majesty’s abilities and virtues are highly extolled ; and it is said,—

“ Her personal perfections, who would tell,
Must dip his pen in the Heliconian well ;
Let such, as say our sex is void of reason,
Know ’tis a slander now, but once ’twas treason.”

By such fragmentary quotations, our author’s cast of intellect, habits of thought and poetical expression are indicated ; but the “ Contemplations,” which have often been republished in collections of our early poetry, most clearly display her powers of imagination and fancy, and prove her well worthy of the appellation of poetess.

This poem, written at Andover, consists of thirty-three Spenserian stanzas, and is, therefore, too long to be inserted here. But the following quotation may serve as a specimen of the whole :

“Sometime now past in the autumnal tide,
When Phoebus wanted but one hour to bed,
The trees, all richly clad, yet void of pride,
Were gilded o'er by his rich golden head—
Their leaves and fruit seemed painted, but were true
Of green, of red, of yellow—mixed hue,
Rapt were my senses, at this delectable view.

I wist not what to wish, yet sure, thought I,
If so much excellence abide below,
How excellent is He, that dwells on high!
Whose power and beauty by his works we know.
Sure he is goodness, wisdom, glory, light,
That hath this under world so richly dight;
More heaven than earth was here, no winter and no night.

Then, on the stately oak I cast mine eye,
Whose rattling top the clouds seemed to aspire;
How long since thou wast in thine infancy?
Thy strength, and stature, more thy years admire,
Hath hundred winters passed since thou wast born,
Or thousand, since thou break'st thy shell of horn?
If so, all these, as nought, eternity doth scorn.

Then higher, on the glittering sun I gazed,
Whose beams were shaded by the leafy tree;
The more I looked, the more I grew amazed,
And softly said, what glory's like to thee?
Soul of this world, this universe's eye—
No wonder some made thee a deity:
Had I not better known, (alas!) the same had I.

Silent, alone, where none or saw or heard,
In distant paths I led my wandering feet.
My humble eyes, to lofty skies I reared
To sing some song, my mazed muse tho't meet.
My great Creator I would magnify,
That nature had thus decked liberally,
But ah! and ah! again, my imbecility.

While musing thus, with contemplation fed,
And thousand fancies buzzing in my brain,
The sweet-tongued Philomel perch'd o'er my head,
And chanted forth a most melodious strain;
Which rapt me so with wonder and delight,
I judged my hearing better than my sight,
And wished me wings, with her, awhile to take my flight.

I heard the merry grasshopper then sing,
The black-clad cricket bear a second part,
They kept one tune, and played on the same string,
Seeming to glory in their little art.
Shall creatures abject thus their voices raise,
And, in their kind, resound their Maker's praise,
While I, as mute, can warble forth no higher lays?”

The second edition of her book (a 16mo. of 255 pages) was printed at Boston in 1678, six years after her death. This contains some new pieces, which were found among her papers, and seem not to have been intended for publication. Among them were some lines in reference to her children, dated June 23, 1656, and several funeral pieces, in memory of her deceased grandchildren. One upon her eldest son Samuel's going to England in 1657 and his return in 1661, and another upon her dear husband's going to England on public business and his safe return in 1662 were also found but not inserted.

These are full of gentle sentiments, showing her to have been a very kind and affectionate wife and mother.

Several of her prose and poetic productions have only recently been printed. The following hymns and meditations are yet preserved with great care by some of her lineal descendants. After having shrunk from the light so long, they may seem rather sensitive to the scrutinizing eyes of criticism.

May 11, 1657. I had a sore sickness and weakness took hold of me, which hath by fits lasted all this spring till this 11th of May.

May 13, 1657.

“As spring the winter doth succeed,
 And leaves the naked trees do dress,
 The earth, still black, is clad in green;
 At sunshine each their joy express.
 My sun's returned with healing wings,
 My soul and body do rejoice,
 My heart exults and praises sings
 To him, that heard my wailing voice;
 My winter's past, my storms are gone,
 And former clouds seem now all fled;
 But, if they must eclipse again,
 I'll turn where I was succored.”

FOR DELIVERANCE FROM A FIT OF FEVER.

“In my distress I sought the Lord
 When nought on earth could comfort give;
 And when my soul those things abhorred,
 Thou, Lord, thou said'st unto me, 'live!'”

* * * * *

My wasted flesh thou didst restore,
 My feeble loins didst gird with strength;
 Yea, when I was most low and poor,
 I said I shall praise thee at length.

What shall I render to my God
 For all his bounty shown to me?
 Even for his mercy in his rod,
 Where pity, most of all, I see.

My heart I wholly give to thee,
 O, make it fruitful, faithful, Lord;
 My life shall dedicated be
 'To praise in thought, in deed, in word."

May 11. 1661. It hath pleased God to give me a long time of respite for these four years, that I have had no great fit of sickness; but this year, from the middle of January till May, I have been, by fits, very ill and weak.

MEDITATIONS—DIVINE AND MORAL.

There is nothing that can be said or done, but either that, or something like it, hath been both done and said before.

Sweet words are like honey; a little may refresh, but too much gluts the stomach.

It is a great favor to have a good repute among good men; yet it is not that which commends us to God, for we must be weighed by his balance.

Dim eyes are the concomitants of old age, and short-sightedness in those that are eyes of a republic foretells a declining state.

Mrs. Bradstreet evidently continued to write till near the date of her death.

It is almost incredible that a person so weak in body and so often completely prostrated with pain, could preserve, through life, a contemplative state of mind, which must have been requisite for the composition of her poems. On the 31st of August, 1669, only three years prior to her decease, she penned these last lines, still existing in manuscript:

As weary pilgrim, now at rest,
 Hugs with delight his silent nest,
 His wasted limbs now lie full soft,
 That miry steps have trodden oft,
 Blesses himself to think upon
 His dangers past and travels done,
 So I, a pilgrim here, perplex
 With sins, with cares and sorrows vex,
 By age and pains brought to decay,
 And my clay house mouldering away.
 O, how I long to be at rest,
 And soar on high among the blest;
 This body then will sweetly sleep,
 Mine eyes no more shall ever weep,
 No fainting fits shall me assail,
 Nor grievous pains: my body frail,
 With cares and fears, ne'er cumbered be,
 Nor losses know, nor sorrows see.

A record, made by her son, Rev. Simon Bradstreet, of New London, Ct., says, that, being wasted away with consumption, she died at Andover, Monday, Sept. 16, 1672, greatly mourned, and was buried on Wednesday.

Her grave, probably, cannot now be distinguished by any monumental inscription. And it is a singular and deplorable fact, that no portrait or likeness of her person has been preserved, if any ever existed, which is doubtful, as Gov. B. mentions none in his will, although he refers to the portraits of others.

Of her character and works, however, there are still extant many eulogies by the most accomplished writers of other days, and some by those of our own times.

The Rev. John Norton, of Hingham, an ancestor of John Quincy Adams, wrote the following, which is now before me, in the third edition of her poems :

“ Upon that pattern and Patron of virtue, the truly pious, peerless and matchless gentlewoman, Mrs. Anne Bradstreet, mirror of her age, glory of her sex,” &c.

“ Grave matron, whoso seeks to blazon thee,
Need not make use of wit’s false heraldry.

* * * * *

When, as her name doth but salute the ear,
Men think that they perfection’s abstract hear.
Virtue ne’er dies; time will a poet raise.
Born under better stars, shall sing thy praise.”

Rev. John Rogers, President of Harvard College, who has been called the most correct and elegant poet of his time, wrote, of her poems :

“ Madam :—

“ Twice have I drunk the nectar of your lines,
Which high sublim’d my mean-born phantasia,
Flush’d with these streams of your Maronean wines,
Above myself, rapt to an extasie,
Methought I was upon Mount Hybla’s top,
There, where I might those fragrant flowers lop, Whence did sweet odors flow, and honey-spangles drop.”

’ The third edition of Mrs. B.’s poems was printed and published at Boston, Svo.—233 pages, in 1758.

Among the modern writers, who have had occasion to speak of Mrs. Bradstreet, Samuel Kettell, Esq. and Rev. Rufus W. Griswold have added their testimony to swell her fame. The former, in his “ Specimens of American Poetry,” with critical and biographical notices, in three volumes, published in 1829, remarks, that “ we must come down to a late period in the literary annals of the country, before we find her equal ; and, up to her time, no female had sung so well in England." Griswold says, in his "Female Poets of America," "A comparison of her productions with those of the Lady Julianna Berners, Elizabeth Melville, the Countess of Pembroke and others, will convince the judicious critic, that she was superior to any poet of her sex who wrote in the English language before the close of the seventeenth century."

Her honored consort, Gov. Bradstreet, was, in 1643, chosen one of the first Commissioners of the United Colonies of New England, and served many years with great fidelity. In 1678 he was chosen Deputy Governor, and in May of the following year was first elected Governor, at the age of 76 years, in which office he continued till 1686. He had previously been chosen an Assistant for fifty years in succession. From 1689, he was annually re-elected Governor of Massachusetts and New Hampshire, under the union of those provinces, until May, 1692.

In 1676, four years after the death of his wife, Governor Bradstreet married Ann, widow of Capt. Joseph Gardner, and sister of Sir George Downing, well known in the history of the times of Cromwell and Charles II. But no children resulted from their union.

Gov. Bradstreet closed his long and eventful life at Salem, on the 27th of March, 1697, in his 95th year; this great age being, by some, attributed to his temperate habits of life. He was a wise and good man, beloved by his family and immediate friends for private virtues, and by his country for public honor and moderation in fanatical and anarchical times.

Mrs. Bradstreet bore her husband eight children, four sons and four daughters, who all married and had children, as may be seen in the genealogy of the family.

Her posterity have generally been among the most noted families of this country, and the Bradstreets of Ireland, some of whom were Baronets, are, by Hutchinson, in his History of Massachusetts, supposed to have been descended from our Gov. B., as their Christian names, Dudley, Simon, John, &c., would seem to indicate. If not lineal descendants they must have been a collateral branch of the family. The armorial bearings of Sir Simon are nearly the same as those of our Governor Bradstreet, which he stamped upon his will, yet to be seen in the Probate Office at Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Bradstreet's principles, religious belief, and opinions on many subjects may be learned from her own writings. She says in the Dedication of her Meditations, which were left for her children:—"Here you may find what was your living mother's mind." First she desires to be remembered, but much more to give spiritual instruction from her experience. She aimed to speak valuable truths. She had a tender conscience from the age of 6 or 7 years, and could not bear to lie or disobey her parents.

She found passages of scripture that were a great solace to her. Harriet Martineau said she found many that horrified her sensitive young soul. She had found this new world a pretty rough, hard place to live in after her delicate childhood experience in England. When she had a long, tedious fit of sickness, she said: "I saw the Lord sent it to humble and try me and do me good." What a pity it is that she should have had so terrible an idea of her heavenly father. The earth is full of injustice and cruelty. Surely we ought not to attribute all natural suffering to a God of love and righteousness. It is impossible for the universe to exist without such calamities. Common sense teaches us that He would not cause suffering if He could avoid it. Did she think that her God brought pain and anguish upon her in all cases "to humble and try her?" It seems to me this was a kind of stereotyped way that some Christians had of talking, and it might not have come from her real, worldly wit, of which she had no lack, as may often be seen in her writings. According to the Book of Job, God sometimes permitted Satan to afflict people to humble them; but Job, himself did not believe it. He was wise enough to see that the God of the Universe would not take so much pains to crush a poor worm.

Mrs. B. was a noble, high-toned lady, but she confesses that she had her doubts about the truth and inspiration of the bible. Many a time, she says, did Satan trouble her mind with doubts about the truth of those stories of Jonah, Joshua, the flood, the holiness of King David, and the wisdom of King Solomon, as well as the miracles of men sailing up to Heaven, and the dead arising to life again. She had sometimes even doubted the existence of God. She said to herself,—“how do I know that God is such as I worship in the Trinity? I know it because judgments have befallen some persons, who scorned the doctrine of the Trinity, &c., and because this doctrine hath been preserved through all ages (?) in spite of the heathen tyrants and its other enemies.” “Then again it occurred to me, why may not the Popish Religion be the right? This might have had more weight with me, but for the vain fooleries that are in it, together with their lying miracles and cruel persecutions of the saints." But finally, new troubles came, and the world seemed filled with blasphemy and sectaries, and some sincere Christians, she says, were carried away with them, so that she had queried, "Is there faith upon the earth?"

Mrs. Bradstreet's minor pieces both in prose and verse are over pious. There is scarcely a page but refers to God, the bible, Christ or religion. She is pervaded through and through with religious zeal, and seems to think there is no other style but the religious fit for a good literary work. "All the treasures of this world," she says, "are husks, for they have no kernel in them. * * * * The wisest man said all is vanity and vexation of spirit." I mention these things to show what were the Puritan sentiments of her time. Of course their philosophy and crude ideas of providence were all wrong; and God had no more to do with their simple lives than he has with ours. Every event happened according to the eternal laws of nature.

She exalts faith more even than St. Paul, saying, "It hath stayed the course of the sun, raised the dead, cast out devils," reversed the order of nature, quenched the violence of the fire, &c., nay more; it hath overcome the Omnipotent himself, for when Moses interceded for the people, God said to him, 'let me alone, that I may destroy them,' as if Moses had been able, by the hand of faith, to hold the everlasting arms of the mighty God of Jacob." She would probably mix more science with her faith if writing in this age. Mrs. B. would in politics be a free trader now, for she says, "God hath so ordered that no one country hath all commodities within itself, but what it wants, another shall supply, that so there may be a mutual commerce through the world."

In the Dialogue of the Four Elements very little science is displayed by our learned authoress. She does not mention the internal heat of the earth, nor the earth's motions on its axis and round the sun. The constellations are named; but they were known to some of the bible-writers as early as the time of Job. The air is described as sometimes being changed to water. She says, "what the antient sages writ is more authentic than our modern wit." The air is the cause of earthquakes, according to her philosophy. A sure antidote to poison, she says, lies in the horn of the unicorn. Chemistry is mentioned and the transmutation of metals; but

Mrs. B. says she is not certain that ever a transmutation took place. In the Four Humours of Man the blood is not described as circulating through our veins and arteries.

The poetess says,—“To play philosopher I have no list nor yet physician, nor anatomist.” Yet here are two lines expressing a great fact of science according to the evolutionists. “What is there living which don’t first derive his life now animal, from vegetive?” She thinks the human soul resides in the brain with reason, fancy, memory, and the five senses. The gentleness and gallantry of Sir Philip Sidney were very much admired by her; but I think his Dudley blood also claimed and gained her affection. She calls him a “miracle of wit,” and a “brave Achilles” in arms. Sidney fought on Flanders coast and was wounded unto death at Zutphen. She calls him, “Heir to the Muses, son of Mars in truth, Learning, valor, wisdom, all in virtuous youth.”

There are many verses in Mrs. Bradstreet’s “Contemplations,” and the piece called “The Flesh and the Spirit,” which no ladies before her time had ever excelled. Her apostrophe to the sun is very fine, both as to figures and rhythm. The rhyme and melody are perfect. The apparent motions of the heavenly bodies were all that she had learned. Had the great truths of astronomy, as now understood, been known to her, the poem might have been more sublime. Her genius would have made the picture worthy of the theme.

“Phæbus” (the sun) “wanted but one hour to bed.” The insects “seemed to glory in their little art.” These and the following are her bright expressions:

“While on the stealing stream I fixed mine eye,
Which to the longed for ocean held its course.”

This is made a simile of life’s course to heaven. She sings,—

“A hundred brooks in thy clear waves do meet.”
And “hand in hand along with thee they glide.”

Thus, “Under the cooling shadow of a stately elm,” the poetess mused, as she sat by the Merrimack river near her home in Andover. So thinks Mr. Ellis, her last editor.

The smoothness and harmony of these numbers came from reading Spenser’s poems. In the “Bower of Bliss of the Faery Queen” there are lines of such a style. I see no indications that she had ever read Shakespeare’s sonnets or dramas. In them there are higher flights of the imagination and more complicated ideas and figures than Madam B. ever dreamed of. The passions are dissected and depicted in Shakespeare with greater power than any woman has ever shown in poetry. But it may be that her superior modesty has prevented such displays.

The fourth and last edition of Madam Bradstreet's works, including a life sketch, was published at Charlestown, Mass., by Abram E. Cutter in 1867, edited by Mr. John Harvard Ellis.—a splendid royal octavo of 510 pages. The editor speaks of Mrs. B.'s change of some sentiments in the second edition of her poems. But she had been dead a long time, and it is probable that the changes were made by others. Such liberties ought not to have been taken with her works.

Prince's Annals, Vol. VII., has the following statement about Gov. Simon Bradstreet: "He was son of a minister in Lincolnshire, and born at Horbling, March, 1603. His father was son of a Suffolk gentleman of a fine estate. The minister above mentioned was Rev. Simon Bradstreet, one of the first Fellows of Emmanuel College, Camb., under Dr. Chadderton. He had preached at Middleboro in Zealand, and always been a non-conformist. Our Gov. Simon Bradstreet was brought up at the grammar school till about 14 years of age, when the death of his father occurred. He spent about eight years in the family of the Earl of Lincoln, the best noble family in England; where he was under the direction of Mr. Dudley, sustaining successively divers offices. Dr. Preston, who had been Lord Lincoln's tutor, moved that Mr. Bradstreet might have permission to come to Emmanuel College in the capacity of governor to the Lord Rich, son of the Earl of Warwick, which being granted, he went with the Doctor, who provided a chamber for him, with advice that he should apply to study till Warwick's arrival. But Lord Rich, not coming, Mr. Bradstreet after a year returned to the Earl of Lincoln's, and Mr. Dudley then removing to Boston, his place of Steward was conferred on Mr. Bradstreet. Afterwards, with much ado, he obtained the Earl's leave to answer the desires of the aged and pious Countess of Warwick, that he would accept the stewardship of her whole family, which, as the former, he discharged with an exemplary discretion and fidelity. And here he married Mrs. Anne, the daughter of Mr. Dudley. By this means he became one of the Massachusetts Company, and on March 18, 1629-30, he was chosen at Southampton their 12th Assistant. In this capacity he came over at about the 27th year of his age. He was the 7th member of the church first formed at Charlestown and Boston." There was a Samuel Bradstreet graduated at Emmanuel College, Camb., 1615, probably a near relative of our Gov. Bradstreet, who named his first son "Samuel."

All of Gov. B.'s children were by his first wife. They were as follows :

i. DR. SAMUEL,³ a physician, grad. H. C. 1653, Fellow of the College; m. 1st, Mercy Tyng, dau. of William and Elizabeth. He m. 2d, a lady named "Martha."

ii. DOROTHY, m. June 14, 1654, Rev. Seaborn Cotton, son of Rev. John, of Boston, the Puritan. Her mother's verse says:

"A second bird did take her flight,
And with her mate flew out of sight."
"A prettier bird was nowhere seen Along the beach, among the trees."

iii. SARAH, m. 1st, Richard Hubbard (H. C. 1653); 2d, Maj. Samuel Ward, who died 1690. Of this daughter, the lines are:

"I have a third of color white,
On whom I place no small delight;
Coupled with mate, loving and true,
Hath also bid her dam adieu;
And, where Aurora first appears,
She now hath perched to spend her years."

iv. REV. SIMON, b. 1638; grad. H. C. 1660; d. at New London, Conn., 1683; m. Lucy Woodbridge, who m. 2d, Daniel Eppes. His mother thus sings of him:

"And one unto the College flew,
To chat among the learned crew.
Ambition moves still in his breast,
That he might sing above the rest."

v. COL. DUDLEY, of Andover, b. 1648; d. 1706, intestate. He m. Ann, widow of Theodore Price, Nov. 12, 1673. Col. Dudley opposed the witchcraft delusion. The poetess says:

"My fifth, whose down is yet scarce gone,
Is 'mongst the shrubs and bushes flown."

* * * * *

My other three still with me nest,
Until they're grown, then, as the rest,
Or here or there they'll take their flight,
As is ordained, so shall they light.*

vi. HANNAH (ANN), m. June 3, 1659, Andrew Wiggin, of Exeter, N. H., son of Gov. Thomas.

vii. MERCY, m. Oct. 31, 1672, Maj. Nathaniel Wade.

viii. JOHN, b. July 22, 1653; d. at Topsfield, Mass., Jan. 11, 1718; m. Sarah Perkins, dau. of William, June 11, 1677.

* The date given for this poem is June 23, 1656, but it probably should be 1658, as some events mentioned in it occurred a year or two later.

DR. SAMUEL³ BRADSTREET (Anne² Dudley, Gov. Thomas¹), graduated H. C. 1655, and was Fellow of the College; married 1st, Mercy Tyng, daughter of William. She was born Jan. 13, 1642-3; died Sept. 6, 1670, at Jamaica. Dr. Samuel settled in the Island of Jamaica, W. I., and died 1682. His mother's reference to him is as follows:

"Chief of my brood then took his flight To regions far, and left me quite."
"Leave not my nest, thy dam and shire,
Go back and sing amidst this choir."

He married a second wife. By the first he had 5 children, viz.:

- i. ELIZABETH,⁴ b. Jan. 29, 1663-4; d. August, 1665.

By the second wife, Dr. Samuel had three children, viz.:

CHILD.

ELIZABETH⁶ RICHARDS (Paul⁸ D., Elizabeth⁴ Dudley, Col. William,³ Gov. Joseph,² Gov. Thomas¹), born at Boston, Aug. 18, 1781; married Richard Child, of Boston, merchant, who died at B. Nov. 28, 1840. She died at her house in Boston, Dec. 13, 1878, after living many years a widow, at her house on the corner of Washington and Hollis Streets, Boston.

I used to call there to see her oil paintings of the Dudleys, and get them copied. It was before photographs were so common as now, and Mrs. Child would not allow her pictures to be moved. They have, since her death, been renewed by good artists, and I have photographs of them. Her oil portraits of Judge Isaac Addington and his wife were given to the N. E. Historic Genealogical Society. Mrs. Child was a remarkably intelligent and accomplished lady, and worthy to be a great-granddaughter of Col. William Dudley, son of Gov. Joseph. When I begged of her to let me photograph her pictures and herself, she modestly declined; but, to appease my disappointment, she would bring out her money and offer to pay her share for the pains I had already taken to write and publish my accounts of our ancestors. She bought copies for near relatives, and was one of my best patrons and friends. I had three different artists to copy the old Dudley pictures: Mr. Barry, Mr. Haskell, and Mrs. Russell. Since the death of Mrs. Child the portraits of Judge Paul Dudley, his wife and Col. William Dudley, have been nicely restored, and I have had them photographed by Hardy of Boston.

The children of Mrs. Child were:

i. ELIZABETH,⁷ b. July 24, 1813; m. Dr. Abel Ball of Boston, dentist. ii. HENRY, b. July 17, 1815; d. young.

iii. HENRY RICHARDS, b. July 25, 1816; m. Mrs. Benjamin Freeman, née Sally Shurtleff, who was born Sept. 5, 1805, daughter of Dr. Benjamin Shurtleff, sometime mayor of Boston, M.D., and a noted antiquary. Henry Richards died at Hillsboro', Ill., March 16, 1847, leaving by his wife Sally, a son, Dudley Richards,⁸ b. June 23, 1845, at Hillsboro', Ill., graduated from the Boston English High School in 1862, and was for several years Recording Secretary of the N. E. Numismatic Archaeological Society. He went west for his health, but died at Oakland, Cal., May 12, 1883, of lung troubles. He m. Oct. 13, 1866, Miss M. Dr. Field was one of the first in the temperance reform, and "taking the most advanced ground of total abstinence, inflexibly adhered to it to his dying day." He preached at Haddam 14 years, and in 1819 removed to Stockbridge, Mass., and preached there about 18 years. Then he asked for a dismission, and just 33 years from his first ordination in Haddam he was called back to that town April 11, 1837. His old church had become divided and they thought he might unite them. That year he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Williams College.

At Haddam he remained seven years. Then he took charge of the new church at Higganum, two miles north of his old Higganum church, as the township of Haddam had been divided into two towns. In 1848 he went abroad with his son Stephen, and spent several months in London and Paris. At Paris he admired the splendor of the buildings and the politeness of the French people. He found them very attentive and respectful to aged persons, and it was a perpetual delight to him to go about there, although he could not speak a word of the French language.

In 1851 Dr. Field was seventy years of age and he had preached nearly fifty years, so his family thought he ought to be honorably discharged from that service. He then returned to Stockbridge to spend the evening of his active life on the old homestead. There the Doctor and his wife were happy, and their children delighted to see them in that tranquil haven at last. The record of the children was as follows:

TIMOTHY B.⁷ FIELD (Dr. D. D.,⁶ Anna Dudley,⁵ Dea. David,⁴ Caleb,³ Joseph,² *William*¹), born at Haddam, May 21, 1809; was named Timothy Beals for two of his uncles. He engaged in the naval service of the United States, became a good midshipman, brave and ready for duty. Later he sailed round the world in a merchant ship, and in 1836, embarked for South America, and is supposed to have been lost in the Gulf of Mexico. His monument is at Stockbridge.

MATTHEW D.⁷ FIELD, brother to Hon. D. D., was born June 26, 1811, and named for his uncle, Matthew Dickinson. He became a paper manufacturer, and showed a genius for mechanic arts. In 1843 he removed to St. Louis, Mo., was a contractor upon railroads, and constructed several large suspension bridges. Without any training for such business, he built, in 1849 and 1850, a suspension bridge at Nashville, Tenn., spanning the Cumberland river. Its elevation was 110 feet above the water, with a single span of 656 feet, being 1956 feet in its entire length. It would bear 2,400 tons. The confederate army destroyed it in their retreat from Nashville, 1862. He built another at Clarksville, Tenn., which was a perfect success. In 1851 he constructed another at Frankfort, Ky., for railroad trains. Subsequently he went North, and settled his family at Southwick, Mass., where his wife was brought up. He suggested to his brother Cyrus, in 1854, that Newfoundland, being a long way towards Europe, a telegraph might be carried over that way. Before long it was so constructed, and his suggestion was the crigin of it, and he was employed in Newfoundland for several years to carry the line across that island. He was elected to the Massachusetts Senate in 1856 for Hampden County.

He married Clarissa Laffin of Southwick, Oct. 6, 1836, and they had 7 children, viz.:

i. HEMAN L.,⁹ b. Sept. 11, 1837; m. Martha Rockwell of Southwick, and they have: 1, *Theron R.*³; 2, Clara M.

- ii. CATHERINE, b. Sept. 13, 1840; m. William B. Herbert, and has 2 children: 1, Henry A.; 2, Clara W.
- iii. HENRY M., b. Sept. 1, 1842; went to the war, and is now in Texas.
- iv. WELLS L., b. Jan. 21, 1846; is an officer in U. S. Navy.
- v. A SON, that d. April 24, 1848.
- vi. CLARA, b. March 15, 1851; lives with her uncle, Rev. H. M. Field.
- vii. MATTHEW D., b. July 19, 1853; grad. Williams College 1875. and is a physician in New York city.

JONATHAN E.⁷ FIELD, the fourth son of Rev. Dr. Field, was born July 11, 1813; graduated at Williams College 1832, with second honors of his class, became a lawyer, and practised at the Berkshire bar for nearly thirty years, living at Stockbridge. He was, in 1854, elected to the State Senate. He was one of the three revisers of the State laws in 1854, and in 1863 he was a State Senator, elected by the Republicans, and chosen President of the Senate three times, that is, as long as he was in the Senate.

He married Mary Ann Stuart of Stockbridge, May 18, 1835, and they had 5 children:

- i. EMILIA B.,⁸ b. June 19, 1836; m. William Ashburner.
- ii. JONATHAN E., JR., b. Sept. 15, 1838; m. Henrietta Goodrich, 1859.
- iii. MARY STUART, b. July 18, 1841; m. Chester Auerill; 3 children.
- iv. STEPHEN DUDLEY, b. Jan. 31, 1846; electrical engineer; m. Celestine Butters, 1871; 3 children.
- v. SARA ADELE, b. Oct. 8, 1849; d. Aug. 6, 1850.

Mrs. Field died Oct. 14, 1849, aged 34, and Mr. Field married 2d, Mrs. Huldah F. Pomeroy, a daughter of Theodore S., Esq., Oct. 17, 1850.

STEPHEN J.⁷ FIELD, fifth son of Rev. Dr. Field, was born Nov. 4, 1816, and in 1829, when his sister Emilia was married and went to Smyrna, he accompanied her, to study the Oriental languages. He travelled in Greece and learned to speak the modern Greek language, and got some knowledge of Italian, French and Turkish. He found the Turks honest, but the Christians there were not so good. He remained in the East two years, then returning home he entered Williams College, graduated 1837, and studied law with his brother, Hon. D. D., at New York city. In 1848 he travelled extensively in Europe with his sister Mary and his brother Cyrus and wife.

After a short time he went to California, having heard of the gold discovery. There he landed with only ten dollars in his pocket, and a meal of victuals cost three dollars. But he collected a $400 note, and went on with success. He was chosen Alcalde at Sacramento. After a short time he was elected Representative to the Legislature, and went on from one position to another till he has become a great judge of the United States Supreme Court. While in the Legislature he did more than any other member to have good laws enacted, especially such as would help the miners. He was appointed by the Governor of California in 1873, with two other persons, to prepare amendments to the State Code of Laws. He has been suggested as a candidate for the Presidency, and, in 1880, his name was prominently before the country for that honor. In 1864 Williams College conferred on him the degree of LL.D.

CYRUS W.⁷ FIELD, sixth son of Rev. Dr. Field, was born Nov. 30, 1819. He did not go to college. He preferred a business life with common learning. So he began as clerk in the store of A. T. Stewart. After six years he set up in business for himself, but the prospect was not flattering. He had no one to furnish him capital. At 33 years of age he had acquired quite a fortune by his own aptitude for business. He could not keep still after he retired from his firm, so he went into the Atlantic cable enterprise. He engaged some New York capitalists, with his brother, David Dudley, as legal adviser, and started the ball, which rolled on to final triumph. He has still a dream to lay a cable across the Pacific. He has sailed round the world, and done enough to fill volumes of such records as this.

Mr. Field married Mary Bryan Stone, of Guilford, Conn., Dec. 2, 1840, and they have 7 children :

i. MARY GRACE,⁸ b. Oct. 10, 1841; m. Daniel Allen Lindley; 5 children.

ii. ALICE D., b. Nov. 7, 1843.

iii. ISABELLA, b. Jan. 27, 1846; m. William F. Judson, who d. 1870; 2 children.

iv. FANNY GRISWOLD, b. Nov. 20, 1848; m. James Bruyn Andrews; 1 daughter.

v. ARTHUR STONE, b. Jan. 24, 1850; d. Aug. 20, 1854.

vi. EDWARD MORSE, b. July 4, 1855; m. Miss Clara L. Lindley; 4 children.

vii. CYRUS WILLIAM, b. March 15, 1857; m. Miss Susan Moore Andrews; 1 child, a daughter.

HENRY MARTYN⁷ FIELD, the seventh son of Rev. Dr. Field, an author and clergyman, entered Williams College

CHARLES M. WARNER.

MRS. ALICE C. (EMERICK) WARNER.

in 1834, at 12 years of age, graduated in 1838, and had an oration at commencement. Next he studied theology, and was licensed to preach in 1840. But he graduated from the East Windsor Theological Seminary in 1841. He preached in the villages about East Windsor. Afterward he went to New Haven, and attended the lectures of Drs. Taylor, Fitch and Goodrich, and the scientific lectures of Profs. Silliman and Olmstead. Finally he settled at St. Louis, Mo., as a Presbyterian pastor. I have no account of his marriage or what doctrines he preaches. His father was an Episcopalian. He is the historian of the Field family, from whom I have drawn. Of the seven sons, three graduated at Williams College. Hon. David D. has given that College $50,000. I have letters from Rev. Dr. D. D., Hon. D. D. and Cyrus W.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES M. WARNER AND THEIR CHILDREN.

ALICE C.⁸ EMERICK (see page 512) was born in the town of Elbridge, Onondaga Co., N. Y., Oct. 1, 1850. She was educated at the Jordan Academy, Jordan, and the Munro Collegiate Institute, Elbridge, and became a woman of culture and refinement. She has a good knowledge of music, and is a skilful artist in oil painting, water colors and crayoning. This talent she inherited from her mother, who is well skilled in all branches of art.

Mrs. Warner is a worthy and useful member of the Episcopal Church, and a life member of the Syracuse Orphan Asylum, to which she is a liberal contributor. She is a woman of strong attachments for home and family. She has many warm friends, and is a royal and hospitable entertainer. She was married to Charles M. Warner, Feb. 23, 1872. He is of Dutch and English origin. The Warners settled in the New England States at an early date. They claim descent from Bishop Warner of England, and are remotely related to Col. Seth Warner of Revolutionary fame. Mr. Warner's grandfather removed with his family to Onondaga Co., N. Y., and settled in Warners. The village Warners was so named for the family.

Mr. Warner was educated in the Vermont schools for a business life, and early entered into business for himself with his paternal estate. His first business enterprise was in the grocery business in Perne, N. Y. He soon retired from that business and removed to Jordan and entered into co-partnership, under the firm name of Jackson & Warner, millers and grain dealers, to which were soon added several other industries. In 1878 he became a member of the firm of Warner & McIntyre, maltsters and grain dealers, Clyde, N. Y., where they erected a large malt-house. In 1878 he succeeded the firm of Jackson & Warner, and to this he added the manufacturing of malt, and erected a large factory and grain elevator. He has business interests in Lyons and Batavia, N. Y., and recently in Palmyra, N. Y., with his father-in-law. He is one of the leading men in his branch of industry, and controls a large and broad-spread trade. He is a great owner of real estate in Jordan, and Syracuse, where he is erecting a large block on Warren Street. He was one of the Directors of the National Exchange Bank of Auburn, N. Y., previous to its close, and is one of the Directors of the Commercial Exchange Bank, now being established in Syracuse, N. Y. He was many years post-master, president and alderman of the village. He has been one of the wardens of the Jordan Episcopal Church, and liberally contributes to its support. In politics he is a Republican, and uses his influence for the welfare of the party, but never aspires to office. In the summer of 1888 he went abroad. He is a man of untiring energy, a useful and influential citizen. In his home he is generous and hospitable, uses his money freely to beautify his home and for the advancement of his family. Of this union there were three bright and smart boys born, viz.: Grove Emerick,⁹ Charles Blaine and Arthur L. Dudley. Grove, the eldest, is a great genius. He has a wonderful knowledge of electricity. A bright future is before him, should attention be given to the cultivation of this talent.

Oliver Arnold

HON. OLNEY ARNOLD.

HE is a lineal descendant of William Arnold, who came to Rhode Island with Roger Williams in 1636. One of General Arnold's ancestors—Benedict Arnold—was the first Governor of Rhode Island under the charter. He was Governor in the years 1663, '64, '65, '66, '69, '70, '71, '72, '77, '78, in all ten years. He died in office, June 9, 1678. Seven generations of the ancestors of the subject of this sketch were born and died in Rhode Island.

Gen. Arnold was born in Newton, Mass., January 17, 1822, during a temporary sojourn of his parents in that place. His early life was spent in Woonsocket, R. I. His education was obtained in the public schools of that town, supplemented by an academic course at Bushee's Academy, in Smithfield. After a brief service in mercantile pursuits, he was chosen Cashier of the Citizens Bank of Woonsocket, where he remained until 1853, when, upon being elected Cashier of the People's Bank of Pawtucket, he removed to that place, where he has since resided.

His business aptitude and financial ability were soon recognized, not only in Pawtucket but in other localities where he became known. When the Bank of Mutual Redemption went into operation in Boston, in 1855, the position of Cashier was tendered him. He declined the offer, preferring to remain in Pawtucket, where he had already entered into important business interests—the manufacture of hair cloth by power being one of the interests with which he became identified. Upon the establishment of the National Banking System in 1863, Gen. Arnold organized the First National Bank of Pawtucket, the first in the town and sixth in the State, and became its Cashier. In 1865 the People's Bank was merged with it. In 1875 he was elected President, which office he has since retained. He was elected Treasurer of the Providence County Savings Bank in 1853, and has held the position up to the present time.

Gen. Arnold has served in the State Militia in nearly every position from private to Major General. At the commencement of the war, in 1861, he was appointed one of the aids to Gov. Sprague, and was kept constantly at work during Gov. Sprague's administration, and also under Gov. Smith, in organizing troops for active service in the field. He was the United States Superintendent of drafts in R. I., one of the Commissioners to examine candidates for appointment as Lieutenants in the regular army, President of Court Martial on trial of Gen. Mauran, etc., and in all these positions he made a good showing of military knowledge and patriotic zeal.

Gen. Arnold has held many positions of public trust and responsibility, while he has often declined being a candidate for political preferment. In politics he is a Democrat, but holding his party views in a somewhat independent way and with a good deal of liberality. For five years, when residing in Woonsocket, he represented the town of Cumberland (to which Woonsocket was then attached) in the General Assembly. He represented the town of North Providence (which formerly included Pawtucket) both as Representative and Senator. More recently he held for four years the office of Senator from Pawtucket. He has held commissions under nearly every Governor of the State since 1842. He belongs to the Templar Order.—Freemason's Repository.

PHEBE DUDLEY⁶ (Benjamin,⁵ Capt. Benjamin,⁴ William,³ Samuel,² *Esq., Francis*¹), See p. 589, was born at Douglas, Mass., Dec. 17, 1824. Her grandfather Capt. Benjamin Dudley was a soldier of the Revolutionary war. Her mother was Olive Ellis of the Pilgrim Cape Cod family, whose ancestors settled first at Plymouth and then removed to Barnstable County. After the death of her father she came with her mother to reside at Providence, R. I., about 1835, when quite young, and was educated in the best schools of that city. On Jan. 23, 1844, she was married to Gen. Olney Arnold, then of Woonsocket, where they resided until 1853, then removing to Pawtucket, which is still their home.

Mrs. Arnold was ever a lady of mind and character. It seldom happens when husband and wife enter into such companionship that she is recognized as a full member of the firm, although perhaps she shapes the whole career of the husband, even if he has a national reputation while she is known only to a few.

Mrs. Arnold was for many years an active business woman and shared with her husband all the cares as well as the enjoyments of life. Besides being a helpmate to him, she found time to engage in active work in her church and in all sorts of benevolent enterprises for the welfare of others. Although not blessed with children of her own, she has been a mother to many, who have had substantial reasons to call her blessed. She has been an invalid for many years and has thus been prevented from taking an active personal interest in such affairs as characterized the firm for twenty-five years of her married life. But though confined at home she keeps well informed in all matters of public interest. Her husband declares he has never entered upon any business enterprise of importance without first consulting her, and her advice has always been heeded by him. Gen. Arnold is regarded by his neighbors as a successful man, and is consulted by a great many people on matters pertaining to business and public affairs; therefore this tribute to his wife from him, who has known her so long and well, speaks volumes of praise.

We cannot better close this sketch of the daughter of a Dudley, than by an extract from a poem from her husband's hand, read at a meeting in Providence, 1887, in response to a toast.

Of what, fair Ladies, shall I talk?
 Of Actresses who by the score,
 Tread o'er the stage with queenly walk,
 That Dudes may follow and adore?
 Or, shall I with celestial choir
 Give praises as the kind nuns sing,
 Whose sacrifices all admire,
 When pain and woe the body wring?
 Or of sweet music's vocal daughters
 From famed Italia's classic shore;
 Whose eyes are soft as limpid waters;
 Whose songs are sweet as Angels' lore?
 Of lovely muses bland as those
 That old Anacreon's numbers sung?
 Of Harem beauties that repose
 Like pearls in some dark casket hung?
 No—none of these shall wake my lyre,
 Or tune it for the sweetest praise;
 But wedded love shall me inspire
 To sing "the light of other days."
 I'll sing the wife of forty years,
 The dearest woman of them all,
 Companion of my joys and tears,
 The Eve, who never yet did fall.
 Let me in glowing words portray
 This maiden as when first I met her;
 Come Scotia's bard and help me say
 How fortunate I was to get her.
 He sings, "And ne'er did elixir trace
 A finer form or sweeter face;
 What though the sun, with ardent frown,
 Had slightly tinged her cheek with brown;
 The sportive toil, which, short and light,
 Had dyed her glowing hue so bright,
 Served too, in better light, to show
 Her rounded arms and neck of snow.
 What though no rule of courtly grace
 To measured mood had trained her pace,
 A foot more light, a step more true,
 Ne'er from the heather brushed the dew;
 And seldom o'er a breast so fair,

Was handkerchief with modest care
 Enfolded, with a rose entwined,
 Above a heart more good and kind."
 A lovely Langtry, on the stage,
 With beauty charming many men;
 Sweet Jenny Lind, muse of her age,
 Whose like we ne'er shall hear again;
 A counsellor and dearest friend.
 A nurse, much better than the nun;
 The wife, to me, whom God did send,
 Is more than these combined in one.

Samuel Troughton, John Basnet, and Wm. Story gave £10 to the Loan fund.

Christopher Wale, £10.

The Dudleys, Bradneys, Basnets and Troughtons were all connected by marriage.

The above Thomas Dudley of 1581 had been Mayor of Coventry.

This account was given in Notes and Queries, Third Series, iv. 7. By Julia R. Bockett of Bradney, near Burghfield Bridge, Reading, England, July 4, 1863.

In Hasted's History of Kent there is a notice of the Dudleys of Stone Place, co. Kent. Mr. Grazebrook says the gentleman there wrote his name in his will. "Dudle," and refers to persons who by their names "were certainly Welch." He says also, "Mr. Adlard's statement that Thomas Dudley of Coventry refers in his Will to Dudley House in Stone Place is untrue. It is Stoke, a suburb of Coventry, in which Thomas Dudley had a place called 'Dudley House.' His widow Alice lived at Stoke, as appears from her Will, dated 1595." Thomas Dudley, Esq., whose Will is dated 1581, bore Azure, a chevron between three lions' heads erased or; and this coat is thus tricked and attributed to him in Harl. MS. 1563, at Brit. Mus., and also in MS. No. 6060—both copies of the Visitation of co. Warwick, taken in 1619. G.

WILL OF THOMAS DUDLEY.

THOMAS DUDLEY, steward to the Earl of Leicester.—See his Autograph, p. 298, No. 22; his letter, p. 23. He died s. p., seized of lands in Bishop's Itchington, co. Warwick. His will, in which he is described as "of London, Esq.," is dated 16th Sept., 1593, and was proved the penultimate of October in the same year in the P. C. C. (68 Neville). He gives his nephew, Anthony Blencowe, Doctor of Laws, all his lands in Warwickshire, "or in any other place in England," and also all his personal estate, in trust to sell the same in order to discharge his debts (which, he says, "are great"), and he appoints the said Anthony Blencowe his sole executor. In the "Black Book of Warwick," a MS. belonging to the corporation of that town, and printed in the "Warwickshire Antiquarian Magazine," Thomas Dudley is referred to as "comptroller to my Lord" (Leicester), and in April, 16 Eliz., 1574, as a candidate for the representation of Warwick in Parliament.

NOTE.—Dugdale (Dr. Thomas's edition) gives Thomas Dudley, Esq., as M.P. for the Borough of Warwick, 14, 17 and 31 Eliz. From the official return of members of Parliament it appears that he was first returned 21st April, 1572, 14 Eliz., to the Parliament summoned to meet on the 8th of May, 1572, and dissolved 9th April, 1583. Next on the 9th Nov., 1584, to the Parliament which met 23d Nov., 1584, and was dissolved 14th Sept., 1585; next on 14th Oct., 1586, and lastly on 3d Oct., 1588.—*Wm. Salt Collections, by H. S. LETTERS OF D. B. DUDLEY, EDITOR OF THE VERMONT JOURNAL.

32 Beekman Place,
New York City.

DEAN DUDLEY, ESQ.

June 6, 1874.

DEAR SIR:

Your circular sent to my late address (247 W. 38th St.) was duly received.

I feel interested in your new enterprise, and trust that it may be eminently successful. It commends itself to all of the Dudley lineage.

I think that a preliminary notice in the Vermont Journal, Vermont Chronicle and Granite State Journal, three large eight-page papers, circulation about 8000, mostly in New England and some at the West, might benefit you. For such notice could you favor me with two copies? Please let me know what you could do. Besides, I think I could give you some good Dudley addresses.

I believe a number of years ago I sent you (from West Hartford, Vt.) a list of the "12 children" of Levi, son of "Timothy 33," page 44 of your Genealogies. Please send me that for revisal, and I will send you more. Will your work include all the Genealogies? If so, how long time can we have to insert them?

I am son of Lorin B., who was son of this Levi.

Yours,
D. B. DUDLEY.

New York City,

DEAN DUDLEY, ESQ.

DEAR SIR:

Your favor was duly received.

You spoke of sending the genealogy of Levi Dudley's family which I sent you years ago. I wish you would send it to me for additions &c., as I have not a copy, and it would save much time and trouble. I suppose you will have no space for notices, except of those most noted.

How much time will there be likely to be in which to make additions and corrections in genealogies?

A patriotic song, written by me (with my full name Daniel Bliss Dudley), entitled, "Columbia calls," music by W. O. Perkins, was published by O. Ditson & Co., Boston, about 1862. Is that the one you referred to?

George Adlard, author of Sutton Dudleys &c., died last August in this city, aged 77. He was no relation of the Dudleys.

Very truly yours,

D. B. DUDLEY.

GEORGE WARREN⁹ DUDLEY (John G.,⁸ Stephen,⁷ Timothy,⁶ Davidson,⁵ Stephen,⁴ Stephen,³ Samuel,² *Gov. Thomas*¹) was born at North Troy, Vt., April 16, 1846. He went to Lynn, Mass., in 1859, and was employed a few months in O. Phillips's Sewing-Machine Needle Shop. From there in 1860 he went to Salem, Mass., and worked on E. D. Ware's farm as cow-boy and milk driver until July, 1862; and then enlisted in Co. F, 23d Regiment, Mass. Vols., signing his name "Warren Dudley." He took part in the battles of Kinston, Whitehall and Goldsborough, N. C., and was in South Carolina during the winter of 1862-3. Going back to North Carolina in 1863, he was soon discharged for physical disability, caused by pleurisy and exhaustion from heat while marching. On his return home he was apprenticed to learn the machinist's trade at Lowell, Mass. He moved to Boston in 1866, and worked at that trade. He married Annie C. Parcher, whose parents lived on Dudley St., Roxbury, that is, Boston Highlands. In February, 1868, he went to Minneapolis, and, while working at his trade, he organized the Minneapolis Zouaves and served as their captain for three years.

In 1875 he returned to Massachusetts, and served one year as engineer at Dean Academy at Franklin, Mass. In 1876 he was at Danvers, as engineer of the State Asylum for the Insane, and remained there in that capacity until 1884, when he went to Holyoke in the employ of the Dean Steam Pump Co., being sent by them to St. Louis in 1885 as business manager of their South Western office, and still occupies the same position, residing at Upper Alton, Ill.

GOV. THOMAS DUDLEY'S POETRY.

GOV. THOMAS DUDLEY was called a poet by Cotton Mather, and some lines were said to have been found in his pocket after his death, beginning as follows:

"Dimme eyes, deaf ears, cold stomache shew,
My dissolution is in view."

Simon Wastell, an English poet who flourished in his time, was the author of a short piece on Life, which seems to have been the prototype of Gov. Dudley's verses. The length of the lines, the measure and the style are similar, and several figures and phrases are almost precisely the same. For instance, Wastell says, or sings :

The shuttle's flung, the writing's blot.

Dudley has the line :

My shuttle's shot, my race is run.

Wastell has :

The grass decays, the tale is ended.

Dudley says :

My span is measured, tale is told.

Wastell says :

The hour is short, the span not long.

Wastell has the phrase :

"Man's life is done."

Dudley says :

"My deed is done."

Wastell says :

"The thought is past, the dream is gone."

Dudley says :

"My dream has vanished, shadow's fled."

LIFE.

Like to the grass that's newly sprung,
Or like a tale that's new begun,
Or to the bird that's here to-day,
Or like the pearled dew of May,
Or like an hour, or like a span,
Or like the singing of a swan :—
E'en such is man, who lives by breath,
Is here, now there, in life or death.
The grass decays, the tale is ended,
The bird is flown, the dew's ascended,
The hour is short, the span not long,
The swan's near death :—man's life is done.

Like to the bubble in the brook,
Or in a glass much like a look,
Or like a shuttle in the hand,
Or like the writing in the sand,
Or like a thought, or like a dream,
Or like the gliding of the stream :—
E'en such is man, who lives by breath,
Is here, now there, in life or death.
The bubble's burst, the look's forgot,
The shuttle's flung, the writing's blot,
The thought is past, the dream is gone,
The water glides : man's life is done.

Some of the ideas and expressions of Wastell are not original with him; but he has the merit of putting them together in a concise and quaint way. Perhaps some other poet taught him even these things. However, this is a gem of old poesy. I find in George Ellis, Esq.'s "Specimens of Early English Poets," London, 1811, 4th Edition, Vol. II., p. 359, a notice of Wastell. He was a native of Westmoreland, Eng.; entered Oxford University, 1580, LL.B.; became Master of the Free School at Northampton; and was author of the "Myrobiblion" (1629), from which the above verses were extracted.

HE was born Dec. 25, 1767, at Littleton, Mass., and removed to Waterford, in the then District of Maine, with his father in 1803. See page 571.

In February, 1809, he removed with his wife and children to Jefferson County, N. Y., and took up his residence in a log house, which had been built for a school-house in the town of Rodman, hiring the old Reuben Smith farm, on which they lived one year. Then Mr. Dudley purchased a farm at Sanford's Corner, which subsequently he sold to the County for a poor-house farm. It is now called the Hardy farm. Mr. Dudley at last settled at Pamela, and there died in 1858, at the great age of 91 years. His wife, Betsey Smith, from Acton, Mass. had died in 1851, aged 79 years.

This account comes from their daughter Mrs. Rebecca D. Otis's family, of South Champion, N. Y. Mrs. Otis died there Oct. 10, 1891. She left four surviving children, viz.—Betsey E.; Chloe L.; G. W., of Pamela; and Enos D., of Orange, Texas.

Mrs. Otis lived to her 92d year, and on her 91st birthday many of her friends met at her home to celebrate the interesting occasion. A poem was recited, containing twelve stanzas. One of them is as follows :

“We gaze upon thy soft brown hair,
Which whiteness ne'er has known.
And scarce can think, while gazing there,
That thou art ninety-one.”

A James Dudley also attended a meeting of the Friends in 1707. He must have been another brother to Large. A Catherine Dudley also attended a meeting in 1723. Jonathan's son Robert was plaintiff in the Chancery Court, 1773-9, and is described as Merchant of Clonmell. This Robert Dudley married three wives 1st, Elizabeth Malone, by whom he had seven sons: 1, James (died young); 2, Joseph (died aged 26); he describes himself as a miller in his will, dated 1794; 3, Jonathan, died at 40; 4, William, died at 20; 5, Robert, died at 42; 6, James; 7, John, died young. 2d wife, Hannah Jessop, married 1771; and 3d wife, Mary Stokes, married 1777, by whom he had four sons: 1, Charles; 2, William; 3, Thomas, and 4, George; and four daughters: 1, Elizabeth; 2, Mary; 3, Hannah, and 4, Charlotte. From all these children, I can trace very few descendants. Mary Dudley was well known throughout the Society of Friends as an author and great supporter of their sect. Her brother William, I met in 1863, in Templemore, when he came to visit my father. He had a daughter married to O'Callaghan Ryan, Esq., near Thurles, and a son, Philip Sydney Dudley, Major in North Cork Rifles. He had a nephew, Howard Dudley, whom I visited in London, and who died in 1864. Thomas went to Bristol, and settled there. I met a daughter of his, Mrs. I. C. Cummins, there in 1869. She told me he died in 1809. She remembered her uncle Charles, and another uncle Dudley, whose Christian name she forgot. She had two brothers, both dead; one was Thomas, a Merchant of Bristol.

* It is not proved that these Dudleys are descendants of George Dudley, Kt., as they are called on page 152. That statement was too previous. No coat of arms or public record shows their descent plainly from the English Dudleys. But their names and protestant religion indicate it. They probably descend from one of the great lines, who bore the lion rampant or the chevron between three lions' heads, both connected with Dudley castle by their ancestors, Sir John Sutton and Sir Richard Dudley.

There was also a Thomas Dudley, called "Ensign," granted a pension of 1/6 per day in 1604.

WM. EDMONDSON DUDLEY.

Brigade Surgeon. R.

ANSON GREENE' PHELPS (Dorothy Lamb⁶ Woodbridge, Haynes.⁵ Timothy,⁴ Timothy,³ Mercy² Dudley, Gov. Thomas¹), born in Simsbury, Conn., March 24, 1781; died in New York, Nov. 30, 1853.

His father, Lieut. Thomas Phelps, a descendant of George, who with his brother William, came to New England in the "Mary and John," and with Winthrop's fleet reached the Massachusetts coast in the spring of 1630. Later, both brothers were identified with the settlement and government of the Connecticut Colony. Thomas Phelps was an officer in the American army, and served during the war for independence under General Greene, for whom his son was named, as well as for Lord Anson, the English Admiral, whose travels Mr. Phelps had read with deep interest. Before Anson was ten years old his father died, leaving a widow with three children: Thomas Woodbridge, William Haynes and Anson. Three years later, on the death of his mother, Anson was received into the family of the Congregational minister at Simsbury; the kindness of those who befriended the orphan lad, so early thrown on his own resources of courage and industry, was ever gratefully remembered. Before he was twenty-one, Anson moved to Hartford, and a few years later married Olivia Egleston, a descendant of Thomas Olcott, one of the first settlers of Hartford. Anson's mother was Dorothy Lamb Woodbridge, a daughter of Haynes Woodbridge and Elizabeth Griswold, daughter of Samuel Griswold, of Windsor, Conn. Haynes was the son of Rev. Timothy Woodbridge of Simsbury, and Dorothy, daughter of Colonel Joshua Lamb of Roxbury, Mass., and widow of Rev. Dudley Woodbridge, a cousin of her second husband, as well as his successor in the Simsbury parish. Rev. Timothy Woodbridge, grandfather of Anson G. Phelps, was the son of another Rev. Timothy Woodbridge, who for nearly fifty years was the venerated pastor of the first church of Hartford, and married Mabel Wyllis, daughter of Hon. Samuel Wyllis of Hartford (youngest son of Governor George Wyllis), and grand daughter of John Haynes, the first Governor of Connecticut, and Mabel Harlakenden his wife. The first Rev.

Timothy Woodbridge, grandfather of Anson G. Phelps, was the son of Rev. John Woodbridge, of Stanton, Wilts, who came to New England with his uncle, Rev. Thomas Parker, and married in 1639, Mercy, daughter of Thomas Dudley, Governor of Massachusetts.

In the "Ancestry of General Grant" Anson G. Phelps is referred to as follows:

"His commercial life in New York was identified with the history of the city for half a century. He was the founder* of the well-known firm of Phelps, Dodge & Co., and his mercantile career was one of remarkable prosperity. He was, however, especially distinguished in his day and generation as a devout Christian and philanthropist. He was a devoted member of Dr. Spring's Church, of which he was for many years an elder. The Colonization Society and many other charitable institutions owed much of their prosperity to his benevolence and watchful energy." * * *

Mrs. Sigourney has written a memorial poem, descriptive of the character of Mr. Anson G. Phelps, from which the following lines are taken:

"The cares of commerce and the rush of wealth
Swept not away his meekness, nor the time
To cultivate all household charities,
Nor the answering conscientious zeal
To consecrate a portion of his gains
To man's relief and the Redeemer's cause.
* * * Oh Praise the Lord
For the example of his holy life
And for its blessed close."

In the History of Simsbury, Anson G. Phelps is referred to "as distinguished alike for wealth, and liberality in the promotion of all charitable objects."

In the will of Anson G. Phelps, after providing liberally for his "beloved wife Olivia," his children and various relatives, comes the following clause:

"I give and bequeath to each of my grandchildren, living at my decease, the sum of five thousand dollars, to be paid to them as they severally attain the age of twenty-one years. This latter bequest I direct to be accompanied by my executors with this injunction: that each of my said grandchildren shall consider the said bequest as a sacred deposit committed to their trust to be invested by each grandchild, and the income to be derived therefrom to be devoted to the spread of the gospel, and to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom on earth, hoping and trusting that the God of Heaven will give to each of them that wisdom which is from above, and incline them to be faithful stewards, and transmit the same amount unimpaired to their descendants, to be sacredly devoted to the same objects. I know that this bequest is absolute, and places the amount so given beyond my control; but my earnest hope is that my wish may be regarded, as I leave it an obligation binding simply upon their integrity and honor."

A bequest of one hundred thousand dollars is made to the American Bible Society, and the same amount to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions and the American Home Missionary Society. Many other societies and charitable institutions are generously remembered, and a trust fund of one thousand dollars provided for the "Town of Simsbury," Mr. Phelps' native place.

Mr. Phelps lived for some time in a large brick house on Broadway, opposite St. Paul's Church, but the noise of the thoroughfare becoming annoying he moved into Beekman Street near old St. George's Church, where a "spacious fruit garden" was an attraction, and later purchased the beautiful place on the East River, owned by Dr. Hosack, which is described in "Old New York" by Mrs. Greatorex, and known as the "Phelps Homestead." Here Mr. Phelps died, and his wife lived until her death a few years later.

Mr. Phelps left many descendants, his children, with the exception of two who died in childhood, having all married. Elizabeth Woodbridge, the eldest daughter, married Daniel James; Melissa, married William E. Dodge; Caroline, married James Stokes; Anson, married Miss Jane Gibson; Harriet, married Charles Pond; Olivia, married Benjamin B. Atterbury.

Anson, the only son, died a few years after his father. A short sketch of his life has been prepared by Rev. George Prentiss.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF DEAN DUDLEY, THE AUTHOR OF THIS HISTORY.

It is customary to give a sketch with each portrait, but I dread the task of writing one about myself. Some people may think it immodest or egotistical. However I have many intimate friends and family connections who will desire to see it, and no one could tell so much of my history and the causes of my actions as I can myself.

The accompanying portrait is a correct likeness, but the eyes are not quite clearly depicted. Blueish eyes are hard to photograph.

I was born, as stated in the sketch given by the "Cyclopædia of American Literature," at Kingfield, Me., May 23, 1823. When my parents settled in Maine, it was a District of Massachusetts, being made a State in 1820.

My father's ancestors have been described in this work except those of other names than Dudley, and even some of these have been referred to, viz.: the Smiths of Exeter, the Leavitts, Gilmans, Folsoms, Treworgys, Shapleighs, &c. These were all of English origin and Puritan blood.

My mother, as stated in the pedigrees, was Miss Rebecca, daughter of Dean Bangs of Brewster, Mass., a merchant and sea captain, son of Elkanah, of Harwich, Mass., a privateersman in the Revolutionary war, whose wife was Miss Susanna, daughter of John Dillingham of Harwich. My grandmother, the wife of Dean Bangs, was Miss Eunice Sparrow, whose father Isaac was son of Jonathan, son of Capt. Jonathan, a warrior of King Philip's time. My grandmother Eunice Sparrow, wife of Capt. Dean Bangs, for whom I was named, was an only daughter of her father. Her mother was Miss Mary, daughter of Ebenezer Hopkins, son of Stephen, Jr., son of Stephen, son of Giles, son of Stephen, the pilgrim of the Mayflower. John Dillingham, above named, was a grandson of Patience Freeman, a granddaughter of Gov. Thomas Prentice, the pilgrim, by his wife Patience Brewster, daughter of elder William Brewster, one of the chief men of the pilgrims of Plymouth, who came over in the Mayflower, A.D. 1620. Both of my grandfathers and both of their fathers served in the Revolutionary war. In other lines, my mother descended from Rev. John Doane of the Plymouth pilgrims, Rev. Thomas Crosby, one of the first graduates of Harvard College, 1653, and Rev. John Mayo, second pastor of the "Old North," or Second Church, of Boston in 1655. My father inherited the philosophy of the Dudleys and my mother the faith of the pilgrims. I must improve upon their inheritance and add thereto the cultivation of science and a just appreciation of art.

But they were not rich. I was introduced into the world in a house which my father had just built on a high hill about six or eight miles east of Mt. Abraham. My eldest sister, who is yet living, the only survivor, except myself, of the family of nine children, says, when she first looked upon me she thought I was all eyes and nose. Those features were very prominent. Being next to the youngest child I had a weaker physique than most of the others, but my head was strong and the largest of them all. My hat is No. 7½, although I have a narrow chest; and weigh generally only 155 pounds. My height is six feet two inches.

The first thing I remember is disliking my dress because it was not like a boy's. I wanted to be a little man, and one of my brothers often mentioned, that I always aspired to be manly and never acted like a child. I began at five or six years of age to ask hard questions: "What makes the wind blow?" "What are the stars for?" "What makes the rain and snow come down?" My mother hushed me, and said God made them so. But my father took my part, and said, "Let him ask as many questions as he likes. I will try to explain things to him." My father was a scholar and a teacher of schools and music. My mother also had taught school and was a good singer. My father required me to work on the farm, but he said, if I would go to school, he would not ask me to work. So I became a good scholar and never was punished for not being obedient and studious. I was fond of outdoor sports, always trying to go ahead as fast as possible and yet as high up as I could. Whenever I rode a horse, I wished to see how fast he could go, and often I would stand up straight on his bare back and race him through the village. When only seven years old I became a good boatman, and was every day on the river paddling about. People would ask me to ferry them over the river; but I would never take any pay for it. I thought it would be mean, and preferred their praise.

My mother was often short of pin money and I would give her all I could earn by doing little errands. She would always take my part right or wrong, and I thought, that if ever I had a chance, I would repay her kindness. She was a very slender lady, but had inherited tenacity of life. Her father lived to be over ninety. She was brought up to do fine work, as well as to get learning. She could card and spin wool and flax, and weave and knit and cut and make garments for both males and females. She could knit very fast, and weave diaper and coverlets. She was a good cook and could wash and make soap and sing in the choir at church, and write without misspelling one word. People said to me "your mother is an excellent woman." She lived to be seventy, and her last days were the happiest of her mature life. She died at Salem, Mass., among her children and lies buried in Harmony Grove Cemetery. I put up a marble stone with an inscription, over her grave. My father and mother both taught me to hate alcoholic liquors in my earliest days, and I have avoided all such unnatural stimulants. I soon learned the evils of betting and gambling by seeing people cheated and robbed in that way, and have never bet, or gambled, or bought lottery tickets in all my life; not once have I broken over this early resolution that I made. The bitterest lesson, which I learned in early youth, was that people were not so trust-worthy and faithful as they seemed. They often abused me and refused to fulfil their promises.

My father in 1834 became disgusted with the cold, rough place and the poor accommodations where we lived, and went to Ohio. There he taught school at first, and wrote from Huntsville that he admired that part of the country and would send for his family. But he died soon, and I never saw him after my 11th year. From that time I had to rely upon my own resources, and it was often a hard world to me. I worked at farming, and sometime sailed, as a cabin boy, on the little steamer Minerva, from Augusta to Bath. That was the second steamer that ever ran on the Kennebec river. The "Ticonic" was the first. Two years later I learned to run a shingle mill. But my winters were spent at school. I was always called faithful and expert at my work, as well as in my studies. Before I was fifteen years old, I had studied, besides the common English branches, general history, natural philosophy, astronomy and chemistry. Then I began Latin, algebra, and rhetoric. I was called a good declaimer and writer. The teacher of our high school said I was too far advanced for his scholarship. So I went to the Waterville Liberal Institute and studied Latin, Greek, algebra, geometry, the geography of the heavens, and mental philosophy. I had learned to swim and skate at thirteen, and several times my skill in the water has saved my life, and helped others to save theirs.

About that time of my life I thought there was amusement in gunning and fishing, but it was a mistake. I could not kill birds because it seemed too cruel. When I caught a fox in my trap, a neighbor wanted to let his dog kill it to teach him how to do such things, but I could not look on that scene, and I fought the man and dog, both, to save the fox from torture. I carried the poor fellow home, fed him, and then had the killing fairly and kindly done. As for fishing, it never could be made to pay. I generally got wet, and bitten severely by mosquitoes in summer, or half frozen by cold winds on the ice in winter.

PREFACE.

THIS No. VII. is the eighth part that I have issued of the history of our family. One or two numbers more will complete the work including the index, list of subscribers and authorities quoted. It is to be hoped that all, who have matters to go into the book, will write me soon and send them along. The Dudleys must let me know what I have accidentally omitted. My material is so voluminous that I may have overlooked some pedigrees that ought to have been inserted before this time. Please send promptly whatever you have for me, and let me know what is wanted. Please correct my errors and help to complete the work in a faithful and proper style.

There are subscribers of the names whose initials are toward the end of the alphabet, who expect me to insert more pedigrees. I wish to do justice to all. If any one sees an error, let him inform me about it at once, so that it may be corrected.

It is proposed to have a reunion of the Dudleys next October. Who will promise to be there and help to make it a success? I have received many letters of inquiry and passed them to a gentleman, who has undertaken to answer them and try to bring about a preliminary organization for work in the cause. Please write me what you will do for the reunion and the monument.

His wife and father were to be executors and John Herde overseer of his will.

He was a citizen of London like his father and member of the Draper's Guild.

JOSEPH P. DUDLEY, of Buffalo, N. Y.

MAJOR JOSEPH P.⁸ DUDLEY.

One of the most genial, popular, and well-known gentlemen in the city of Buffalo, is Major Joseph P. Dudley, of the Star Oil Company. He has lived in Buffalo so many years that he ranks among the old settlers; and not to know him is really a misfortune to any one. He was born among the granite hills of New Hampshire, at Candia, Rockingham County, about fifty years ago, and ever since that interesting epoch he has been busy. His father was Deacon Samuel Dudley, a sturdy pioneer, who was noted for his sound business principles, his thrifty habits, and sterling integrity, and an unswerving desire to render unto every one equal and exact justice. Deacon Dudley was a tanner, a shoe manufacturer, and the proprietor of a general country store, and it was in the nature of things that his son should follow, at least for a while, in the footsteps of his father. He learned the art of tanning in more ways than one, presumably, and in time his early business education had reached that state of perfection which enabled him to go out into the world and "hustle" for himself. Incidentally to the sale of supplies for man and beast, Mr. Dudley had attended the common schools as a youngster, and graduated later from the Pembroke Academy near his native village. While a young man he became a member of the staff of General Sanborn, with the rank of Major, a title by which he is known far and near.

In 1858 Major Dudley turned his face toward the Occident, but Buffalo was good enough for him, and here he has remained ever since. His first business venture here was in an iron foundry, and for three years he gave it his undivided attention, and then sold it out for the purpose of embarking in the oil business, which in 1861 was just becoming one of the greatest attractions of the time. As a result, the Empire Oil Works began doing business, and Dudley & Co. were the proprietors. They were extensive producers, with refineries in Buffalo, and later a branch at Miller Farm, Pa. Under Major Dudley's energetic and skilful management the Empire Oil Works made a great deal of money, which continued until 1877, when the Empire Works and the Star Oil Company were consolidated, the whole business being conducted under the name of the Star Oil Company, one of the most successful branches of the Standard Oil Company. Ever since the consolidation Major Dudley has been at the head of the Star Company, and in such capacity has had the exclusive management of a vast business, extending through New York State, New England, and the Canadas. This great company does millions of dollars' worth of business, and the direction of it requires great energy, combined with sagacity and rare good judgment. These remarkable gifts Major Dudley is fortified with in a pre-eminent degree, and supplemented by his joyous manner they have made him one of the most popular men in the city.

For nearly thirty years he has been closely identified with the Lafayette Street Presbyterian Church, of which he is trustee and treasurer. But his particular joy lies in the desire to have the Lafayette street Church furnish the best and most elaborate music in the city. To that end he has toiled early and late, and success has crowned his efforts. He is also treasurer of the Buffalo Musical Association, and to him, as much as to any one man, is due the credit of having brought Buffalo into prominence as one of the leading musical cities of the country. He is a life member of the Buffalo Library; a director in the Natural Gas Company; a director of the American Exchange Bank, and a man generally who is ever identified with the growth and prosperity of Buffalo and her citizens. — Buffalo (N. Y.) Morning Express, 1888.

GENERAL WM. WADE⁷ DUDLEY.

See p. 377.

WILLIAM WADE DUDLEY, soldier and lawyer, was born at Weathersfield Bow, Windsor County, Vt., Aug. 27, 1842. The first of his ancestors in this country was William Dudley, one of the early settlers in Connecticut. His father, Rev. John Dudley, a graduate of Yale Theological Seminary, was a clergyman in the Presbyterian and Congregational churches for twenty-three years, and later a successful educator at New Haven, Conn. His mother, Abigail Wade Dudley, was a granddaughter of the noted Colonel Nathaniel Wade, of revolutionary fame, one of the minute men at Concord, Lexington and Bunker Hill, who rose from the ranks to the office of lieutenant colonel and aide-de-camp to General Washington, and was placed in command of West Point after the treason of Benedict Arnold. Young Dudley obtained a classical education at Phillips Academy, Danville, Vt., and at Russell's Collegiate Institute at New Haven, Conn., acquiring in the latter institution a thorough knowledge of military tactics. He removed to Richmond, Indiana, in 1860, and became captain of the City Grays. His company entered the service in defence of the Union, July 29, 1861, in the 19th regiment of Indiana volunteers at Camp Norton, Indianapolis. This regiment brigaded with the Sixth, Second and Seventh Wisconsin, near Washington, D. C., and was first engaged in battle, September 11 and 21, 1861, at

GEN. WM. WADE DUDLEY, 1891.

Lewinsville, Virginia. During the remainder of his service, Captain Dudley participated in every round of duty, drill, picket and skirmish, with his regiment. In 1862, he led his company at Rappahannock Station, Sulphur Springs, near Warrenton, Gainsville, second Bull Run and South Mountain. At Antietam he was slightly wounded, but remained with his regiment and commanded it after the lieutenant-colonel was mortally wounded, the colonel having been disabled at South Mountain. He did valiant service at Fredericksburg in December, and at Fitzhugh Crossing and Chancellorsville the following May. He commanded a detachment of infantry and cavalry down the Peninsula in June, winning the commendations of his corps-commander, General Reynolds. At Gettysburg his regiment was placed at an exposed position in McPherson's Woods, and on the first day of the great battle lost seventy-two per cent of the men engaged. Colonel Dudley was wounded in the right leg, causing amputation. For "gallantry in action" in this engagement, he was brevetted brigadier-general. From 1866 to 1874 he was clerk of the courts of Wayne circuit, Indiana, and in the mean time was admitted to the bar at Richmond. He was cashier of the Richmond Savings Bank from 1875 to 1879, when he was appointed U. S. marshal for the district of Indiana, serving until 1881, when he was appointed commissioner of pensions by President Garfield. In this position General Dudley showed, in an even higher degree, the qualities he exhibited as a soldier and U. S. marshal, viz.: firmness and force of character, and administrative and executive abilities of the highest order, combined with energy, promptness and precision. At his suggestion and request, congress trebled the office force and greatly liberalized the pension laws. But while disposing of an immense amount of official business daily, he always lent a sympathizing ear to maimed soldiers, and to all others in distress. He resigned from the position of commissioner of pensions, Nov. 10, 1884, after making a brilliant record in that office. He then engaged in business with Batenan & Co., and in 1887 became a member of the law firm of Britton & Gray in Washington, D. C., leaving that firm to accept the position of treasurer of the Republican National Committee. Since his early manhood, General Dudley has been interested in local, state and national politics. For twenty years he served as chairman of county, congressional and member of state committees in the Republican party in Indiana. During the presidential campaigns of 1880 and 1884, he took a prominent part in political management. In the campaign of 1888, he was treasurer of the Republican national committee, took an active interest in the work of the convention which nominated General Harrison for president, and gave his time and best efforts to secure his election. As a result of his successful work in the eventful campaign, in connection with his colleagues of the national committee, he was at the time bitterly assailed. But he has always retained the highest respect and friendship of those who know him best. His upright life and honorable conduct as a soldier, lawyer, citizen and politician, are known and admired by his party friends, and also by hosts of others who differ with him in politics. He is now engaged in the practice of law in Washington, D. C., as the senior member of the firm of Dudley & Michener. He owns a fine home at Richmond, Indiana, which is still his legal residence, and one in Washington, D. C. General Dudley was married in 1864 to Theresa Fiske, only daughter of Rev. George Fiske, of Richmond, Indiana. Four sons and one daughter of this marriage are living.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF CHARLES DUDLEY.

Charles, the second son of Capt. Wm. Dudley, was born in Douglas, Mass., April 19, 1818. His mother was Harriet Cragin, oldest daughter of Benjamin Cragin, Esq. According to the testimony of her own and her husband's relatives she was an uncommonly lovely woman, a loving mother and a devoted Christian. She died before her twenty-fourth birthday, leaving three children, the oldest, four years and the youngest, nine months of age.

Charles Dudley's early years were spent on a farm, where he had the training and discipline of New England boys of that period. He attended the common schools of his native town until his twelfth year. It seemed necessary for the older children to leave home at an early age. There was a second wife with three children, and then a third wife and an increasing family. Charles went to New York, and was in the employ of Colton, the map publisher; then to Norwich, Conn., where he remained about three years. Finally, before coming to Providence, R. I., he went to White Bluff, near Savannah, Ga., where an uncle resided, who owned a mulberry plantation and was engaged in the silk business. His brother and sister had preceded him thither, and he rejoiced at the prospect of being with them again. He had been there less than two years, when his uncle was stricken with fever and died. His aunt died soon after, and their three little orphan girls were consigned to his charge. He, with faithful and tender care, returned with them to Douglas, where their relatives resided.

Soon after, in 1842, he came to Providence and was employed by Cragin & Hartwell in the dry goods trade. The habits of order, industry and faithfulness which he had acquired in his youth, were invaluable to him in this position, and were appreciated by his employers. The senior partner, Benjamin Cragin, Jr., was Mr. Dudley's uncle. He died in 1847, and his interest in the business was bought by the nephew, the firm becoming Hartwell & Dudley, wholesale dry good dealers. Mr. Dudley's health failing somewhat from close attention to business for twenty years, he, in 1862, sold his interest in the firm for needed rest and recuperation. Regaining his health, he, in about two years thereafter, formed a partnership in the wool business and continued in it about three years. In 1867 he returned to the wholesale dry goods trade, under the title of Dudley, Steere & Parkhurst. They continued to do business for twelve years and then dissolved.

Afterwards, for five years, he was one of the assessors of taxes. He had been subject to attacks of vertigo for many years, but it was hard for him to be idle. Activity seemed to be a necessity of his nature. He was a resident of Providence for nearly half a century, most of the time engaged in mercantile pursuits, so that he was widely known, and, wherever known, highly esteemed.

Though his early opportunities for education were limited, his attainments were equal to those of many whose advantages were greatly superior. He was a diligent and omniverous reader, well versed in history and the current literature of the day. He had an inquiring mind and was full of general information. He was a man of sterling integrity, of great kindness of heart and tenderness of feeling. Worthy applicants for aid seldom appealed to him in vain. He assisted many young men by his counsel and by his credit and by helping them to positions which they successfully filled.

In politics he was a republican. He had no desire for office, but was a member of the Common Council for two years. He was baptised in the Congregational Church in infancy, was a regular attendant on its ministry and a liberal contributor for the maintenance of its worship. At the time of his death he was a member of the standing committee of the Society, but was not a member of the church. He could not without mental reservations subscribe to its entire creed. He was married Oct. 28, 1846, to Clarrissa D. Wilmarth, of Providence. Their only son, William A., graduated at Amherst College, in 1870.

Mr. Dudley was a faithful and affectionate husband, a tender and loving father. He was domestic in his tastes, self-sacrificing and thoughtful of the interests and feelings of others. He was devoted to his home and family, and when he passed away, it was a darkened home to those who remained.

While at his country residence in North Scituate, R. I. he was stricken with apoplexy, and, after an illness of five weeks, died Oct. 22, 1889. He was buried in Swan Point Cemetery, Providence. His wife, a son and two daughters survive him.

HON. HARVEY A. JONES.

[See page 783.]

HON. HARVEY ALSTON JONES, of Sycamore, Ill., the subject of this sketch, was born on the historical "Burnett's Creek," that flows through the old Tippecanoe battle ground, nine miles from Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 17, 1837.

He is of Middle-States and Southern extraction; his paternal ancestors were from Cardiganshire, South Wales, and settled on the Delaware Welsh Tract, in 1710, where yet stands the old Welsh Tract Baptist church, with the imprint of British bullets in its walls, where five of Mr. Jones' ancestors preached before the Revolution.

In Lossing's "Field Book of the Revolution," and in Appleton's "Biographical Dictionary," are given accounts of this settlement, under the head of Rev. David Jones. These were written by Mr. Jones' kinsman, the Hon. Horatio Gates Jones, secretary of the Penn Historical Society.

His maternal ancestors came, with the Oglethorpe settlers to Savannah, Georgia, about the same time as the paternal ancestors of the late Jefferson Davis of the Southern Confederacy. Mr. Jones' mother was Mary Owens, who was born three miles from Savannah in 1802. Her father was Asa Owens, his people being Quakers from Wales. Her mother was Deborah McMunn and her people were also Quakers from the north of Ireland.

A family tradition relates that the grandfather of Mary Owens, whose name was Jonathan, had his right hand cut off, by order of a British officer at Savannah, because he would not fight, his Quaker principles and his sympathies with the American cause preventing him.

Both of the families of Mr. Jones' grandparents, were early settlers, (about 1812), in Clark Co., Ohio, near Dayton, where his parents, David Jones and Mary Owens were married. They emigrated to Tippecanoe County during their early married life.

Mr. Jones is the seventh child of a family of ten. He was educated at Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind., at Lombard University, Galesburg, Ill., and at the law school of Michigan University, Ann Arbor. While at Lombard University he was a fellow student with Sarah Dudley Perkins, who is now his wife. They were married in 1861. Of their seven children but two are now living, viz.: Mary Fuller, the wife of E. J. Baker, publisher, 325 Dearborn St., Chicago, and Anna Kelley, the wife of Prof. G. M. Clayberg, principal of the West Division High School, Chicago.

Mr. Jones is a liberal in religion, a zealous republican in politics (being accused by his eight brothers, all democrats, of inheriting all the old quaker, abolitionist blood in the family.)

Harvey A. Jones

He has always been a believer in woman's suffrage, and is a radical temperance man. He, for ten years, was lodge and county deputy for the Good Templar organization, and as public prosecutor, fought almost single-handed, for a long time, the liquor traffic in De Kalb County, once having the honor of being hung in effigy by the saloon keepers of Sycamore.

In politics he has never seen his way clear, however, to join the third party. While he is a prohibitionist, he is and always has been an active republican, as far as his arduous professional duties would allow, and was the Harrison and Morton presidential elector for the fifth Illinois district in 1888.

A severe and prolonged illness in the winter and spring of 1890 made a serious break in his work, but health and strength have returned, and, at the age of fifty-four, he feels that much of life's best work is yet to be done.

In regard to this gentleman, my grandfather, Nathaniel⁶ Dudley, wrote to his father, Hon. John,⁵ from Mt. Vernon, Me., May 30, 1797: "Our connections in this town and vicinity are all well, uncle Samuel excepted. He is at his son, Daniel's, in a distressed and low state of health, having been confined to his bed for nearly two months with what is supposed to be a rheumatic disorder and other troubles common to old age. We have expectations of his recovery. He is perfectly well resigned to his condition and thinks it is good for him to be thus afflicted; and I am happy to inform you that, since his confinement, the spirit of persecution which he seemed so much to have cherished against other sects of Christians is now abandoned by him, and he appears to entertain a spirit of love, benevolence and meekness in imitation of our Lord and Master. Love, tenderness and respect are shown him by his children; so it may be said that none but the Methodist Elder hath forsaken him in the days of his adversity, who are able to minister to his necessity."

REFERENCES TO DUDLEYS IN STATE PAPERS OF ENGLAND.

Henry Dudley, son of Lord Quondam, was in France sometime during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and so poor that he got put into prison for debt. The Queen wrote to her minister at Paris, directing him to give Henry Dudley one hundred crowns and send him into Scotland to obtain information about the movements of her rivals there. He was ever offering his services for such business. Elizabeth's minister wrote her that he had secretly met Henry Dudley in some open field in the vicinity of Paris and had an interview with him, and that Henry had several persons associated with him in the secret service line. Lord Ambrose Dudley, Earl of Warwick, had Thomas Sutton for his steward or secretary, and among the State Papers is a letter from Sutton, informing Lord Ambrose that he had secured lodgings at Newcastle on Tyne, for his lordship at a hotel on the first floor, so that there would be no necessity for his going up stairs. I suppose Lord Ambrose was too lame to ascend flights of steps.

Richard Dudley, of Yanwath, County Westmoreland, is referred to in the State Papers, as the manager or keeper of the king's mines in his district, in time of James I.

Ambrose Dudley, of Chopwell, is referred to as keeper of the king's forest; and at a later time, it is charged against him that he sold several hundred pounds' worth of timber out of the king's forest, which he had no right to do. Ambrose had a lease of some of the king's mines. His father, Sir Robert Dudley, of Newcastle, petitioned to have an arbitrator appointed to settle a dispute between himself and his son, Ambrose.

John Dudley, of Newington, in Middlesex, that is, Stoke Newington, wrote to Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, in the Netherlands, that the queen was greatly offended because the earl had neglected so long to write to her. John was Leicester's secretary, and calls him "his master." This letter is among the State Papers.

CALENDAR OF STATE PAPERS, FOREIGN, 1559-1560.

Jan. 9, 1560. No. 567. Instructions from the Queen (Elizabeth) to Throckmorton; 2 (Paragraph.) "He shall comfort H. Dudley to go into Scotland, and give him in reward 100 crowns."

[This was Henry Dudley, son of Lord Quondam, who was in France. Throckmorton was Sir Nicholas, English Ambassador in France.]

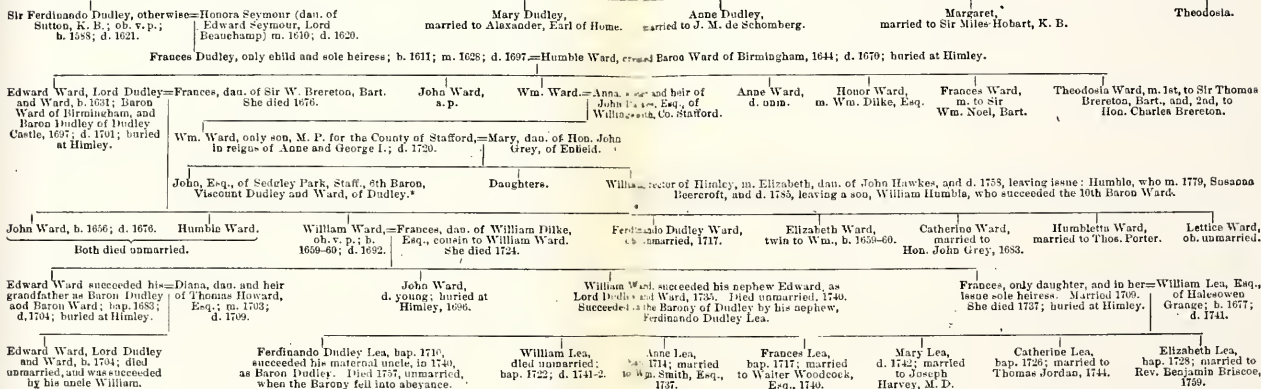

Throckmorton writes to Cecil, Nov. 26, 1561, that Mr. Henry Dudley is now prisoner for debt in the Chatelet, in France.

Oct. 10, 1560, Killegrew writes to Throckmorton that "I cannot imagine what rumors they be you hear there (in France), as you write so strange, unless such as were here of the death of my Lady Dudley; for that she broke her neck down a pair of stairs, which I protest unto you was done only by the hand of God, to my knowledge. But who can let men to speak and think in such cases?"

Rev. Thomas Scot wrote to Leicester that Henry Hawkins declared "that my Lord Robert hath had fyve children by the Queen, and she never goeth in progress but to be delivered." Papists favoured by Henry Lovell and Sir Henry Bedingfield, March, 1581.—Domestic State Papers, time of Elizabeth.

This large family were brought up in Kingfield, on a fine farm near the centre of the town. I attended the same district school at which they were educated. They were good scholars, and became good citizens. Their mother was a very active and energetic lady. She belonged to the Methodist sect and always entertained the itinerant Methodist ministers, who came to the town, so that her family had the Methodist gospel thoroughly instilled into them. Their mother first got her husband converted, then her children, and tried with all her might to convert the rest of the relations and even the neighbors. She esteemed other sects very slightly, especially the Universalists. The more hell-fire people believed in the better she liked them. Such faith and zeal and powerful will for that cause I never saw among the Dudleys. She even refused to attend her father's funeral, because a Universalist preached the funeral sermon.

SKETCH OF COL. WINTHROP¹ HILTON.

(See his autograph, No. 15, p. 298. I think there is no portrait of him.)

Winthrop Hilton was the eldest son of Edward Hilton, Esq., and born about 1671. He had a common English education somewhat above his townsmen at Newmarket. Being a brave, enterprising man, he early distinguished himself in the Indian wars.

He was large, tall, muscular, active, well-formed, brave and daring. He had a garrison on his farm, and his neighbors relied upon him for counsel and protection in the great trials of that time.

The dates of his first commissions are not preserved, says Kelley, but he is slightly mistaken, for I have several of his commissions. The one for captain, from Gov. Joseph Dudley, is dated Oct. 7, 1703. I have another for his son Winthrop Hilton as lieutenant, from Gov. B. Wentworth, dated Sept. 18, 1754. Col. Hilton was directed by the Governor, under his official seal, to "fight, take, kill and subdew any of the subjects or vassals of France and Spaine, and the Indian rebels and murderers."

On the 31st of January, 1704, he received Gov. Dudley's commission appointing him major in the expedition against the Eastern Indians, and led three companies upon snow-shoes into the Indian country, but searched the woods in vain for the enemy, and returned to his home at Newfields, as his place was called. This great winter march gained him honor and £12 gratuity from government.

In the Spring of 1704 Gov. Dudley resolved on a strong attack against the wild enemy, and he wrote to Major Hilton to take to his assistants, Gilman and Coffin, his "very good officers," and raise a number of volunteers to be ready to range the Eastern shore to destroy the enemy.

Of this expedition Col. Church was appointed to the chief command. Hilton's commission under Church was dated May 1, 1704. Major Hilton met the Governor at Portsmouth on the 19th of May and there joined the expedition with his Exeter volunteers. He was gone all summer, and June 13 he wrote his wife that since his last letter they had taken and killed thirty-six French and one Indian, and secured many stores. They swept the seashore from New Hampshire to Nova Scotia. Several towns were destroyed and many enemies, even to the gates of Port Royal. Church lost but two men and proved himself brave and efficient, and Hilton gained the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He was requested by the Governor to raise a company of 60 volunteers and accordingly he marched with 270 men to Norridgewock, nearly 200 miles, upon snow shoes, the snow being four feet deep. The Indians fled upon Hilton's approach, and he burnt their French chapel and the Indian wigwams, and returned without encountering the enemy.

In the spring Colonel Hilton commanded an expedition to Winnepisiogee and Pemigewasset, and all the frontier from Massachusetts to Maine. It was an indispensable service, but very hard and unwelcome.

Gov. Dudley would not trust any one but Hilton with that business, and he wrote him "keep close to my orders and they will keep you." But "there's a divinity that shapes our ends." The dauntless hero was at last destroyed by the revengeful and determined savages. He had often escaped by hair-breadth chances, when waylaid and otherwise hunted. He had a sharp, black eye and a long, bright gun—which awed the skulking foe.

On one occasion, after watching a long time, the Indians pounced upon Col. Hilton and his companions in a mowing field, but the Colonel escaped, killing four or five, but the Indians captured three, one of whom was Capt. Edward Hall, a nephew of Col. Hilton. Him they carried to Canada, where he happened to gain great favor by building a saw-mill for the French and Indians, and they allowed him and Mr. Miles, his fellow prisoner, to go hunting.

In one of their hunts, they struck for home, living upon roots by the way till Miles sank down with hunger. Hall hurried on alone, soon reaching Deerfield, Mass. Aid was at once sent to Miles and he was saved, and, soon recovering his strength, they returned home to Exeter.

In the beginning of 1707, Col. Hilton commanded another expedition to Norridgewock and other Eastern parts, which was successful, though of short duration.

The next warlike enterprise, which Col. Hilton took part in, was that against Port Royal in the spring of 1707. Col. March was put in chief command and this proved a failure, but no blame was attached to Col. Hilton. Again in August Port Royal was attacked with no better success; however, the expedition lost only sixteen killed and as many wounded.

Hilton had now won fame and the confidence of the State. He was ever foremost in the Provincial war matters, and all promise was of honor and renown. But his sun suddenly went down in blood at noontide. On July 23, 1710, he was preparing masts in the woods near the borders of Exeter, where Epping is now, having assistants with him peeling off the bark of the felled mast trees.

The Indians, had long been watching for him in ambush; but fearing to attack him openly, they fired before he saw them, and brought him down at the first shot. Two of his party fell with him, two were taken prisoners, and the rest escaped. His brother Dudley Hilton was never heard of again. The savages mangled the remains of the dead and suddenly fled. The Colonel was buried with the highest honors, in his own field, after the New Hampshire fashion. There, together, on the west bank of Lamprey river, in old Newmarket, lie his ancestors and descendants of seven generations. Never was there a hero that better deserved of his family and his country. See Farmer's and Moore's Collections.

LETTER OF COL. HILTON TO HIS WIFE.

CASCO FORT, July 16th, 1707.

MY DEAR SPOUSE :

I can't but take all opportunities to salute you. I do earnestly embrace this as ye last before our departure. Notwithstanding a thousand difficulties in our way, it's ordered that ye fleet prepare to take ye signal weighing anchor to-morrow. The soldiers are utterly averse and will at best be but passive in returning to Port Royal, just as prisoners are transported; neveryeless if Providence cast advantages into our hands there, they will eagerly have a much greater share in our songs of triumph. Dear heart, pray hard for us and cheerfully commit to ye Almighty's protection.

Your loving husband,

WINTHROP HILTON.

LETTER FROM GOV. DUDLEY TO COL. HILTON.

BOSTON, July 20, 1707.

MY DEAR KINSMAN :

I always had a just value for you as my good kinsman, but much more for your steady service for and love to your country. I have not neglected writing to you as being displeased, for I am not so,—you being the only officer against whom I have no complaint. But truly Sr. I was never so surprised by what the enemy can do against me, as I am at this intolerable ungoverned temper and base cowardice of my people. I pray you to be steady to Colonel Hutchinson and the gentleman in command, to assist Colonel March. You have a brave Virginia prize in Port Royal harbor, and by and by will have the storeship; and if you will be content to stay twenty days at Port Royal they will desert and come over to you. However, let the Governor be obeyed, and all will be well.

I am your affectionate kinsman,

J. DUDLEY.

To Col. Hilton, Eastward.

The army was immediately ordered back to Port Royal under direction of three members of the Massachusetts Council. But the officers and men were disheartened and wanted to quit that service, and but little more was effected. After Col. Hilton had been ordered back, he addressed to his wife the following letter before reaching home.

LETTER OF COL. HILTON TO HIS WIFE.

CASCO BAY, July 24th, 1707.

MY DEAR NANNEY:

I pray that these lines may find you well and our children with all our friends, my dear.

I shall give no account of any proceedings from the army before I return, for the reason, that it is very dangerous writing. If you want anything, send to Mr. Penhallow and he will supply your wants. Advise with brother Richard concerning the first creek and the four acres of marsh that Capt. Gilman has in his keeping, and see what assistance he can give in mowing both, if he will, by halves. If he will not, you will not meddle with it, but let Samuel Miles, if he be scarce, cut what he can of that in the first creek.

I hope you have had my last letter and one from Mr. Moody. I am well, but have no opportunity to multiply words, but

My prayers shall be,
Like yours for me,

for you and our little ones until death.

REVOLUTIONARY REMINISCENCES.

It stirs one's blood, in these latter days, to read the speeches and record of the actions of those who lived in the days of the Revolution. When the news of the fall of Ticonderoga reached the capital of New Hampshire, John Langdon, who was speaker of the Provincial Legislature, seeing the public credit exhausted, and his friends discouraged, rose and said:

"I have $3,000 hard money, and I will pledge my plate for $3,000 more. I have seventy hogsheads of Tobago rum, which shall be sold for the most it will bring. These are at the service of the State. If we succeed in defending our firesides and homes, I may be remunerated. If we do not, the property will be of no value. Our old friend Starke, who so nobly maintained the honor of our State at Bunker Hill, may safely be intrusted with the conduct of the enterprise, and he will check the progress of Burgoyne."

Those were the days of patriotism! The offer was accepted, the money paid. The plate hypothecated, and the rum converted into cash. A corps of mountaineers was soon raised and placed under Starke's command. When he came in sight of the enemy at Bennington, he said:

"Boys, there are the Red Coats! We must beat them, or Molly Stark will be a widow." He did beat them. The tide of war turned; the firesides and hearths of our fathers were preserved; but whether old John Langdon ever got back his plate, except in Continental rags, we do not know. There are many who lost everything in the service of their country, made advances and sacrificed estates, whose descendants are now poor.—Boston Sunday Dispatch, 1854.

LEAVITT, OF EXETER, N. H.*

DOROTHY³ DUDLEY (Rev. Samuel,² Gov. Thomas¹) married Moses Leavitt, of Exeter, N. H., Oct. 26, 1681. Mr. Leavitt was a son of Dea. John, of Hingham, Mass. Moses was born Aug. 12, 1650, at Hingham. His father, born in Scotland, 1608, was a tailor, settled at Hingham, about 1636. Dea. John's first wife, "Sarah," died July 4, 1646. His second wife, also "Sarah," died 1700. Dea. John died Nov. 20, 1691, aged 83, at his homestead, on Leavitt street, Hingham, mostly owned, in 1827, by his descendants through his sons, Israel and Josiah Leavitt. His will mentions his six sons and four daughters. The above Moses, the fourth son, settled at Exeter with the Gilmans and Folsoms, who were also from Hingham. He was a land surveyor, or civil engineer, as it is now often called.

A writer in the Exeter News-Letter about 1848, whose name was Dearborn, living in Exeter, thus describes Moses Leavitt and several of his descendants :

"Moses, the Lot Layer, lived where the late Susy Leavitt lived. He married a daughter of the Rev. Samuel Dudley, in 1681, and had twelve children, and died in 1730 or 1731, aged about 82 years. His son John lived on his homestead, and died in 1764. Dudley lived on the Creighton Place, and died in 1765. Daniel and Stephen lived in Brentwood and died about 1654-5. Joseph lived on the edge of Kensington, a part of his life. His son Joseph resided where the late James Folsom lived. Dudley Leavitt, the Almanac-maker, is his descendant. We think another son of Moses, the Lot Layer, was Moses Leavitt, Esq., of Stratham. One daughter married Francis Lyford. The descendants and family of the Lot Layer have always been noted for longevity. John, son of Moses, had a daughter, married Creighton, who lived to be 100 years old, and her daughter 100 years. Many have lived to be over 80 years old. Some are still alive of that age."

* John Farmer, Esq., the late eminent antiquary, says: "Samuel and Moses Leavitt, sons of Dea. John, settled in Exeter, N. H., and were living there in 1683. Of their numerous descendants were the late Gen. Moses Leavitt, for seven years senator in the General Court, and Thomas Leavitt, Esq., and Dudley Leavitt, the astronomer and mathematician, of New Hampshire."

Lincoln's History of Hingham, says of Dea. John Leavitt: "The tradition is he ran away from England at nineteen, being an apprentice to a tailor."

Moses Leavitt was one of the most prominent citizens of Exeter, and, perhaps I might say, of New Hampshire. He was often one of the selectmen, moderator of town meetings, representative to the Provincial Assembly, etc. He was a member of the first church organized, his pew being second only to Judge Kinsley Hall, and he had extensive grants of land from the town for his useful services. He died in 1730-1, aged 82.

WILL OF THE FIRST MOSES LEAVITT.

Also I give to my son Dudley my part or proportion of the Common land belonging to the township of Exeter, allowed me by the committee, excepting what I have given before to my son Moses, and what I shall hereafter give to my grandson Francis Lyford. I also give my son Dudley my movable stock all except such part as I shall hereafter reserve and give to my daughter Dorothy, provided that my son Dudley satisfy and pay my just debts and be at the charge of my funeral and faithfully comply with and perform whatsoever I hereafter in this my will order him to do and perform.

I give to my daughter Dorothy 30 pounds in money to be paid by my son John within 3 years after my decease, that is ten pounds each year; also I give to my daughter Dorothy one room in my dwelling house, that is any one she shall choose, also what land she shall wish to improve for a garden, where she thinks most convenient, also privilege in the cellar and any of the rooms of the house during her natural life, also I give to my daughter Dorothy one cow and six sheep and the one-half of the swine that I shall leave on the place and one-quarter part of the produce of the corn and apples growing on the place or lands. Also I give to my daughter Dorothy three feather beds, also her mother's and her sister Mary's clothes both linen and woolen and of every other woolen cloth in the house; also what movables I have not before in this will given away shall be equally divided between my son Dudley and my daughter Dorothy. I give to my son Dudley my full right I have to a double saw-mill in Exeter upon a creek that goeth out of the main River to Deacon Wilson's mill, my part being five days in one fortnight, provided I do not dispose of it in my lifetime, and my will is that my son Dudley shall not molest nor hinder his sister Dorothy from living in the house as aforesaid, and that he keep her cow and other creatures for her both winter and summer and that he do the best he can to till the land and give to his sister Dorothy the full quarter part of the produce with the corn and apples raised on the lands and also to pay five pounds to each of my other daughters within four years after my decease.

JOSHUA⁵ LEAVITT (Joseph,⁴ *Dorothy*³ Dudley, Rev. Samuel,² *Gov. Thomas*¹) married Elizabeth James, and lived, sometime at Exeter, N. H., and then at Deerfield. This Elizabeth James was a granddaughter of Hilton, of Newmarket, N. H. He afterwards lived at Northfield, as appears by several deeds of land in Rockingham Registry. In 1790, he, with his wife Elizabeth, conveys land in Deerfield to Enoch Brown, of Deerfield. In 1792, he says: "I, Joshua Leavitt, of Deertfield, yeoman, and my wife Elizabeth, convey to John Prescott, of Deerfield, land near land of Kinsley Hall."

In 1790, in his deed to Jeremiah Smith, of Northfield, Dudley Leavitt and Josiah Leavitt are the witnesses. Dudley was the almanac maker afterwards.

On May 28, 1795, Joshua Leavitt, in a deed, says: "I, Joshua Leavitt, of Northfield, convey," etc., "to Dudley Leavitt, of Northfield, school-master." Dudley was then twenty-three years old.

They had:

i. DUDLEY,⁶ the almanac maker, b. May 23, 1772, at Exeter. One of his granddaughters writes me from Meredith:

"You ask me Did Dudley Leavitt go to college, or how was he educated? My grandfather was deeply interested in mathematical science from a child, and all his leisure moments were spent in study; but the years of his youth were those which 'tried men's souls,' and he attended school but three months in all his life."

After his marriage he took up his residence in Gilmanton (N. H.) about 1794, where he studied Latin and Greek under Rev. Isaac Smith.

Later in life he studied Hebrew, and I think some modern languages. He was an intense student till the hour of his death, and his acquisitions covered a broad field. His first almanac was for 1794, and the last for 1858. The one for 1852 was in press when he died, and he left six in manuscript. He received pupils and taught school until seventy years of age: that is, over fifty years. He also made the calculations for the New Hampshire Register, and for the Freewill Baptist Register, and was the author of several school text-books; and at the time of his death had a work on astronomy nearly ready for the press.

LOVERING, OF RAYMOND, N. H.

SUSANNA⁶ DUDLEY (Judge John,⁵ James,⁴ Stephen,³ Rev. Samuel,² Gov. Thomas¹), born July 3, 1759, at Exeter, N. H.; married, Jan., 1786, Col. Theophilus Lovering, of Raymond, son of John Prescott Lovering, of Exeter. Col. Lovering was alive and well in 1848, when I visited Raymond, and he gave me many facts about his family and the early scenes of his life. Susanna (Dudley) Lovering died Sept 3, 1835. He said:

“My father, John Prescott Lovering, of Exeter, a farmer, who died April 13, 1802, aged 75 years, was son of Daniel Lovering, of Exeter, who was a mason by trade. I was born in Poplin, Jan. 3, 1759. My mother’s maiden name was Abigail Clough. She died March 9, 1796. She was a daughter of Theophilus Clough, of East Kingston, N. H. My grandmother Lovering’s maiden name was Prescott. I can remember some things about the last French war which was much talked about in my youth. When I was in my sixteenth year, Feb. 1776, I enlisted under Lieutenant Barnard, in Captain James St. Clair’s company of volunteers at Brentwood.

“I was so short that I had hard work to get mustered in. We were stationed at New Castle; but after two months there was a call for men to go to Ticonderoga, and I enlisted, being one of fifteen, who marched under Col. Harper over the Green Mountains to Lake Champlain. Gen. Arnold’s troops from Canada came and joined us. We staid there six months and had a sickly time, many dying of the camp disorder. I had it, and was very sick. Then we were sent home. I was in the battle of Bemis Heights. In 1779 I was appointed orderly sergeant in Rowell’s company of Col. Beed’s regiment. After the defeat of Burgoyne we all went home. I voted for Gen. Washington when candidate for president; also for Jefferson, Madison, Munroe, Gen. Jackson, and Van Buren.”

The Colonel was once taken prisoner by the French and carried to Canada; but he ran away from them and got safely back to the American lines. He said the prisoners were kept on poor, wormy rations, and sadly starved.

In his last years he received a pension of $120 a year.

WENDELL⁴ PHILLIPS (Hon. John,⁷ Margaret⁶ Wendell, Sarah⁵ Oliver, Mercy⁴ Bradstreet, Samuel,³ Anne² Dudley, Gov. Thomas¹).

Wendell Phillips was born in Boston, Nov. 29, 1811, and died there Feb. 2, 1884, aged seventy-three years, two months and three days. Mr. Phillips graduated at Harvard College in 1831, in the class with J. Lothrop Motley, the historian. He was handsome in person, of dignified manners, and of a generous disposition. He had a taste for history and antiquities. But oratory was his strong characteristic. He studied law for three years and was admitted to the bar in 1834. However, he had no taste for the practice of the law, and, as the clients did not come early to him, he gave himself heart and soul to the advocacy of negro emancipation, temperance, prohibition, woman-suffrage, redress of the wrongs of Ireland, labor-reform, the greenback theory of finance, etc., and was nominated for governor of Massachusetts by the reformers in 1870, and accepted the nomination, but failed of an election. His last public address was delivered Dec. 26, 1883, at the unveiling of the statue of Harriet Martineau, in Boston.

Mr. Phillips married Miss Anne Terry Greene, of Boston, who still survives, but has no children. Mr. Phillips was the most eloquent orator I ever heard. He was my friend and wrote me many letters. Out of admiration for his reform efforts, I joined his party and voted for him. But he had long been an intimate friend to me, and, in fact, from my first publication in 1848, he had recognized me as his cousin. I find this sketch:

“The first that the writer of this ever heard of him was in May, 1851. Mr. Phillips, then an eminent lawyer, about forty years of age, took an active part in opposing the return of the fugitive slave, Thomas Sims, to his master in Savannah, Sims having been arrested in Boston and tried before the United States authorities, in the court-house on Court street. The excitement was intense, and Wendell Phillips was the foremost man to speak in opposition to the return of the fugitive to the chains of slavery.

“The writer was then a boy of fifteen and a fortunate subscriber to Gleason's Pictorial Drawing Room Companion. On the fourth page of the first number of the first volume is given an excellent picture of Phillips, and pictures of the attending scene of the trial and surrender of the slave. In one picture, Mr. Phillips is represented as addressing a crowd at the head of Boston Common, he standing on the steps leading down from Beacon street. These pictures and the accompanying accounts were the first I knew of him.

“What a career he has had since then! Then all the Boston papers denounced and reviled him; now, in the week just passed, the English language has scarcely sufficed to afford eulogistic terms enough for all the Boston papers to praise and applaud his unmatched oratory and his magnificent career. The Chrysostom of modern reform is dead. The story of his heroic devotion through the long years is one that will be told and admired in all the ages to come.

“The funeral of Mr. Phillips was from Hollis street church on Wednesday. The body was borne up the aisle by Samuel E. Sewell, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Wm. Lloyd Garrison, Jr., Wendell Phillips Garrison, Lewis Hayden, Wm. I. Bowditch, John M. Foster, and R. P. Hallowell, the members of the city government following, the organ playing a funeral chant meanwhile. The gallery was open to all; the body of the house was entered by tickets. Here sat the family, relatives and friends, the old abolitionists and those who for reasons of special interest or sympathy were near to Mr. Phillips. Mrs. Phillips was not able to be present. The services were conducted by Rev. Samuel Longfellow and Rev. Samuel May. These consisted of appropriate scripture reading, prayer and singing by the choir.

“After the services, the procession formed and marched to Faneuil Hall, where the remains were exposed to the view of so many of the vast crowd as could pass in through the hall from one o'clock till nearly five.

“There were beautiful floral decorations, and a wreath of ivy and a wheat sheaf lay on the casket. From there the remains were carried to their final resting place in the Granary burying ground, by the Park street church. The grave is close by the sidewalk, and near the gate.”

“On Friday evening, Feb. 8, Faneuil hall was thronged with people to listen to the memorial services in honor of the dead.

“Eloquent addresses were made by George E. McNeil, Rev. J. M. L. Babcock, Edwin M. Chamberlin, Julia Ward Howe, Rev. P. A. McKenna, Rev. A. A. Miner, Wm. Wells Brown, James N. Buffum, Rev. Jesse H. Jones and others. Letters were read from the poet, John G. Whittier, Parker Pillsbury, and Theodore Weld; and John Hutchinson, one of that famous family, sang a beautiful song prepared for the occasion.

“All these closing scenes of his career are quite in contrast with Gleason's Drawing Room Companion's account of him in 1851, which says he was regarded as a ‘hot-headed fanatic, arousing the lower classes of the populace, and the colored population to such a state of excitement’ that they nearly succeeded in rescuing the slave from slavery in free Boston.

“On Sunday, 9th inst., all the leading preachers in Boston, New York and other large cities, had a good word to say for the distinguished dead. Henry Ward Beecher delivered a powerful discourse in which he reviewed Mr. Phillip's career in the most glowing terms, and re-told the story of the anti-slavery struggle in the most interesting and lively manner. He closed his discourse as follows:

“‘After a stormy life his sun went down in glory, and all English-speaking people write among the names that shall never die the name of the scoffed-at, mob-beaten wretch, Wendell Phillips. Boston, that persecuted and would have slain him, is building his tomb and rearing his statue. The men that would not utter his name are thanking God that he lived. Let the young heed the lesson that splendid gifts and ambitions may be best used for the lowly. His life rebukes the idea that we are to climb to greatness by following current paths of opinion. The way to glory is often by mere adherence to principles.’”—Dover (N. H.) Enquirer, Feb. 16, 1884.

THE KENTUCKY DUDLEYS.

[See pp. 517, 551 and 621.]

There were five brothers: Robert, who was a lieutenant in the war of the Revolution, and died of disease while in the service; Ambrose, who was appointed captain by Patrick Henry, governor of Virginia, and commanded a company in the war of the Revolution. Robert, son of Ambrose, accompanied Gen. Wayne on his campaign in 1794. Maj. Benjamin Graves, son-in-law to Ambrose, and Thos. P. Dudley were in the two battles at French Town on the Raisin river, 18th and 22d of January, 1813; both were severely wounded in the battle of the 22d, and left on the battle-ground at the surrender. On the morning of the 23d both were taken prisoners by Indians, at the massacre. The fate of the former is well known. Col. William, brother of Ambrose and Peter, participated in the battle at Fort Meigs on the 5th of May, 1813. The former was found killed at Dudley's defeat on that day. Peter and Ambrose, Jr., were in the battle of the Thames, in the fall of 1813. Jephtha was commissioned captain in Col. Owing's regiment United States infantry and placed on recruiting service. After a few months he applied to be relieved and placed in active service with the regiment, and, being denied, resigned his commission. Peter commanded a battalion, and accompanied Gen. McArthur on his campaign to Long Point, in Upper Canada, in 1814.

Thos. P., and Parker accompanied the detachment of the regiment under Maj.-Gen. John Thomas, at New Orleans, in the fall of 1814, the former as quartermaster-general and the latter as assistant quartermaster-general of the detachment, and participated in the battle of the 8th of January, below New Orleans, in 1815.

James Dudley commanded a company in Col. Francisco's regiment, and reaching Urbana, Ohio, on their march to the Northwest, heard the news of peace and were disbanded.

Thus it will be seen that three of the old stock, and seven sons and one son-in-law of Ambrose, were at different periods in the service of the country.

After the close of the war in 1812-15, Peter Dudley was appointed adjutant-general of the State of Kentucky by Governor Shelby, which office he held to the close of his life.

Thos. P. Dudley was appointed quartermaster-general of the State of Kentucky, by Gov. Shelby, which position he resigned in the year 1817, and closed his military career.

The late Elder Ambrose Dudley was engaged about half a century in "preaching peace on earth and good will to men."

Elder Thos. P. Dudley has been engaged in the same calling about fifty-six years. Elder Ambrose Dudley was the father of 14 children—11 sons and 3 daughters—all of whom were grown and married before the death of their father, and his descendants are almost as numerous as the sands of the sea-shore.—Lexington Gazette.

PREFACE.

Many subjects ought to be touched upon in this place. I see in a work called "Americans of Royal Descent," quite a number of our modern Dudleys are connected with royal lines. But in every case the connecting link is fictitious. The author makes assumptions that are preposterous. His pedigrees, in some parts of them, are copied from my works, but then he links together persons wholly unrelated in the way he asserts, and he is the only author that is responsible for his royal pedigrees of American Dudleys. If any one will study my pedigrees in this work he will soon notice the errors to which I refer in those royal genealogies.

In speaking of Gov. Thomas Dudley on page 25 of my "Memorial of the Dudley Reunion," I said his religious zeal was the only thing for which he had been blamed. Anne Bradstreet was my authority. But I should rather have said, that was the only thing for which he was blameworthy. Madam Bradstreet said some bad people maligned her father because they hated his intolerance of sectaries. If he had been tolerant, that would have made all parties pleased and satisfied with his course. So his zeal was the cause of all the enmity against him among both the apostates and the people generally.

This No. VIII. of my History of the Dudleys contains over a hundred pages, besides the illustrations. I desired to give more pages than were promised, because the sketch of my life has occupied so much room. What I had done in 70 years could not be mentioned without filling a large space. Even Walt Whitman filled a whole volume with his autobiography. Now this history includes nine parts or numbers of one hundred pages each and the Appendix ("Memorial of the Dudley Reunion.") The price of the parts is one dollar each, and the Memorial is fifty cents. There are corrections and an index of subjects in each part; also many illustrations. There are 163 engravings in the whole work thus far published.

I am to print a general index in the next number if nothing shall prevent more than I now see.

Let all the Dudleys, who wish for my official Report of the Reunion of the descendants of Gov. Thomas Dudley, send me a postal note, which postmasters supply for three cents each, and I will send it by mail. Bound volumes of this History of the Dudley Family (ten numbers or parts) including the Memorial are ten dollars. For this please send checks. Do not delay sending. Some of the numbers may run short before long.

COL. GILMAN HENRY^s TUCKER.

Born at Raymond, New Hampshire, some fifty years ago, of ancestry long settled in New England, Mr. Gilman Henry Tucker was trained at Meriden, New Hampshire, at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., and at Dartmouth College, where he was graduated with the degree of A. B. in the class of 1861. While in college he stood well with the Faculty, ranking eighth in a class of sixty men, and well with the students, being a member of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity. Directly after leaving college, he was appointed on the staff of Gov. Nathaniel S. Berry of New Hampshire, with the rank of colonel, which office he held through his administration — two years. During a large part of the year 1862, he acted as the governor's private secretary, assisting materially in the organization and equipment of the New Hampshire Volunteers. Since 1862, Col. Tucker has been connected in various capacities with the business of publishing school books. For fourteen years he had charge of New England for Messrs. Charles Scribner & Co., with headquarters in Boston. In 1878, he removed from Boston to New York, to take charge of the Educational Department of Messrs. Scribners, and remained with them until 1883, when they sold their educational list to Messrs. Ivison, Blakeman & Co. In 1884, Mr. Tucker was elected secretary of the School Book Publishers' Association in New York, holding this position until 1890, when he was elected secretary of the American Book Company, which is the largest school book publishing company in the world. Mr. Tucker has always kept up his connections and interests with his native state, and retains the homestead in Raymond as his summer residence.

He was president of the N. Y. Dartmouth Association for 1889, '90 and '91, and is a member of the University, Aldine, Unitarian, New Hampshire, and the Appalachian (Boston) Mountain Clubs.

SIR ROBERT DUDLEY took to Italy with him, disguised as his page, Lady Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Robert Southwell of the Romish party. At that time she was esteemed one of the finest ladies in England. Sir Robert Dudley had been married first to a daughter of Thomas Cavendish, the noted navigator; and she dying s. p. soon after their marriage, which took place about 1595, he married secondly Alice Leigh,* third daughter of Sir Thomas Leigh of Stoneley, by which lady he had five daughters, living in 1616, and four of them grown to maturity. Sir Robert left sufficient provision for them (says Dr. Campbell,) when he went to Italy.

I. ALICE, bapt. at Kenilworth, Sept. 25, 1597, d. 1621 unm.

II. FRANCES, m. Sir Gilbert Kniveton, Bart., of Bradley, Co. Derby, and d. in 1663, being buried in the Church of St. Giles-in-the-fields, London.

III. ANNE, m. Sir Robert Holbourne, solicitor general to Charles I. She d. about 1663.

IV. CATHERINE, m. Sir Richard Levison, K. B., of Trentham. She d. in 1673, and was buried at Lilshall, Co. Salop, with her husband, who died before her.

V. DOUGLASSA, m. Capt. Wm. Dansey of Brins-op, near Hereford, and d. s. p., 1619. Her monument is in Brins-op churchyard. There is an inscription to the "Rt. Hon. lady Douglas Dudley." See Robinson's Manners of Herefordshire, p. 44.

Lady Alice, the mother of the above children, was granted by Charles I the title of Duchess Dudley during the term of her natural life, and also the same privileges and precedencies to her daughters, as if they had been a duke's daughters, and in the preamble to the letters-patent for this purpose, the legitimacy of Sir Robert Dudley is asserted and the injustice that had been done him is acknowledged. Duchess Dudley also secured to herself and her daughters the remains of that great fortune which devolved to Sir Robert Dudley by the Earl of Leicester's will, and other conveyances, which Sir Robert had forfeited to the crown by his refusal to return to England at the command of King James I.

The Duchess resided many years in the parish of St. Giles-in-the-fields, London (granted to the Earl of Warwick by Henry VIII.), and died there Jan. 22, 1668-9, in her ninetieth year. She had been a very devout churchwoman, and profuse in her charities, and especially in rebuilding the church in St. Giles, and repairing the monuments of the Earl of Leicester (Robert Dudley), and the Earl of Warwick (Ambrose Dudley), and Leicester's son by Lettice (Devereux), in Beauchamp chapel at Warwick Castle.

Her funeral was celebrated with great pomp, her daughter Lady Catherine Levison being chief mourner. Sir William Dugdale, the famous antiquary, was one of the trustees appointed in her will, and he accompanied her remains from London to Stoneley, her birthplace, where she lies buried.

THE ITALIAN LIFE OF SIR ROBERT DUDLEY, SON OF ROBERT DUDLEY, EARL OF LEICESTER.

(Chapman & Hall published in 1849 a work on that subject from which I quote.)

In the anonymous work called "The English and Spanish Pilgrim," there is a sketch of Sir Robert Dudley. The author is supposed to have been a Roman Catholic. He does not give his name, but says his father died Nov. 30th, 1623.

He says "there liveth at Florence in Italy, Sir Robert Dudley, who styeth himself Duke of Northumberland, leaving England because he could not enjoy a second wife, his first wife still surviving." Pages 67, 68. Anthony Wood calls the author James Wadsworth, whose book was printed in 1630.

About the same time Lord Herbert of Cherbury, a great military man, wrote an account of Sir Robert. He says: "I went from Rome to Florence, where I saw Sir Robert Dudley, who had the title of Earl and Duke of Northumberland given him by the Emperor, and the handsome Mrs. Southwell, whom he carried away with him out of England, and was there taken for his wife. I was invited by them to a great feast the night before I went out of town."

When he was ready to depart a messenger was sent to him offering him 2000 ducats per annum to enlist in the Duke's service against the Turks, with whom he was at war. This offer was not accepted. Herbert says 2000 ducats was the pension of Sir Robert Dudley. This may be found in Herbert of Cherbury's Life.

Rev. Dr. Bargrave in History of Oxfordshire says: "The Hon. Robert Dudley of Christ church, Oxford, was made Duke by the Emperor, with the title of Northumberland, of which he fancied himself wrongfully deprived. He contrived many engines and mathematical instruments not known before, which are now in the possession of the great Duke of Tuscany, by whose ancestors he was succeeded in his discontent and highly valued for his great learning, and with their successors his children remain to this day, in wealth and honor, retaining the titles of Northumberland and Earls of Warwick and Leicester."

In Imhoff's Regum Pariumque Magnae Britanniae Historia Genealogica, 1890, the author says: "Dugdale informs us concerning Robert Dudley that his father, the Earl of Leicester, is said to have declared him, who really was the sole heir of his great family and fortunes, illegitimate, making that declaration out of affection to and in favor of Laetitia Knowles.

Then after mentioning his voyages to America and honors conferred by Essex and Queen Elizabeth, he says: "Sir Robert, failing in a great struggle to establish his legitimacy, left England for Italy, taking with him, dressed as his page, Elizabeth Southwell, daughter of Sir Robert Southwell, a very beautiful woman.

"Sir Robert Dudley afterwards turned Papist and obtained a dispensation from the Pope and married this Elizabeth Southwell." Imhoff further states that "of the children, whom he had by Elizabeth Southwell, Charles inherited the greatest part of his property and took the title of Duke of Northumberland, married a lady of Picardy from the most noble family of the Gaultiers, by whom he had many sons and daughters."

An Italian author, in 1821, published at Florence, in pamphlet form, some account of "Palazzo Di Roberto Dudley Emigrato Inglese." This unknown gentleman says, "Robert Dudley became wealthy and, in 1613, bought an estate of the Rueellai family in the Parish of St. Pancras, and built him there a substantial palace, facing two streets near the lodge of the Tornabuini." He also says, "Sir Robert planned and executed entirely the Mole or Pier and Port of Leghorn, calling him the 'Earl of Warwick and Duke of Northumberland,' and that he was the confidential friend and adviser of Duke Cosmo II., who employed him to execute all those necessary works and improvements required. "He was also skilled in philosophy, chemistry and physics," says Dr. Cornacchini, and perfectly acquainted with all branches of mathematics and the means of applying them for the service and benefit of mankind.

He was not only the favorite of princes, but the admiration of the learned among whom he held a high rank.

He invented several methods for improving ships, introduced new manufactures, induced the merchants to extend their foreign commerce, drew many English merchants to set up great houses at the port of Leghorn, which he had not only raised to a large, splendid town, but procured it to be declared a free port."

CHILDREN BORN IN ITALY.

SIR ROBERT^s DUDLEY (Robert^s, Earl of Leicester; John^s, Duke of Northumberland; Edmund^s, John^s, K. G.) See sketch and portrait, page 407; married, by special indulgence from the Pope, Elizabeth Southwell, and they had thirteen children born in Italy, viz:

- i. COSMO⁶, d. young.

Elizabeth Southwell, the Italian wife of Sir Robert Dudley, and mother of all these thirteen children, led a correct life in Italy, and was much beloved. She was styled Duchess Dudley, and had all the respect paid her that her title could command; and her lord, Sir Robert, caused a noble monument to be erected to her memory in the church of St. Pancratius at Florence, where her body lies buried beside that of Sir Robert. See Life of Sir Robert by Dr. Cornacchini.

Of the FIVE CHILDREN OF CHARLES⁶ DUDLEY, (Sir Robert^s, Robert^s, Earl of Leicester; John^s, Duke of Northumberland, Edmund^s, John^s, K. G.) who was styled Duke of Northumberland, were:

- i. ROBERT, heir to the dukedom, renounced this inheritance in favor of his brother Anthony. But Robert was also heir to his father's brother Henry. He became chamberlain to Queen Maria Christiana of Sweden, who then lived at Rome.
- ii. ANTHONY, was canon of the Cathedral of the Vatican.

The youngest of the five was a daughter, who married to Andrew Pallotti, Marquis of Bologna, in France in 1728, and their marriage is recorded in the registration office in Florence, Italy. Their daughter, Adelhida, became the wife of Charles Talbot, Duke of Shrewsbury in England.

DEAN DUDLEY, Esq., Wakefield, Mass.:

My dear Sir, — I send you one dollar for the first part of your History of the Dudley Family.

I well remember when you began your work. I was a boy in Raymond, N. H. I have not been able to learn the name of the wife of Gov. Thomas Dudley or of the wives of Rev. Samuel, his son, of Exeter, N. H.

I trust that you will be able to complete the work upon which for so many years you have so patiently labored.

Truly yours,

J. F. DUDLEY.

SIR PHILIP SIDNEY.

This accomplished knight, gentleman and scholar was born Nov. 29, 1554, at Penhurst in West Kent, the seat of his family.

Fulke Greville, Lord Brooke, in his admirable biography of Sidney, praises the wit, generosity and patriotism of the family, and, of his mother, says: "On the other side, Lady Mary (Dudley) Sidney, as she was a woman, by descent, of great nobility, so she, by nature, was of a large, ingenuous spirit."

His royal master and patron, King Edward VI. breathed his last in the arms of Sir Henry Sidney, the father of Sir Philip.

Sir Philip attended the grammar school at Shrewsbury, and then was removed to Oxford University, of which his uncle, Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, was chancellor. Sir Philip was entered at Christ Church in 1569, under the tuition of Dr. Thomas Thornton, an elegant and accomplished scholar, who had it recorded upon his tomb, that he had been the tutor of Sir Philip Sidney.

Sidney early cultivated the whole circle of arts and sciences. After some time he went to Cambridge University and there prosecuted his studies with unabated ardor and success.

In 1572, Mr. Sidney obtained license from the Queen to travel beyond the seas, in order that he might perfect his knowledge of continental languages. He set out for a two years' journey in the train of Sir Henry Clinton, Earl of Lincoln, then Admiral of England and Ambassador Extraordinary to the Court of France. At Paris he acquired the friendship of Henry of Navarre, afterwards King Henry IV of France.

Mr. Sidney hastened on to Germany, Hungary, Italy and Belgium. He became the friend of the celebrated Hubert Languet of Saxony, the friend of Melancthon. At Vienna he took lessons in horsemanship and the military exercises of that day. He learned much at the brilliant republic of Venice, then in its glory. At Padua, he applied himself to geometry, astronomy etc., also forming the acquaintance of Tasso, the great poet. But this is doubted by some writers.

His Protestantism prevented him from visiting Rome, and he returned home in 1575, after three years' absence.

Fuller, in his "Worthies," says Sir Philip soon became the life of the English Court and a complete master both of matter and language. Queen Elizabeth called him "her Philip," as Philip of Spain had been her sister Mary's Philip. He was sent, in 1576, ambassador to Vienna. Returning with laurels in 1577, he gained the admiration even of Lord Burleigh, the political enemy of his family, and Sir Francis Walsingham, with whom he afterwards became connected by marriage. Sir Philip's sister, in 1576, married Henry, Earl of Pembroke, and this was the lady celebrated by Ben Jonson's*

EPITAPH.

“Underneath this sable herse
Lies the subject of all verse:
Sidney's sister, Pembroke's mother,
Death, ere thou has killed another
Fair and learned, and good as she,
Time shall throw a dart at thee.”

[See the portrait of this lady at page 144, facing that of her mother, Mary (Dudley) Sidney.]

Sir Philip wrote, in 1580, successfully against the marriage proposed between the Duke of Anjou and Queen Elizabeth, the “throned vestal.” His letter is a splendid specimen of his style.

He engaged in the great joust, A. D. 1580, in presence of Queen Bess, with sword and lance, and Spenser says he was, on that occasion,

—“the president
Of nobleness and chivalric.”

Sir Philip married Frances, the only surviving daughter of his friend Sir Francis Walsingham, and they had one daughter who lived and married, but left no posterity.

The poetry of Sidney was excellent, as well as his prose, but he was too apt to imitate the Italians in their conceits and fashionable absurdities. Sir Walter Raleigh called him the English Petrarch.

In 1581 he represented the county of Kent in parliament, and in 1585 he was invited to enroll himself as a candidate for the vacant throne of Poland. But Queen Bess refused to further his advancement, lest, as she said, she would lose the jewel of her times. She had then become an envious old maid, and wanted the brightest of her courtiers to stand around and admire her, and sacrifice all their highest hopes for her sake. Sacrifices must be made to royalty at all times, especially to royal vestals. “Misery loves company” is a true adage. Elizabeth thwarted many other ambitious men with the pretended fear that they would be apt to prove dangerous by their superior abilities. Lord Burleigh is said to have taught her this singular doctrine.

Sidney, soon after his marriage, formed a plan to sail with Drake in one of his great voyages, but Elizabeth peremptorily forbade it. However, she made him a privy counsellor and soon after Governor of Flushing, and General of the Horse under Leicester, who was commander-in-chief of the forces in the Low

*Greville's Life of Sir Philip Sidney.

Countries. He proved equal to all occasions and was one of the ablest generals in the field. His bravery and wisdom were unsurpassed by any.

But for the jealousy and timidity of the Queen he might have adorned and enlightened her councils, instead of going into foreign service and devoting himself to banishment and premature death.*

Probably none of his works were published in his lifetime. His works display a universal study of nature and mankind.

Sidney was knighted in 1583 at Windsor Castle.

In 1584 he wrote his splendid defence of the Earl of Leicester. The style of it is grand, but there was a lack of minute detail. He denounced the scurrilous libel of Parsons in no measured terms. The Jesuit was so whipped with a scorpion lash that there was no shred of skin left on his vile body: as for soul, he never could have had one. "What," asks Sir Philip, "can be said to such a man? Or who lives, even Christ himself, but that so stinking a breath may blow infamy upon? . . . Now, to the Dudleys, such is his bounty, that, when he hath poured out all his flood of scolding eloquence, he saith they are no gentlemen, affirming that the then Duke of Northumberland was not born so. In truth, if I should have studied with myself of all points of false invectives, which a poisonous tongue could have spit out against that Duke, yet would it never have come into my head, of all other things, that any man would have objected want of gentry unto him; but this fellow doth like him, who, when he had shot off all his railing quiver, called one enekold that was never married, because he would not be in debt to any one evil word. I am a Dudley in blood, that Duke's daughter's son, and do acknowledge, though in all truth I may justly affirm, that I am, by my father's side, of ancient, and always well-esteemed and well-matched gentry, yet I do acknowledge, I say, that my chiefest honor is to be a Dudley, and truly am glad to have cause to set forth the nobility of that blood whereof I am descended, which, but upon so just cause, without vain glory, could not have been uttered; since no man but this fellow of invincible shamelessness, would ever have called so palpable a matter in question. . . . Dudley house is a noble house to this day, and thus hath it been time out of mind. In Henry the Fifth's time, the Lord Dudley was his Lord Steward, and did that pitiful office in bringing home, as chief mourner, his victorious master's dead body, as who goes but to Westminster, in the church may see."*

On the 22nd of September, 1586, Sidney, with a small detachment of 500 men, was attacked near Zutphen, by 3000 of the

*Lodge's Portraits.

French troops. The French were going to relieve Zutphen, a town in Guelderland on the banks of the river Issel. A fierce and obstinate engagement took place under the very walls of this fortress.*

The English, in spite of their disparity of numbers, were completely victorious; but their most distinguished hero fell. First, he had a horse killed under him early in the battle, but mounted another, and rescued Lord Willoughby from the most imminent peril, and three times charged the enemy in one skirmish. He then received a musket shot from the trenches, a little above his left knee, which broke and split the bone and entered the thigh upward; and the bullet could not be found till the body was opened after death. Leicester was the commander in this action. Sir Philip died of his wound, Oct. 16, 1586.

His body was brought to London and buried in St. Paul's Cathedral. His funeral was performed with great pomp and circumstance. The seven united provinces sent each a representative to testify respect for his memory.

Sir Philip Sidney was the idol of his times. He was called the Marcellus and the Mæcenus of the English nation. He was the friend and benefactor of Spencer, who left a pathetic elegy upon his friend under the appellation of "Astrophel."

The two universities also lamented his loss in three volumes of panegyrics and requiems over the memory of their brightest ornament.

The whole kingdom went into deep mourning.

Gentle Sir Philip Sidney's whole life was, as Campbell said, "poetry put into action." Every poet has honored him. Even kings have sung his praise. James I wrote his epitaph, calling upon the Gods to "Lament for him who duly served you all."

The lady whom Sir Philip Sidney addresses in his poems as "Stella," was Penelope, daughter of Sir Walter Devereux, Earl of Essex. She married first, Robert, Lord Rich, and secondly, Charles Blount, Earl of Devonshire. But Sidney had formed an early attachment for her and long continued to remember her in his writings. In the Arcadia, he called her "Philoëa." His principal works were the "Defence of Poetry;" "Astrophel and Stella," a long poem mostly about love; "Letter to Queen Elizabeth;" "Defence of the Earl of Leicester;" "Miscellaneous Poems;" and the "Lady of May," a masque.

TWO OF SIR PHILIP SIDNEY'S SONNETS, FROM "ASTROPHEL AND STELLA."

XXVII.

Because I oft, in dark, abstracted guise,
Seem most alone in greatest company;
With dearth of words, or answers quite awry,
To them that wou'd make speech of speech arise:
They deem, and of their doom the rumor flies,
That poison foul of bubbling pride doth lie
So in my swelling breast, that only I Fawn on myself, and others do despise.

Yet pride, I think, doth not my soul possess,
Which looks too oft in his unflattering glass;
But one worse fault, ambition, I confess,
That makes me oft my best friends over pass,
Unseen, unheard, while thought to highest place
Bends all his power, even unto Stella's grace.

XLI.

Having this day my horse, my hand, my lance,
Guided so well, that I obtained the prize,
Both by the judgment of the English eyes
And of some sent from that sweet enemy, France;
Horsemen, my skill in horsemanship advance;
Town folks my strength; a daintier judge applies
His praise to sleight, which from good use doth rise:
Some lucky wits impute it but to chance:

Others, because of both sides I do take
My blood from them who did excel in this,
Think Nature me a man of arms did make;
How far they shot awry! the true cause is,
Stella looked on, and from her heavenly face,
Sent forth the beams which made so fair my race.

GEN. NATHAN AUGUSTUS MONROE⁶ DUDLEY.

(Nathan⁵, Joseph⁴, Joseph³, Joseph², Francis¹.)

This well known veteran warrior was born in Lexington, Mass., Aug. 20th, 1825. He was appointed from Massachusetts first lieutenant of Co. E, 10th Infantry, U. S. army, March 3d, 1855,* and

* I knew him in 1848. He was then a clothing dealer in Haymarket Square, Boston. In 1855 when he was appointed to the Light Infantry recruited for Co. E. at Springfield, Mass., April and May, 1855. In command of 250 recruits he was sent to Fort Leavenworth, July, 1855. He was attached to the Sioux expedition, under Gen. Harney, his company being mounted on ponies, 1855 and 1856. He had command of a company in the battle of Ash Hollow, with Sioux, Sept. 5th, 1855, and commanded troops in the fight with Cheyenne Indians at Platte Bridge, Neb., Apr. 19, 1856; was with a company exploring the country from Fort Laramie to Fort Snelling, Minn., in the fall of 1856. He commanded a company on the expedition against In-ka-pa-du-ka's band of Sioux, January, 1857. Then he was employed in protecting the settlers against Indians during the balance of the winter. On the expedition to Utah from 1857 to spring of 1861, he was under Gen. Johnson. Next he was in command of troops on abandoning Salt Lake Valley in 1861, and marched with a column to Fort Leavenworth, thence by rail to Washington, arriving in October, 1861. After that he was assigned to duty in Washington in command of a regiment, Feb. 5th, 1862, and was on duty as Inspector of Volunteers, being colonel of 30th Massachusetts. In the month of February he accompanied Gen. Butler to Fortress Monroe, Va., and, embarking on the steamship "Mississippi," was assigned to the command of all the troops on board—some 1600 men. He joined a volunteer regiment,—the 30th Massachusetts—at Ship Island early in March, and had command of transports with troops on the Regiment, by the President. I found this notice of him in a Boston newspaper and saved it for future reference:

MAJ. NATHAN A. M. DUDLEY.—It is with no ordinary degree of pleasure that we notice among the appointments of the President that of Col. Dudley of Roxbury to the first lieutenancy of the Light Infantry Regiment. Col. Dudley will do honor to the station; a more gallant soldier never rallied beneath the stars and stripes, a more honest citizen never trod the soil of Columbia, a worthier man could not have been found; he combines the bravery, gallantry and manliness of the soldier with all the generous liberality of the man; he is a model in peace, a patriot in war. We remember when the Massachusetts regiment of volunteers were in rags and he clothed them, trusting to fortune for his remuneration. We looked upon him with pride when we saw that band in tidy array, when we saw in him the author of their comfort, and when we heard of his appointment our heart responded a hearty and sincere Amen to his commission.

Beloved by all who knew him Col. Dudley was a private in the Boston Light Dragoons at the commencement of that corps; he is such now, and, being thus honored in person he reflects honor upon this admirable corps from which he is singled for marked distinction. While this compliments the Boston Light Dragoons in a peculiar manner, it robs them of one who holds in their esteem a place not easily attained and from which no evil can remove him. The worthy colonel is appreciated by all who enjoy the pleasure of his acquaintance; he is now in a position of commanding eminence, and if every heart, beating under the uniform of Uncle Sam, be as honest, as brave and as true as his, we have no fear for our success, for if "the God of battles" protects not such worth we mistake his justice.

expedition to capture Forts Phillips and Jackson, under Farragut and Butler. He was assigned to the command of the city of New Orleans by Gen. Butler, May 2nd, 1862. Soon he was ordered with three regiments to Baton Rouge, La., thence to a point opposite Vicksburg to cut a channel across the Mississippi. They returned to Baton Rouge Aug. 1st, 1862. On the 4th of the same month he was assigned to the command of the right wing of the forces at that place, consisting of the 30th Massachusetts, 21st Indiana, 4th Wisconsin, 6th Michigan, 7th Vermont, a section of a mortar battery, two batteries, Mass. Volunteer Artillery and one troop Mass. Cavalry. In the battle of Aug. 5th, after the fall of Gen. Williams, he was in command of all the forces engaged, which successfully terminated the battle of Baton Rouge. August 1862, Gen. Dudley was assigned to duty as Inspector General of the Department of the Gulf. Subsequently he was assigned to duty on the forces at Baton Rouge, March, 1863. He made a reconnoissance to Port Hudson May 17th and 19th, 1863, from Merritt's plantation, in command of a division of two brigades; with his own 2nd brigade and part of another he was engaged in the battle of Plain's Store, La., May 21st, 1863. He commanded a brigade and two light batteries and one naval battery during the siege of Port Hudson, ending July 8, 1863, and was in the assault, with his whole command, on Port Hudson June 14, 1863. Then he was ordered with his brigade and battery, July 11th, 1863, being supported by Paine's brigade, to Bayou la Fouche. He fought in the battle of Cox's Plantation on 12th and 13th of July, and was in the Red River expedition, having command of a brigade of five regiments of cavalry, two regular batteries and one volunteer battery. He commanded the advance of that unfortunate column, and at the battle of Sabin Cross Roads his command was the last to leave the field. This command participated in the actions of Cane River and Wilton's Log Cabin, on its advance up the Red river. Then he was ordered to New Orleans to the command of Camp Carrollton, to organize a cavalry force for the expedition to Mobile, being relieved from duty in the Department of the Gulf, at his own request, on the cessation of hostilities in that region, and was ordered to the 19th Army Corps, the Shenandoah Valley. Reaching Washington he was assigned to the command of all convalescent cavalry—2000 in number—and moved with them to Monocacy Junction the same day, Oct. 12th, 1864, and was assigned to the command of the 3d Brigade, 2nd Division, Department of Cumberland, Tenn. Being at once assigned to duty on brevet rank of forces stationed at Tullahoma, Tenn., consisting of nine regiments of Infantry, one of Cavalry, and one battery of Artillery, he held this command until the close of the war. Assigned to duty in charge of the Freedmen's Bureau, soon after being relieved by Gen. Howard, he was reinstated by the president; being relieved at his own request, he was assigned to the command of the district of Vicksburg, Miss. He was in command of Natchez, Miss., until the fall of 1868; of Galveston, Texas, until 1869, being then appointed military superintendent of prisons in Texas, and stationed at Huntsville until the spring of 1870. He was then ordered to the Department of Arizona in command of Fort McDowell to January, 1871. He was assigned to duty at the Department of Platte in command of Forts McPherson, Sydney Barracks and D. A. Russell. In 1876 he was ordered to New Mexico in command of Fort Union. In 1878 he was transferred to Fort Stanton and commanded the forces in that district during the Lincoln county riots. Gen. Dudley commanded an expedition against the Apache Indians, and was in command of a cavalry column attached to Buell's expedition in pursuit of Victoria's Apache band. In 1883 and '84 he commanded Forts Hays and Lyon in the Department of Platte, and was in command of the district of Oklahoma until June 6th, 1885. Being assigned to the command of the 1st Cavalry, stationed at Fort Custer, Montana, where his command was kept constantly employed in scouting among the various bands of Indians in that section of the country, he was personally in command of the forces engaged with the Crows in the fight on the Little Big Horn river, Nov. 5th, 1888. He was relieved from active command and retired Aug. 20 h, 1889. His home is on Dudley Street, Roxbury, Mass.

OLIVER WENDELL⁷ HOLMES.

Dr. Holmes was born August 29, 1809, being the son of Rev. Abiel and Sarah (Wendell) Holmes. Abiel Holmes was born at Woodstock, Ct.

His father, David, a grandson of one of the original settlers of Woodstock, was a physician, and a captain in the "Old French War" and a surgeon in the Revolutionary War. Abiel Holmes was educated at Yale College and married a daughter of President Stiles, and she died s. p. He settled as a clergyman at Medway in Georgia, and preached there several years. Then he removed north on account of his health, settled as a minister in Cambridge, and married Sarah, daughter of Hon. Oliver Wendell.

The Wendells of Dutch descent intermarried with many leading families of New York and New England. Among the ancestors of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, are Governors Thomas Dudley, Simon Bradstreet, the Olivers, Quineys, Jacksons, etc.

Dorothy Quiney, (aunt of a second Dorothy Quiney, wife of Gov. John Hancock), was his great grandmother. Madam Anna Dudley, by marriage Anna Bradstreet, the famous New England poetess, called by her contemporaries, "the tenth muse," was his grandmother's great grandmother.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, was the third of five children, being the elder of two sons.

His first teacher was Ma'am Prentiss, who ruled the children with a long willow rod, reminding rather than chastising. His next school was kept by Wm. Biglow; and then for four or five years he attended at Cambridge under several successive teachers. Among his schoolmates there were Margaret Fuller and Richard H. Dana, the author of "Two Years before the Mast." He was a fair scholar, very fond of reading stories, given to whispering and whittling, for which the ferule visited him, in one case even a Gunter's scale broke upon his palm. At 15 he went to Phillips Academy one year; and at 16 entered Harvard University. Among his classmates were Hon. B. R. Curtis, of U. S. Supreme Court, Hon. G. T. Bigelow, Chief Justice, Prof. Benjamin Pierce, Rev. James Freeman Clark, Rev. Samuel F. Smith, author of "My country, 'tis of thee." Hon. George T. Davis, etc.

He delivered several poems during his college course: One before "The Hasty Pudding Club"; one at an "Exhibition," on "Forgotten Ages." The "Class Room;" a poem at "Commencement."

They were, as he thinks, of moderate value and mild promise.

After graduating 1829, he studied law one year. There was a college periodical published that year called "The Collegian," of which six numbers were issued. To that he contributed numerous pieces, among them "Evening, by a Tailor," and "The Height of the Ridiculous."

He ranked well for scholarship and was one of the 16 chosen into the Phi Beta Kappa Society. After studying law one year he took up medicine exclusively, having Dr. James Jackson and his associates for instructors. With them he studied about two years and a half and then spent as much longer time in Europe, chiefly in Paris, meantime visiting other surrounding countries.

In 1836 Dr. Holmes took the degree of M. D. He was appointed Professor of Anatomy and Physiology in Dartmouth College in 1839, remaining there two years, then resigning to practice in Boston.

In 1840 he married Amelia Lee Jackson, daughter of of Hon. Charles Jackson, formerly judge of the Supreme Court of Mass. Dr. Holmes has three children, viz.: two sons and a daughter. Both sons are lawyers, and are married. He has one grandson.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., is a well-known writer on law and the profession of it. He was three years in the late war, and was breveted lieutenant colonel. He took part at Ball's Bluff, Antietam and Sharpsburgh, and was severely wounded. He has been for some years a judge of the Massachusetts supreme court.

Dr. Holmes has resided in Boston since 1836; first after marriage at No. 8 Montgomery Place for about 18 years; then at 164 Charles Street about a dozen years, and at 296 Beacon Street to the present time 15 years. His summer resorts have been at Pittsfield, Mass., from '49 to '56, and at Beverly Farms, etc.

He is vice-president of American Academy of Arts and Sciences, honorable member of American Philosophical Society, member of Massachusetts Historical Society.

He had the degree of LL. D. from Harvard, 1880; from Edinburgh afterwards, and D.C.L. from Oxford, England.

His principal writings are: poems 1836 to 1880, various editions; Boylston prize dissertations, 1838; Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, 1857-8; Prof. at Breakfast Table, 1858-9; Elsie Venner, 1859-60; Currents and Counter Currents, 1861; Songs in many Keys, 1862; Soundings from the Atlantic, 1864; The Guardian Angel, 1867; The Poet at the Breakfast Table, 1872; Songs of many Seasons, 1875; The Iron Gate and other Poems, 1880. Besides these many addresses and essays and three small volumes, viz.: Homeopathy and its kindred delusions, 1842; Border-lines of Knowledge, etc., 1862; Mechanism in Thought and Morals, 1871; Over the Teacups, 1890. Some of these works have passed through many editions. In 1847 Dr. Holmes was appointed Professor of Anatomy in Harvard University. In 1882 he resigned it, and was appointed Professor Emeritus.

In 1879, he published a memoir of John Lothrop Motley; in 1884, a memoir of Ralph Waldo Emerson in the series of "American Men of Letters." In 1885 he published a tale entitled "A Mortal Antipathy." He is now writing a series of articles for the Atlantic Monthly entitled, "Our Hundred Days in Europe."

One of Dr. Holmes' early poems was

A SONG

FOR THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF HARVARD COLLEGE, 1836.

When the Puritans came over,
 Our hills and swamps to clear,
 The woods were full of catamounts,
 And Indians red as deer.
 The crows came cawing through the air,
 To pluck the pilgrims' corn,
 The bears came snuffing round the door
 Whene'er a babe was born.

But soon they knocked the wigwams down
 And pine-tree trunk and limb
 Began to sprout among the leaves
 In shape of steeples slim;
 And out the little wharves were stretched
 Along the ocean's rim,
 And up the little school house shot
 To keep the boys in trim.

And, when at length the College rose,
 The sachem cocked his eye
 At every tutor's meagre ribs
 Whose coat-tails whistled by;
 But, when the Greek and Hebrew words
 Came tumbling from their jaws,
 The copper-colored children all
 Ran screaming to the squaws.

They had not then the dainty things
 That commons now afford,
 But succotash and homing
 Were smoking on the board;
 They did not rattle round in gigs,
 Or dash in long-tail blues.
 But always on Commencement days
 The tutors blacked their shoes.

God bless the ancient Puritans!
 Their lot was hard enough;
 But honest hearts make iron arms,
 And tender maids are tough;
 So love and faith have formed and fed
 Our true-born Yankee stuff,
 And keep the kernel in the shell
 The British found so rough!

SARAH CROSBY^s DUDLEY (Elias⁷, James⁶, Samuel⁵, James⁴, Stephen³, Samuel², Gov. Thomas¹), born at Hampden, Me., Jan. 31, 1816, married Barnabas Freeman, June 4, 1844, and died at Yarmouth, Me., March 24, 1879. "Her children arise up and called her blessed."

Barnabas Freeman, who is at this date (1892) one of the oldest living members of the Cumberland County Bar, was born in Fairfield, Me., Oct. 17, 1814.

He is the third of that name, and the eighth in descent from Samuel Freeman who settled in Watertown, Mass., in 1632. He obtained an education by his own efforts, fitting for college at Hampden Academy, where he was a school mate of Sarah Dudley who afterwards became his wife.

Graduating with high honors at Waterville College in 1840, where his room mate and life-long friend was Martin B. Anderson, for many years president of Rochester University, he taught school successfully at Eastport, Bucksport and Wiscasset, studying law as opportunity offered with Hon. Timothy Boutelle of Waterville.

In 1843 he was admitted to the bar and at once engaged in practice at Yarmouth, which has ever since been his home. He became interested in cotton manufacturing as early as 1850, and from 1870 until his retirement from business in 1889, gave it his entire attention. He is a member of the corporation of the Portland Savings Bank, and has been treasurer of North Yarmouth Academy for forty-eight years, and for thirty-five years one of the overseers of Bowdoin College. He has also been a Trustee of the Maine Missionary Society, and a deacon in the Congregational Church for a quarter of a century. LETTER OF COL. GUILFORD⁸ DUDLEY, (Moses⁷, Jeremiah⁶, Samuel⁵, Lieut. James⁴, Stephen³, Rev. Samuel², Gov. Thomas¹. See p. 466.)

HEADQUARTERS KANSAS MILITIA,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,

TOPEKA, Jan. 29th, 1864.

MY DEAR UNCLE:—Your very kind and friendly letter of the 21st inst. is just received, containing the pleasing intelligence of the proximity of cousin Henry Clay to his unknown cousin.

I am much pleased, I assure you, to hear from you again, and owe you an apology for my dilatoriness in answering your first letter. I intended to have done so at once, but was so occupied just at the time, as to put it off and off. I am sorry to say that I have been equally negligent in writing to my father and other friends, and would suggest to myself a slight reform in that respect.

I am gratified at the prospect of an intimate acquaintance with cousin Henry, which I have no doubt circumstances will soon favor if he shall tarry long in Kansas. I do not remember of meeting him since the time that he and cousin Buel made a visit to father's and uncle John's, etc., during "sheep-shearing" time, when he was quite a juvenile, and I more so. Still, I cherish toward him, as well as toward my other cousins, those peculiar, fraternizing feelings of elevated respect and friendly relations, which are intrinsic to all the members of the "Dudley family." I thank you for an introduction to Col. Hodges, and shall avail myself of the first opportunity to make his acquaintance, hoping to merit the confidence and esteem of such a distinguished soldier and refined gentleman.

The legislature of this State is now in session at this place. We are not cursed with any "copperhead" members. Joint resolution, recommending the nomination of "honest old Abe" for the next term of the presidency, passed unanimously. Kansas claims to be second to none in her devotion to the Union, and in the sacrifice of her blood and treasure to crush out this rebellion. Her pioneer sons were inured to camp life and experienced in the "chivalric" warfare, from their contests of 1855, '56 and '57. Her heroic troops occupy the "post of honor" in the army of the southwestern frontier. The number of enlisted men in her ranks exceed by thousands the number assigned to her in quotas under the president's call. But then, all the northern states have done well; why need I single out my adopted one?

I shall visit my native state during the year. In the meantime, I shall always be pleased to hear from you as often as convenient, and from other members of your family. Remember me to aunt Susan, cousins William, James, Buel, and their families.

Your aff. nephew,

GUILFORD DUDLEY.

To THOS. J. DUDLEY.

THE THYNGS OF EXETER.

In the early days of the town the Thyngs were a very prominent family. Their name was often written "Thing"; but it was at the start, "Thyng," and in England probably "Thynne." I know several branches of the descendants. Some of them have changed their name to "Thwing," and others have taken new names, as I suppose; for, if it were not so, the name would be very common at this day. Their burial place was on the high knoll, near the gas house, on Water Street. They may have had other burial places in the town. Several monuments there have inscriptions of the early forefathers of that honored name. The history of Exeter calls this a "neglected burying ground," and says "Rev. Samuel Dudley had a tomb there, beneath a large stone, with a mortise for a tablet." I was there yesterday and found the tombstone still lying on the ground, just as it was in 1848.

The Ladd family were also buried there, and a large iron railing with granite posts surrounds their graves. The iron bar is about two inches square, yet in one place it is broken from the post, and the posts are leaning over. The neighbors are plowing up and planting the borders of the graveyard. They have set apple trees on it. There were two bee-hives standing on Rev. Samuel Dudley's tombstone. I was told that a man by the name of Kelly owned the surrounding land. I have written to the selectmen of Exeter and informed them of these things, and now I will inform the Thyngs. Gov. Bell says in his history, "The Things were among the leading men of the town for a long period." Of the "Ladd family," he says, "it was an old one in the town; there were notable characters in the family. William Ladd, the apostle of peace was one of them." Of Rev. Samuel Dudley, Gov. Bell writes: "In his death the people of the town suffered a serious loss. He had become to them, in his thirty-three years of service, much more than a religious teacher. . . . Fortunate was it for Exeter that in its feeble stage it was favored with the counsel and example of a man of such goodness and wisdom and practical sagacity."

Now allow me, citizens of Exeter, to prompt you to respect and honor the graves of your worthy founders. If you longer refuse to attend to this, your shame and disgrace are inevitable.

SKETCH OF DEAN DUDLEY.

At the Liberal Institute, I wrote compositions. One of them, I remember, was an attempt at versifying. The principal, Rev. James P. Weston, criticised my poetical feet, but he said he did not himself know much about such things. I had not arranged the words so as to have the accented syllables come in where they belonged, and there was some hobbling in the measure. The Greek grammar helped me a little to see my error, but there appeared to be no accents in Latin and Greek like those in English. So I took some stanzas of good, standard English poems, and, by examining them carefully, found out the secret of their rhythm and melody. There may be poetical ideas in lines that are not rhythmical, but the art of poetry does not recognize such lines as properly expressed and finished. I wrote no more verses for a long time, but studied very hard; and the preceptor, when I left school, gave me a recommendation to teach a grammar school. This was highly prized by me, and I got a good recommendation from the selectmen of Canaan for my good character, and taught a winter school in Union, Maine. The next summer I walked over to Oldtown, Maine, and worked on Gen. Veasey's boom. There were about a hundred men rafting the logs to be floated down to the great mills at Oldtown, Orono and Bangor. No man could excel me on the water after I got the hang of it. I could ride over the Penobscot river on a cedar post, or in an Indian's bark canoe, which surprised the lumbermen, for they never saw a raw youngster make the bark jump and fly over the river, as I did the very first time I put my feet into it.

In 1842 I came to Massachusetts to teach school, and here is the Prudential Committee's official report of my first term: "On the day of the closing examination there were thirty-nine scholars present. The ease and regularity with which all the exercises were conducted, excited the approbation of all present.

The recitations were numerous and exhibited a mass of improvement that could have been acquired only by unwearied diligence. . . . The recitations in history, arithmetic, philosophy and astronomy were good, and the scholars answered the questions put to them by the Committee, with promptness and energy. The exercises in grammar were uncommonly good.

The Committee were entirely satisfied with the labors of the teacher. He merits high commendation for the successful manner in which he managed this school."

Next I attended the celebrated school of Benjamin Greenleaf, at Bradford, Mass., and studied Greek and Latin, algebra, geometry and several other high branches of learning. Prof. Felton had been a pupil there. Afterwards I attended other academies and schools of penmanship, teaching winters, and studying enthusiastically, by myself, on all opportunities. My literary career began Feb. 17th, 1839, when I wrote a letter to my brother, to which I added a postscript, saying, — "You must excuse me for not writing better, this being the first letter I ever wrote." In this letter I said, — "I want to go to a high school next year if I can. The most learned men, that ever were, began with nothing but their heads and hands."

I was a subscriber for the Liberator, and, in our Lyceum discussions, I took sides against slavery, but there was a large majority against me among the scholars. One young man threatened me if I read a paper on the Declaration of Independence, although I was editor of the School Journal and had been president of the Lyceum.

I wrote a poem for the Liberator, which was printed in that paper. Then I used to save the poems of Whittier, Lowell, Mackay and others which appeared in that journal, and have them now in a scrap-book. One piece of Lowell's strikes me as not like his later principles. It says:

"Not from the sceptred brutes who reign,
But from the humble souls who bore—
From martyrs such as these we trace
Our royal genealogy."

There seemed to be a great deal of fire and fight in Whittier's muse; but while he was a member of Congress he said nothing there about

"The shaft of Bunker Hill and Lexington."

I admired Lowell's rallying cry:

"Rouse up, New England! Buckle on your mail of proof sublime!
Your stern old hate of tyranny, your deep contempt of crime!"

Texas was annexed, and New England had a chance to show her "hate of tyranny"; but it is a sad thought that mankind are such brutes that liberty is preserved only by deadly war even among Christian states of the same nation, blood and language. I wonder what will come next! Anything is possible. But no man here so thought in 1850.

I did not go to the war, first, because I was not trained for a soldier; second, because I was not physically able to endure camp life, as the physicians declared; third, I could do more for the country at home than in the army. I was always on the anti-slavery side, voting and writing against the encroachments of the slave propagandists and the dough-faces.

My first book was the "Dudley Genealogies," which I published as a prelude to this "History of the Dudleys." This field I entered quite young, because my grandfather Dudley's genealogical papers fell to me and I wished to complete his work and not have it lost to our race. I had no idea it was so extensive an enterprise. I carried one copy over to Harvard University and Dr.

Harris, the librarian, praised it, saying, "we value such works very highly."

I carried one to Hon. R. C. Winthrop and he came to his door in Summer Street, and thanked me for it.

There were very few such genealogies in America at that time (1848). My work was praised by Samuel G. Drake, A. M., Hon. John Kelley of N. H., Hon. James Savage and many other distinguished antiquaries.

While writing and printing that work I had my home in Cambridge, near the great University library. I also had access to the Athænaeum library of Boston.

In 1849 I went to England for a year's sojourn and searched historical records. Before going I contracted with several of the Boston literary newspapers to send them original letters at three and four dollars each, describing things I should observe and learn over there. They published my letters; but my agent here, who collected the pay, embezzled half of the money he received for me. Yet I lived and travelled, and studied there with all my might. These things have been recounted by me in two volumes since published, and in this history to some extent. After returning to America I went to Washington and collected statistics of the growth and manufacture of cotton, for a gentleman of New York, and then spent one year in that city, having a clerkship in the Tax Office at the City-Hall, in time of Mayor Kingsland. I soon perceived great frauds in that department and notified the mayor, and the editors of the two principal newspapers, "Tribune" and "Herald." Greeley suggested that the frauds would be greater if the Democrats were in power. Hudson, chief of the Herald staff, said his paper received a large sum every year from the city government, and it would not be good policy for him to offend them. The mayor refused to listen to my complaints. So I came back to Massachusetts, and studied law, having access to the law library in Court square. As a means of support I did some insurance business, taught penmanship, and after a couple of years began to take some small cases by special powers of attorney. But this went hard, as it excited the opposition of rival lawyers. One old fellow from the Province of New Brunswick, named "End," who had, by vile means, been admitted to the bar here, although not a citizen, attacked me, and got pieces printed in the papers against me. I had an enemy in New Brunswick, who probably hired End to attack me. Two or three complaints against me were quashed. Then End himself was driven off or quashed. He was complained of for attempting to shoot some young men who snapped beans at him. I remember I got four of his cases dismissed on demurrers — all at one time in the Superior Court of Suffolk County. This was in 1853 or 4. Soon afterwards I was admitted to the bar in the Supreme Court. I was subsequently admitted to the bar of the United States Circuit Court.

Having a literary acquaintance with many members of the Historic Genealogical Society, I was induced to join the society in 1854. There I tried to be useful and help to build up the institution. For several years I held many responsible positions and wrote a great deal for the benefit of the Society and the Society's affairs, besides paying all the fees required of regular members. I might have held higher offices, but I had not leisure to spare even for permanent recording secretary, and so objected when it was suggested to me. I was often appointed secretary pro tem. Some of my good offices ought to be here specified: First, I wrote notices of monthly meetings, which I got printed in the newspapers, for 1855, viz.: The Daily Bee, June 7, July 13, Aug. 2, Sept. 6, Jan. 4, 1856, Feb. 6, 1856, Jan. 9, 1857; the Boston Daily Courier, July 13, 1855; the Boston Transcript, Sept. 6, Oct. 3, May 7, 1857, and many others. These notices I wrote nearly every month for several years. I also read papers before the meetings; May 3, 1855, I read the journal of Dr. Isaac Bangs written in Revolutionary times.

Oct. 3, 1855, I read a paper on "The first American Poet." Another paper of mine was on my sojourn in England; and I probably read other papers at subsequent times.

At the request of the society I looked up the act of incorporation in the official State records. It was dated Jan. 16, 1845, and the name in the charter was "New England Historic Genealogical Society," which showed that history, as well as genealogy, was the object for which the society was established. I have given the society a copy of every book published by me (more than a hundred) and many other volumes.

For their Historical and Genealogical Register, I have contributed articles on the Bradstreet family, the Bangs family, the Chute family, the Dudley family, the Dillinghams, etc.

In 1855 I was appointed chairman of a committee to draft and present a petition to Legislature in favor of an appropriation for collecting and preserving copies of the town and parish records of this commonwealth. The other members of the committee were Hon. Francis Brinley and Sylvester Bliss, Esq.

Jan. 9, 1857, I was elected one of the library committee, with William B. Trask, Caleb D. Bradlee, Sylvester Bliss and the librarian.

Feb. 6, 1856, I was appointed on a committee to invite the Dartmouth College Association to hold its next meeting in the rooms of this society.

At another time I was appointed chairman of a committee to revise the by-laws of the N. E. Historic Genealogical Society; and at another, chairman of a committee to collect the portraits of all past and present officers of the N. E. H. & Gen. Society, which we did with great exertion and much delay.

Among the articles I have written for newspapers, magazines, etc., are the following:

The Dudleys, in Bridgeman's Pilgrims of Boston.

An article on the Dudleian Lecture in the Bee, May 14, 1857.

A long series of articles in the Yarmouth Register on the aged people and antiquities of Cape Cod.

Alleged Tyranny of Election Officials, Jan. 7, 1881, Evening Star, Boston.

In 1853, I published in Boston Daily Bee, Reminiscences of Col. Theophilus Lovering of Raymond, N. H., a Revolutionary soldier; and the Diary of Dr. Isaac Bangs, of 1776; and in 1858, Recollections of Gen. William King, the first governor of Maine, and several autograph letters of the noted old governor, in Franklin Patriot, Hon. E. F. Pillsbury's newspaper, at Farmington, Me. This paper has been republished in the Maine Historical Register.

Other papers of mine were "Victory or Death," in favor of prohibition, in Wakefield Citizen and Banner, April 13, 1889.

Truth, in Peabody Reporter, 1877, by D. D.

Theology and Revivals, in the Index, 1877, by D. D.

I have written articles against allowing the foreign hordes to come here from all parts of the world and supplant our citizens, especially laborers, in their honest and useful callings.

I have written in favor of laws for the encouragement of useful labor, and the commerce of the Atlantic States—for "freer foreign trade" is the phrase I used.

I have written in favor of the original full-legal-tender greenback, as the very best sort of currency ever coined in this country. The greenback is now a fixture, and it takes 280,000 pounds of green ink every year to print them.

Many small poems have been scribbled by me, mostly of the lyrical style, and printed in my young days, from which the following extracts must suffice for specimens :

MAMMOTH CAVE. (Printed in 1851.)

Whilom, perchance those giant forms now gone,
Whose bones lie mouldering where the mammoth trode,
And reptiles huge since of a warmer zone,
Pursued their prey above this deep unknown—
Of night alone the desolate abode,
Mysterious change of life and element!
Their origin and fate who can disclose?
Some sentient things, I ween, had their descent
From far inferior species, which arose
Quickened from vegetable germs long in repose.

This was my idea of Evolution before Darwin had published his "Origin of Species." Perhaps I learned it from "The Vestiges of Creation."

MEMINI.

TO A POETESS.

How sweet thy name salutes mine eye!
How grateful to mine ear!
Thou whom my soul holds dear,
And memory brings forever nigh!

Albeit the dimming power of years
And sorrow's withering gloom
Must fade the heart's young bloom,
"Yet parting love time but endears."

Remember'st thou that sombre youth,
Who sighed and dreamed aloud
When thou wast young and proud
In maidenhood, and fair as truth?

Who, welcomed to thy home erewhile,
By Kennebec's fair stream,
Paused in the cheering beam
Of thy hope-kindling eyes and smile?

The minstrel of this strain is he,— Hast thou the same young heart,
 Unchanged by time and art,
 That claimed mementos then of me?

From London-tower and Kenilworth
 I brought the gifts, nor yet
 Did I my friend forget,
 But could not meet thee at thy hearth.

Bright is the ringlet, given that day,
 The lines, so dear above,
 Emblems of tender love.
 The theme and glory of my lay.

THE IDES OF MAY

The ides of May shall know our bliss,
 My kind and loving friend,
 When rosy spring the earth shall kiss,
 And birds and beauty blend.

Long have I wooed thee, fairest, best,
 Light of my weary toils!
 My hours and days are all unblest
 Without thy cheering smiles.

I hear thy name with sweet delight,
 Thy happy eyes I see—
 In many a fairy vision bright,
 Thy image comes to me.

Away with gold and earthly pelf!
 True love shall victor be;
 Thy loving heart and all thyself
 Are wealth enough for me.

Hope smiles and longs to welcome thee,
 My heart's own darling theme;
 Joy beckons thee—O, may it be
 No false, delusive dream.

FREMONT SONG.

[Published in the Boston Daily Bee, 1856.]

When fortune gave our chieftain name
 She touched his heart with freedom's flame,
 And formed his gallant soul and hand
 For lofty deeds and high command.

Lo! next, advancing in our van,
 New Jersey's best Republican
 Marshals the friends of God and Right
 Beneath our banner's starry light.

Ye sons of toil! shall Slavery's doom
 Usurp Nebraska's mountain-bloom?
 Shall Kansas' prairie splendors fall
 'Neath ceaseless strife and ruffian thrall?

No! by your hearts and honor, swear,
 By every hill and valley there,
 The new-born towns, the embryo state,
 To Liberty you'll consecrate!

Fell tyranny, with direful frown
 And coward thrust, would crush us down;
 But heavenly Freedom may not cower
 Before her dark, infernal power.

To compromise were all in vain—
 Our Southron lords their faith profane;
 Let patriot freemen, then, pursue
 Pacific paths—and Honor's, too!

O, "Liberty and Union!" ye
 Our watchword and reply shall be,
 While struggling in your hallowed cause
 With favoring Heaven and Earth's applause,

Each Western wild and mountain peak,
 Of freedom and of Fremont speak,
 Prophetic tongues their triumph sound,
 The mighty continent around.

RALLY FOR RIGHT.

High, o'er the tempest loud,
 Sound the alarms!
 Swift, as the flying cloud,
 Winged with the lightning proud,
 Gather to arms!

Rum, the bold, desperate foe,
 Ruin and Death,
 Fierce from the realms below,
 Triumph where'er they go,
 With maddening breath.

Sorrow and pain and vice,
 Want, crime and woe,
 Blaspheming, blasting lies,—
 The worm that never dies—
 From drunkenness flow.

Hear the fond mother's moan,
 Sinking in grief,
 Household and home o'erthrown,
 Deserted, savage grown!
 O give relief!

Was it for this, they bled,
 In freedom's cause,
 Who marched to battle dread,
 O'er hecatombs of dead,
 For equal laws?

Thousands are praying now
 For justice-right;
 Tears, groans, the righteous vow,
 To which the heavens bow,
 God will requite.

O for some "Charlemagne"
 To end the fray.
 Summon his knights again,
 From every coast and plain Heaven's foe to slay!

SYLVAN SOUNDS.

The cicadee hath hushed her hymn,
 And forest shades grow long and dim,
 Heaven's starry banner is unfurled
 Above a cold and quiet world;
 'Tis music's hour in milder climes,
 But here awake no vesper chimes,
 No car resounds, nor tramp of feet
 Along an adamantine street,
 No business clangor, loud and clear,
 Comes beating on my aching ear:
 I hear alone the creaking branch,
 Loosed by some mimic avalanche,
 The humming elm, the pine and fir,
 Soft murmuring with the juniper,
 As if the assembled Dryades,
 Within these conic-tufted trees,
 Lamenting some Adonis slain,
 In bitter sighs, expressed their pain.

THE SIGH OF AGE.

In youth, I heard a sage complain,
 While grief bedimmed his sight,
 That life had brought so little gain,
 His labors to requite:
 Not California's glittering ore—
 High deeds had been his aim,
 And knowledge with her vaunted store
 Of light and bliss and fame,
 My heart was young and quick to feel—
 That sigh thrilled every chord,
 But flattering hope foretold me "weal,"
 And bade me trust the word.
 I've wandered far and struggled long,
 To reach the goal he sought;
 Still, like some weird funereal-song,
 That sigh comes o'er my thought,
 Those radiant hopes, one after one,
 Have faded, waned, and died,
 While gathering shadows, dense and dun,
 My future prospects hide.
 That boding sigh of long ago!
 My heart feels all its weight;
 Yet courage, toil and zeal, I know,
 May conquer even fate.

About 1860, I anticipated compiling a History of New Bedford, Mass., and to give it a fair recommendation, I procured the following certificate:

This may certify, that we, the undersigned, past and present Directors of the New England Historical and Genealogical Society, have full con-aidence in the ability and honor of Mr. Dudley, who proposes to undertake the work, and cheerfully recommend him and the enterprise to the favorable consideration of the citizens of New Bedford.

 J. WINGATE THORNTON. [LL.B., Ex-Rec. Secretary, author of Landing at Cape Ann, and Ancient Pemaquid.]

Mr. Ricketson came to me and said he had been a long time collecting material for a history of New Bedford, his native town, and he wished to publish it. So I gave up my design.

In 1851, my "Pictures of Life in England and America," was published by James French at Boston. Another edition with much new matter, "Social and Political Aspects of England and the Continent." The Boston Post (1872) said of it: "The entire career of Louis Napoleon was here foretold with the accuracy of prophecy. The quality of English and French neutrality in a sectional American conflict was pictured to the letter. From the signs of the then present, the author read accurately the developements of the future. Such wisdom is assuredly of the highest kind."

In 1861, my "History of the First General Council of Nice" was published. "This work," said S. G. Drake, A.M., "is one of a great deal of research and at the same time proves the author to be a scholar of varied learning."—N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, Jan., 1861.

Next followed my paper, The Business Review, 1879 and 1882. This paper was very extensively circulated as an advertising medium. In 1860 I wrote editorials for a weekly newspaper.

The Temperance Visitor, a short time, for the proprietor, Mr. Goward.

Messrs. L. Prang & Co., employed me to compile an illustrated hand-book to be sold to the soldiers around Washington. It was entitled:

OFFICERS OF OUR UNION ARMY AND NAVY: Their Lives and their Portraits. Edited by DEAN DUDLEY, 1862. Vol. I.

This is a valuable little volume—a mutuum in parvo—just what is needed in these dark and trying times of rebellion. It is full of valuable matter. It is a biographical epitome of distinguished generals of the American army—men at the head of six hundred thousand volunteers, who have nobly come forward in defence of the Union, and of all that is dear to us. It promises to be followed by a second volume, devoted to more of our glorious navy officers. An effort so honorable and patriotic deserves patronage and success.—Boston Daily Evening Traveller.

When the Union army left Washington, Prang & Co. suspended the publication. They also published Illustrated Archaeological and Genealogical Collections of New England, edited by Dean Dudley, Boston, 1861. This was an enterprise of Mr. Prang, the lithographer; but I collected, designed and copied all the plates of the first series, and one or two of the second series. The war then began to engross all Mr. Prang's time and attention, so no more were issued by him. I had never done any lithographic drawing before; but Mr. Prang urged me to try and see what would come of it.

I then designed and published a large tabular pedigree of the English Dudley Ancestry. No pedigree of that family so extensive had before been seen even in England. The editor of the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register in his published notice said, "he had not seen one equal to it." It was also noticed in the Herald and Genealogist of London. The sheet is 32 by 23 inches. The first date is 1079 and the last 1728. It gives about twenty-five generations of Dudleys. Many lines of the female ancestors are also traced back to the Norman conquest.

This work I wrote with lithographic ink, at one sitting of a day and night, and, before the ink was dry, Mr. Prang laid it on a stone and got a good impression of the whole, printing from it a few hundred copies. The date on it is "March, 1861." I have a few of the copies yet. No bookseller ever had it for sale so far as I know.

I have compiled and published nearly a hundred directories of towns, cities and counties, in many of which I inserted editorials, histories, gazetteers, etc. Another work of mine was Historical Sketches of the Towns and Cities of Plymouth and Barnstable Counties, Mass., by "Dean Dudley," 1873.

Finally I began this History of the Dudley Family, about 1887, and have issued nine numbers of one hundred pages each, thus far, and a Memorial of the Dudley Reunion of sixty pages.

In regard to my principles on great moral and political questions, I beg leave to say, that time and the progress of events have justified nearly every position I have ever occupied. I advocated the abolition of slavery very early, opposition to lotteries, a perfectly free ballot, universal suffrage, democratic institutions, toleration of all religions alike, no union of church and state, free schools and higher free institutions of learning, including free text-books; free trade in the necessaries of life and raw materials for manufacturers, the evolution philosophy, liberal laws in regard to social institutions, marriage, divorce, etc., free investigation of all great questions of science, religion and law. I voted with the free-soil and republican parties from the time they were instituted till about 1872. I petitioned the legislature for freer divorce laws. They have since been so changed that a divorce is now granted for cruelty, neglect of support on the part of the husband, confirmed drunkenness, three years' desertion, instead of five, imprisonment for several years, joining the Shakers, etc. I petitioned for the single, secret ballot, and we have it in the Australian law. I petitioned for a law to have a report made on the condition of the town, county, parish and probate records of Massachusetts, and helped to produce the report. The procuring of that report was one of the proudest successes of my life. It was wholly my idea, my conception and accomplishment so far as the reform was concerned, but I enlisted many prominent men in the cause even before the legislative resolve was obtained. I drew up a petition and sought advice from noted antiquarians, studied the laws of England on the same subject, and the laws of Massachusetts respecting records, corresponded with persons in many places about the condition of the public records. A. C. Goodell, Esq., who had considerable acquaintance with probate records, registries of deeds and court records, took special interest in my petition and suggested important means to be used in the cause. He said we must not ask for money, but trust to making a report at our own expense. I went to such men as ex-Govs. Rice, Gaston and Clafin, Hon. S. E. Sewall, E. S. Toby, H. W. Paine, Nath'l J. Bradlee, Geo. W. Nichols, Geo. E. Ellis, Edward Avery, Philip H. Sears, Wm. H. Whitmore, Stillman B. Allen, Carroll D. Wright, D. W. Gooch, Lyman Mason, A. T. Perkins, etc., and they not only signed my petition, but gave me much credit for making this effort for a greatly needed reform; and several of them said it was the strangest thing in the world that such a report had not been made long ago, because now, when suggested to them, it appeared that there was no public interest in the whole commonwealth of such importance, that had been so much neglected, as the publishing of a directory and description of the public records, to identify each volume and show its present condition, whether defaced or badly kept, its number, etc., and what sort of records it contained and where it was deposited; as this would prevent its being overlooked, stolen, or lost by the custodian. When I had got my petition signed by the most prominent citizens, I applied to the two great Historical Societies in Boston. But they refused to sign it or have anything to do with it. Mr. Lodge wrote me that he would present the question to the council of the Massachusetts Historical Society at their next meeting. So he did, and they passed it over, or ignored it. I asked them to go before the legislative committee and advocate it, but not a word of encouragement could I get from them, and Mr. Winthrop, their president, refused to sign my petition; so did Mr. Wilder, president of the New England Historic Genealogical Society. He sent me back my long letter which I wrote to him about it, and the society appointed a sub-committee of two, Mr. John T. Hassam being one, to meet me and confer about it. They met me and said they would not help me to get the law made. But Mr. John Ward Dean favored it, and helped me to prepare the schedules. He was then librarian of the N. E. Hist. Gen. Society. But he did not sign my petition. It was suggested to me that these societies had a peculiar dislike of asking favors of the legislature, and some people thought that they wanted to originate (and lead in) such a movement, or else have no hand in it. They seemed to think I had no reliable power to warrant my success. But I knew better, for I had already obtained the enactment of one important law, and I knew the ropes. My name was at the head of the petition, the very first name, standing in capital letters. When it came before the committee, to whom it was assigned, I was duly notified of the hour and minute appointed for a hearing. Bushrod Morse, Esq., of Sharon, was chairman. He asked me if there was to be any other advocate of the bill besides myself, and said if there was I must have him there in twenty minutes. One of the committee remarked that he supposed it was only a scheme of some one to get an office and a salary. But I said there was no appropriation asked for; and then I shot out and ran to A. C. Goodell, and found P. H. Sears and S. H. Allen of Duxbury, and we just laid ourselves out plainly and earnestly on that occasion. Mr. Goodell told the committee they ought to be ashamed to reject such a bill when asked for by the best citizens of Massachusetts, and no money was to be called for. "Ah," said one of the committee, "money may be called for later." "No!" replied Goodell, "I will, myself, oppose such a request." Mr. Bushrod Morse, chairman, grew interested as we explained it, and said: "You must not think I am going to oppose you." So the bill was recommended, and not rejected. Then I had our petition printed at my own expense and sent one to every member of the legislature.

A resolve was passed in 1881, that a Record Commissioner might be appointed by the governor, who should make his report on the Public Records within one year, and Gov. Robinson appointed the census taker, Carroll D. Wright, to make the report. If no one else had been willing to undertake it, I was to have offered to do so; but I could not see how a very full report could have been made without any appropriation.

Mr. Wright asked the legislature of 1885 for $500, and got it, for incidental expenses. Then he came and told me that he had been appointed record commissioner, under my law, and wanted me to take hold of the work and show him what to do and how to do it, "for," said he, "I know nothing about it. I suppose you know your plan, as you got the law made." So I drew up blanks for the report and he had them printed precisely as I formulated them. Then he asked me to canvass the leading cities so as to be sure he got them properly done; and he could pay but little, as the appropriation was only enough to go lightly over the work, but it should be to my credit if I helped the great enterprise. I took twelve cities, including Boston. I worked myself nearly to death, in the dust and unheard of holes where I found records. My report was in my best style, full, accurate and complete, except in regard to parish records. For at last I found it was not proper for me to do all of that part of the work. It could best be done by correspondence, and Mr. Wright did not furnish money for any correspondence. There was much opposition to me in some places. I told Mr. Wright that one town clerk (Jacobs, of Cambridge) said "he was crazy as a bedbug to be taking such a census." "Why," says Wright to me, "you were the one that procured the resolve for this work." Well, the work I did required me to explain it, and make the compiler understand my arrangement. This I often told Mr. Wright, and he said he would certainly call on me to show the new clerks all about it. But, strange as it may seem, he never did; and his report of over 400 pages was issued by the State in 1889, without my ever having seen a word of all my collections, after I handed them in to him in 1885. Wright procured other appropriations for the work and also for printing it. In 1888, $1500 were appropriated for compiling and tabulating the information collected in 1885. Then, in May of the same year, $2500 more were appropriated.

Why did this census-taker fail to mention my name in his report? Evidently he wished to have it thought that he was the head and front of it. After repeatedly saying to me, that he relied wholly on me for the plan and the direction of the work — he wanted to claim it all for himself. However, I can speak for number one. He failed to arrange the volumes properly so as to identify every one. He printed too much about the parish and church records. He omitted a vast amount of information about the missing and lost records and the places where the various records were kept.

Where I specified each volume, he lumped them together. But there is some doubt how far Mr. Wright is responsible for this. He never had any training for such business. He was a lawyer and insurance agent in School street, Boston, living at Reading, before going into the census business. He needed practical knowledge of the art. His men told me that, when he tried to get facts about the wages of laborers, he made a total failure. They refused to tell their private business, as any experienced man would have known they would. I suspect Mr. Wright did not do any of the compiling of the Record Commission report. A man by the name of Swan was the compiler. He wrote me that he found mistakes in the Cambridge returns. The trouble was he did not comprehend my plan and system. But I wish to say that I found three of Wright's census books in Lynn, which his men on the State Census had left there six months or a year before. The official clerk said no one had ever called for them. They were full of statistics. I never had much use for such statistics, but I suppose they cost the government an enormous amount of money, which we all have to pay. Scarcely anybody ever reads them, except politicians and demagogues who want to prove something that is true or false.

In spite of all the facts in census reports, the great evils of foreign immigration and labor troubles all over the country have constantly increased, till they have almost caused civil war in some localities. Our Massachusetts State, county and town records are used every day and are of vital importance. Yet they are sometimes abused. The Suffolk county records relating to taxes I found in a room over the Boston City Hall, a very dangerous and unhandy place. But I took account of them. Why did Wright omit my report of them?

The old treasury records at Cambridge were not to be found, and the county treasurer told me they had all been lost. But Col. Wright did not print my report about these matters. While I was the Boston school census-taker for eleven successive years, my work was always perfectly satisfactory. No person whatever found any fault with it during the whole time. I never exceeded the month allowed for it, and was promptly paid by the city treasurer. At last there were about 70,000 children. One characteristic in mankind causes me to think unfavorably of human nature, and that is, their want of gratitude for favors, and even hatred of those to whom they are under obligations. While a person will sometimes kindly acknowledge a trifling favor, he will entirely ignore a deep and indispensable obligation. This is illustrated often in the ingratitude of children towards parents. But I have seen it in one to whom I had given great proofs of my generosity and esteem. I remember when Mr. James Savage was preparing his edition of Farmer's N. E. Genealogical Register, he called on me for assistance, and I carried him my most precious records by the bushel. For six weeks I continued to lug documents, scrap-books and collected volumes of genealogical papers to his study, at his earnest solicitation. He finally persuaded me by his eager and anxious importunity to leave some of them with him, so much and so important were my free contributions. But, when his book was done there was not one word of credit to me for all I did. He only mentions me once and then for a surmise that I made, which afterwards proved correct.

I generously took a man into partnership in publishing directories on a written and sealed agreement, that he should never claim any interest in my copyrights. But nevertheless, in two years he tried to steal all my best-paying works, and I got two injunctions against his piratical undertakings; both times he agreed never again to interfere with me; but in a few months, he would make another raid. Soon after the great fire in Boston he stole my best work while I was sick and burnt out, hook and line, in Congress square—all insurance failing. Such is one side of humanity.

I once undertook to collect the names of all the great philosophers, and registered over three hundred, beginning with Thales, 640 years before Christ. Then I became discouraged. John Stuart Mill was my last name. What a splendid galaxy were the Greek sages!

My genealogical works were quite numerous, among which were the Bangs family, the Swift family, the Perkins family of Boston, besides what I have already mentioned. I published a great many tabular pedigrees. The greatest work of my life has been bringing up my children. They are now mostly of age and able to take care of themselves.

I have translated several poems from Greek, Latin and German. The odes of Anacreon seemed very fine and elegant. I could repeat some of them by heart. At school I used to set down my lessons in books and thus made a complete key to the Algebra that I studied, and have it now. I wrote and delivered lectures on physical geography and geology at an early day. Mary Somerville was the best authority then, and Lyell's Geology. In looking over my briefs, I find the first things mentioned were chaos, heat, motion, electricity, attraction, expansion, light, suns, planets, satellites, &c. 'Chaos was probably nebulous matter, or ether contracted; then gases and vapors. Electricity might be the cause of attraction, motion, heat and life.' That was my idea. I found that the Hebrews' idea of the world was not scientific. They thought the earth was flat, the firmament like a curtain and that there was a pit of darkness below us." This is one of my statements: "Heat caused motion, and motion caused heat."

When a mass of matter was expanded by heat, it would become so large that force of attraction was overbalanced by the centrifugal force or velocity, and huge fragments would then fly off and become planets. All these changes took place slowly and not at once. So I reasoned and theorized in my lectures. My law practice was quite extensive for about six years after being admitted to the Suffolk bar. Then I had a long spell of sickness and was advised by physicians to change my business. So I went to making directories. But I have always done some law and court business every year, and have had good success.

How the world has treated me may be partially gathered from what has already been said; but I may be allowed to give my opinion of the world, as well as their estimation of myself. It has been often said to me by intimate friends, that nobody understands my true character, or judges me by the proper standard. I am not an assuming, positive, self-sufficient person, but try to be and appear democratic, common and modest,—one of the masses, with no special inspiration or destiny. In fact I wish to be rather than to seem. Thousands of people say, "how do you do Mr. Dudley," when they meet me, although I have not the least idea who they are. They are not afraid to salute me.

I am ever trying to impart what I know to others, and am not reserved, but communicative. I usually aim, in conversation, to give people credit for their knowledge, with some little sprinkling of my sentiments and arguments, which they never before understood. But the old stereotyped creeds are sometimes awfully surprised at my bold syllogisms.

I never go to caucuses or preliminary meetings. However, if an office of honor and usefulness had been offered to me, which did not require very great labor, I might have accepted it. It is every one's duty to do good in his lifetime, in some way, either in official or self-imposed work. My plan has been to speak and write freely on all great topics, religious, political, scientific and literary. "I will not flatter, fawn, nor crone, nor wink at what high-mounted power or wealth demands; I have a nobler aim to which my soul aspires." This was my earliest motto. Nobody can buy me or bribe me, and they thoroughly know that before talking with me five minutes. So I have not been set up for some boss' instrument to work politically for his selfish interest against the rights of others.

Every class seeks legislation, as well as other advantages, for itself. The secret combinations and even the sects, societies and parties, all more or less, struggle for selfish ends, and ignore the rights of outsiders. I have always been an outsider. My father was a free and accepted mason, and master of a lodge, but I do not belong to any secret society whatever. What use has that sort of people for me?

If I were a mason, the masons would rely on me. I might be nominated for office. Just investigate, kind readers, and see if any one is ever elected to any office unless he belongs to some clique. The one thing needful for a candidate in this country is to be a Grand Army man, a church-member or a partisan. That is the law of "survival of the fittest," which is in vogue here. In many places being a "rum-seller" is the very best recommendation for office. Wendell Phillips said the criminal classes rule in the great cities.

The only enemies to me are those that hate my strict temperance, anti-gambling and independent principles.

Drunkards and fools do not sympathize with my abstemious, studious life. Besides I criticise the sectarians and partisans and expose their fallacy and hypocrisy. Verily most people do not trouble themselves to inquire into any mysteries, but swallow what their doctor prescribes, believe what their preacher declares, and vote as their party dictates. They glory in being the majority, and walking in the foot-steps of their fathers.

The most important thing in the world is learning, knowledge, science. Life itself, without this, is only animal existence. But no one should suppose he cannot get knowledge without going to college. The college is often filled with charlatans who pride themselves on the mere name and diplomas of such an institution. Most of the great men of the world never graduated from colleges. Colleges are sometimes narrow, sectarian schools, founded by bigots to serve a sectarian, unscientific, purpose. My best advice is, that people should get learning and wisdom in the best way they can without destroying their health. Don't overwork the brain, don't study too hard. Make life successful and happy by doing precisely right and aiming high. Among the most essential things to be taught in schools are respect for parents and aged people, love of nature, duty to the state, self reliance and conformity to the laws both civil and natural, and a taste for reading history, philosophy and science. Above all, learn self-denial, moral courage, kindness and courtesy.

I have had a great many noble friends and correspondents in my lifetime, who have honored me with their wise advice as well as their inestimable praise.

Wendell Phillips wrote me noble letters.

Charles Sumner sent me all his speeches in Congress.

Edward Everett, President of Harvard University, wrote thanks for my books in 1848.

Elizur Wright, wrote me Aug. 5, 1873: "Your impartial History of the First Council of Nice is a most valuable gift to this age of budding inquiry." . . . "Your work ought to be in the hands of every preacher in Christendom."

My genealogical collections fill over fifty volumes. I also have a great many autograph letters from the generals of our late civil war. Several State Historical Societies have chosen me honorary member.

The Dudley Association, for gathering and preserving facts about the Dudleys, was formed about 1856, and here is a notice which appeared in the Boston Transcript, May 20, 1857 :

DUDLEY ASSOCIATION.—The annual meeting of this society was held at Cambridgeport yesterday afternoon, the president, Rev. Lucius Robinson Paige, in the chair.—Transcript, May 20, 1857.

The Board of Directors and the Treasurer made their respective reports, after which the President addressed the meeting in an appropriate speech upon the objects and prospects of the association. He glanced at some of the principal events in the life of the first Governor Dudley,—of whose descendants and those allied to them by marriage this society is composed. The objects of the association are to preserve historical memorials of their ancestor and his family, and by social meetings at stated times, and by the publication of documents illustrative of their lives, to keep in remembrance their virtues and their services to the country.

The secretary then read an anonymous life of Gov. Thomas Dudley,—evidently written in the seventeenth century, and probably not far from the year 1685,—a copy of which has been preserved in manuscript to the present day. It contains some details that have never been published. Cotton Mather must have seen the memoir and copied from it many of his facts concerning Gov. Dudley given in the Magnalia.

After the reading of the memoir was finished, and some remarks upon it had been made by the members, the secretary gave an account of his visit to Northamptonshire, England, where Gov. Dudley was born, according to Mather and the above-mentioned memoir. From his researches there he was convinced that our governor was not descended from the Dudley family of that county (the Clapton family), as had been supposed. Probably the governor's father removed from some other county to Northampton, as his arms are totally different from those of the Clapton family.

The election of officers for the ensuing year then took place, with the following result: President, Rev. Lucius R. Paige, of Cambridgeport; Vice-Presidents, J. Wingate Thornton, Esq., of Brookline; Rev. Dudley A. Tyng, of Philadelphia, Pa.; E. Gerry Dudley, Esq., of Boston; John Dudley, Esq., of Hampden, Me.; James H. Dudley, Esq., of Milton; Secretary, Dean Dudley, Esq., of Boston; Treasurer, J. W. Dean, Esq., of Boston.

These officers constitute a Board of Directors, who hold monthly meetings in Boston for the admission of members and the transaction of other business.

The meeting was then adjourned to meet on the 4th of May, 1858, at such place as the directors may appoint.

After the adjournment, some of the members accompanied the president—who has in preparation a history of Cambridge and is therefore familiar with the ancient localities of that city—to view the site of the house erected by Gov. Dudley, one of the founders of Cambridge, then Newtown, in the year 1631 or 1632. It stood on what is now Dunster street; and near it the first meeting-house was built. On the same street his son Samuel, afterwards the minister of Exeter, N. H., had a house nearly fronting the meeting-house. Two of Gov. Dudley's sons-in-law, Gov. Simon Bradstreet and Maj. Gen. Daniel Denison, lived at Newtown, while he resided there. The sites of their houses were also pointed out. On a portion of the lot on which that of Gov. Bradstreet stood, the University bookstore is now located. Here the first American poetess, Mrs. Anne Bradstreet, no doubt composed some of her poem that extorted praise even from the pen of the cynical Nathaniel Ward, author of the "Simple Cobbler of Azawam."

I was absent from home nearly all the time, and the war came on in 1861, and I believe those were the causes of our meetings being suspended. We have never since called another meeting.

In 1869, and for several years following I had a fearful cough, and moved out of Boston. My historical studies were somewhat interrupted and I let my membership of the Historic Genealogical Society lapse. But the simple life of a farmer restored me to health. It was a wonderful cure without much medical aid.

So I am now at the age of 70 as well as ever. Catarrh and bronchitis were the cause of my cough. They lead to consumption if not prevented by some means. I used magnesia and bicarbonate of soda, and kept my stomach free from acidity. This is suggested in some medical works. The parasites of such diseases are killed by various means.

I have lived here over twenty years in Wakefield, on a little farm of about thirty acres, tillage, meadow and woodland at Montrose Post Office and R. R. depot. Our house is surrounded by green fields and shady trees, close to a little river, the "Saugus." The enjoyments here are, good air, grassy walks, clear, nice water, fruits and vegetables at hand fresh and free, cows, fowls, and singing birds. My children have grown up here and they love to come home in the pleasant season. I enjoy such gifts of nature very highly.

We should make the most we can of all the good things of this life. We should be frugal, generous, affectionate, forgiving, kind, virtuous, honest, truthful, industrious, temperate, peaceful, grateful for all benefits, polite, neighborly and just. Such are my sentiments and my religion.

I have always had an undying antipathy against drunkards and liquor-sellers. It is never safe to trust them with any important business, or even associate with such people. I lately came across a good scrap of moral advice which runs as follows:

"The man who drinks liquor is not a fit companion for a young woman. His drink brutalizes him, and makes him forget the ideals of his better hours. A young woman takes serious chances who marries a young man addicted to his cup. He may promise to reform, and that promise may be good. It more frequently proves a snare. He is more apt to return to his glass after the honeymoon is past. He should be given a long time to prove himself before the least intimacy was allowed. We say without fear of successful contradiction that any young man who has been in the habit of drinking intoxicants is not a proper associate for a decent young woman, and should be regarded with suspicion by any parent. Drink will make a demon of anyone who indulges in it. A young man who has once formed an appetite for it is never after safe.—The Progressive Age."

It often happens, that young men, whose fathers have died dirty, drunken sots, will begin their career by indulging in wine, beer or some such deceptive stimulant, and, before they fully comprehend the situation, they are alcoholized and ruined forever; as General Butler expressed it, "unfitted for all the business of life."

Of course they did not intend to become drunkards, but the hereditary tendency prevailed over their common sense and understanding.

The proper thing to do would have been to avoid alcoholic drinks, as a moral principle, just as we avoid any crime. It offends me to the heart to see food of any sort adulterated with wine or brandy. By such things children might learn to love liquor. Never in my life have I allowed it to be used in my food in my house, in any shape, not even as a medicine.

But this is not the only thing that I have learned to despise. This life has many heart-rending troubles and sorrows. One of the greatest is the bad influence of people who live near us and hate those that excel them in learning, wisdom or virtue. They will take every opportunity to corrupt the morals of our children and teach them disrespect for their parents, and for all the most precious principles of honor and usefulness. Such people are apt to be full of bad habits, such as using tobacco, betting, gossiping, uncivil behavior, illiterate discourse and superstition.

How to keep our children away from these influences is the most difficult problem of life, especially for poor people. Those who are in affluent circumstances can employ good teachers and governesses. They can send their children to schools where nearly all the surroundings are favorable to good instruction. But the poor have no such resources.

In looking back upon my life I see many bright spots and happy, glorious scenes. The childhood sports and plays, the visiting of kind, loving relations, and varied scenes of city and country life; the recurrence of holidays with their displays and gifts; the hopeful, intellectual school-days; the lively amusements of youth and the opening of the great book of science, literature and art, when we begin to realize what a vast, wonderful universe we inhabit; all these things have given me unalloyed happiness, and made me glad to have been born. There have fallen to my share some evidences of affection that was pure and unchanging.

As friends pass away, I look for soeial enjoyment in the books of the great and wise of all ages. There are solid comforts and I am never tired of reading such works.

In these times we ought to live on scientific principles. The day of superstition, experiment and faith without knowledge is past. We should now read and understand the great book of nature, and not rely wholly upon other people for our facts, beliefs and creeds. We should seek truth, wisdom and knowledge at the fountains of science and art, in the natural objects of the universe, the elements of the visible and invisible world and the stars of glory. Of course much training and instruction is required from teachers; but our own judgment and reason will never be superseded by any teacher. They must be cultivated and strengthened by constant use at all times and places.

I wish I knew what religious creed is true of all in the world, or whether any one is right. It is most probable that no one is exactly correct. So we will not launch into that subject. 'Tis an unknown sea, and I am not a Columbus.

About 1856 the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register was published by Mr. Prince of Roxbury, and he wished to relinquish the publication of it. John Wingate Thornton, Esq., was very much interested in that magazine, being, one of the founders of the N. E. Historic Genealogical Society, and he asked me to undertake the publication and editorship of their journal. I thought quite favorably of it, but knew there would not be much profit in the work, as Mr. Drake had informed me all about that matter. We had many interviews; but finally the society concluded to carry it on themselves, and they have ever since. I have inserted a good portrait of Mr. Thornton in this number of my history. He was a great antiquary and a prolific writer of New England history. Being a descendant of Gov. Thomas Dudley and Gov. Bradstreet, and a friend to me, it would be strange for me not to give any sketch of him. He used to invite me to his house in Roxbury and talk historic genealogy by the hour. He said his wife, who was then present, called him crazy. She was a fine, sociable lady, but did not feel much interested in his hobby. I was often at his office in Tudor's building, Court square. His law practice never was extensive, but I think he was an able lawyer. Mr. Thornton was well educated, active and enthusiastic in his researches. He collected a splendid library of valuable historical works relating to America. When he wrote a book it would be crammed full of quotations from his books and papers. He seemed over anxious to prove his case by such evidence, and he aimed to be a critic and discoverer in his line, which was local and New England history.

He always encouraged me to persevere in my Dudley family investigations. But he died too soon. I do not believe there was need of his leaving us at so early an age. He must have worked too hard or not taken sufficient care of his health. He died at Searboro', Me., June 6, 1878, aged 60 years. He was only five years older than I was. Mr. Thornton had looked up his ancestral pedigrees and he showed me the chart of his forefathers back to the first comers to our shores, in nearly every line. He was a member of our Dudley Association, and wrote me often in regard to those matters.

PREFACE.

This No. 9 makes the tenth Part or Number besides the Memorial of the Dudley Reunion in 1892, which was an appendix number. The Index will nearly fill another hundred pages, and will be published very soon after this No. 9. Then the whole work will be bound in one or two volumes.

I have taken great pains to correct all errors as fast as discovered. Every one should notify me as soon as he detects an error. What is said in the preface does not reach every person interested; therefore, it is to be hoped that those who read it will inform their friends in regard to the work and send me subscribers, etc. There will be a chance in the Index Number to correct errors.

I wish to say that when I was president of the organization which originated and successfully held the great Reunion of Gov. Thomas Dudley's descendants, Oct. 25, 1892, I insisted that all the Dudleys should be invited to attend, as they were all interested in our family history; but the parties who are now putting themselves forward as leaders, prevented my success, and they never would have done it unless obliged to for want of friends among Gov. Dudley's descendants. They have worked themselves into places where they are not wanted. This business requires men of personal integrity and literary qualifications, not merely chronic beggars and maneuverers.

The Boston Transcript said they invited the descendants of the Concord and the Connecticut Dudleys to their recent Gov. Thomas Dudley family second reunion, supper or dinner, and all together, nearly a hundred came. How many could have been of the Gov. Thomas Dudley family? Really it was a strange sort of Gov. Thomas Dudley family gathering! But it, no doubt, seemed important to Mr. L. Edwin Dudley, who summoned his Law and Order League to a great banquet, by sending out 600 or 700 invitations, and only thirty persons attended. His speech at the banquet was reported, and he grieved to see so many vacant seats. I can't but think if his Dudley connections had known him as well, there would, nevertheless, have been more than that present just for the credit of the cause. There was one relic exhibited, as coming down from Gov. Thomas Dudley, viz.: a powderhorn, which one Joseph Dudley gave to Stephen. It seems too bad to spoil the legend, as that was their sole relic. But that Joseph, who left the relic, was great-grandson of Francis Dudley of Concord. (See pedigree at page 12 of this history.) He was slain at Quebec, 1757. His brother Stephen died 1784. (See p. 595.)

ROGERS AND SLADE.

REV. DANIEL¹ ROGERS (Rev. John³, Patience² Dudley, Gov. Thomas¹) was born 1707, grad. H. C. 1725, fellow of Harvard Coll., preached some time at Ipswich, and was installed at Exeter, N. H., 1748. He m. Anne Foxcraft of Boston, and died at Exeter, 1785. His children were:

His children are: 1. *Denison Rogers*⁹, b. 1857; 2. Henry Bromfield, b. 1859; 3. Ellen Louise, b. 1860; 4. Margaret Bromfield, b. 1862; 5. Elizabeth, b. 1865; 6. Anna Perkins, b. 1867; 7. Frederick, b. 1869; 8. Conrad Hensler, b. 1871; 9. Edward, b. 1873; 10. Susan Jackson, b. 1875; 11. Henrietta Eddy, b. 1878.
iii. MARY ELLEN.

The N. E. Historical and Gen. Register, for April, 1887, has a pedigree of the Rogers family by Henry F. Waters, A. M., in which he shows that Rev. John Rogers, "the famous preacher of Dedham, England," was a son of John Rogers, bap. Nov. 21, 1538, a shoemaker in the hamlet of Moulsham, parish of Chelmsford, who died 1601; so that the old tradition about our Rogers family being descended from Rev. John Rogers, the martyr, has no foundation in truth. Rev. John Rogers of Dedham, Eng., was the father of Rev. Nathl. of Ipswich, Mass., and Rev. John's uncle, Rev. Ezekiel Rogers, of Rowley, Mass., was a brother to John, the shoemaker, of Moulsham, above described.

H. S. Grazebrook says in Wm. Salt Collections, Vol. 10, p. 7: "With regard to John Dudley, who heads the pedigree (Dugdale's Vis. of Yorkshire in 1665), and is stated to have married ———, daughter of Wm. Carr, there is in the Public Record Office (Chancery Proceedings, temp. Eliz., Bd. 7, No. 19), a chancery bill in which "Henrye Dudley, gent, and George Barker," complaine unto the "Queen's most excellent Majestie" that whereas, one William Carre, the elder, deceased, being lawfully seized of (inter alia) certain lands in Whickham, in occupation of Robert Matfield and Christopher Stubbs, did by his will give the said lands to the seven children of one John Dudley and his wife, deceased, the daughter of the said Wm. Carre, the said John Dudley and his said wife being the father and mother of "your said subject Henrye Dudley," and the said wife of the said John Dudley being the mother by a former husband of "your said other subject," George Barker. William Carre died about twenty-eight years past, and all the seven children of John Dudley and his wife, "but your said subject only," are also dead. Such being the case, the complainants contend that the said tenement ought "wholly to remaine to your said subjects," but that the said Matfield and Stubbs have got into their hands the said will, and have wrongfully entered upon the premises. The defendants in their answer admit the will, but say that on the complainants' own showing George Barker was not one of the children of the said John Dudley. They add that they are only servants or farmers of the premises, and hold under Thomas Surtees and Jane his wife, which Jane did, when sole, purchase them of one Peter Carre. The proceedings are not dated.

THE BARONS OF DUDLEY.

H. S. Grazebrook, Esq., in Wm. Salt Staff. Collections, says: Sir John Dudley, afterward Duke of Northumberland, came into possession of Dudley Castle before he was created Viscount Lisle (1543), and even before 1539. Lord John Dudley (Quondam) married Cicely Grey, dau. of Thomas, Marquis of Dorset, son of John, Lord Grey of Groby, by Elizabeth Widville, afterwards the Queen of Edward IV. This marriage was a very early one, for Oct. 30, 1501, the Marquis of Dorset, in his will, desired that "the agreement made between my Lord Dudley and me for the marriage made betwixt his son and heir apparent and my daughter Cicely be in all things performed." John Dudley (Quondam) was at that date a child of five years old. "Test. Vet." p. 411. His sons Edward, Thomas and Henry are mentioned by their grandmother Cicely (Grey), Marchioness of Dorset, in her will 1527, proved 1530. Mr. Grazebrook mentions another son, George, and three daughters, Margaret, Dorothy and Elizabeth. This Margaret m. Wm. Gibbon of Little Sutton, Co. Warwick, and left posterity, several generations of whom lived at Little Sutton and Dutcheley in Oxfordshire. Visitation of 1574. Margaret must have been Gibbon's second wife. See Warwickshire Visitation.

In 1543, George Dudley, says Grazebrook, must have been a very young man, and he is apparently called the youngest son of Quondam. Sir Wm. Paget calls George a boy. This George Dudley's mother was first cousin to Henry VIII. He got a license from the Bishop of London on Nov. 28, 1554, to marry Ellen Barayshé at St. Augustine at the Gate, London. See Col. Chester's Marriage Licenses, Harl. Soc. p. 15.

Edward Lord Dudley, son and successor of "Quondam," was in the Scottish War in 1547, waged by the Protector Somerset for the purpose of forcing the Scottish nation to consent to a marriage between young Edward VI. and Mary of Scotland; and after the surrender of Hume Castle to the English, was made Governor thereof. When Queen Mary, the Catholic, came upon the throne of England, she restored to this Edward, son of Quondam, all the manors and estates that had been forfeited by the attainer of John Dudley, Duke of Northumberland, and many others, and by letters, patent Dec. 31, 1555, she gave him and his wife, Katharine Brydges, who was one of the gentlewomen in ordinary attending on Queen Mary, all those lordships of Sedgley, Hinley, the hayes, forests and chases of Ashwood and Chaspell, &c., &c. Also, by other letters she gave them the whole castle of Dudley, Rowley, &c.

Edward Lord Dudley was summoned to Parliament from Nov. 12, 1554, to Oct. 15, 1586. His father never was summoned to Parliament. Edward had by Kath. Brydges an only child Anne, who was married first, to Francis Throckmorton, of Feckenham (son of Sir John, Justice of Chester), who was attainted and executed in 1584, and secondly, in 1597, to Thomas Wilmer, Esq., of Budbrooke, Co. Warwick, and of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister at Law (son of Thomas of Stareston, in Northamptonshire), by whom he had two sons, Thomas and John, and one daughter Mary. Edward Lord Dudley m. second, Lady Mary Stanley, dau. of Edward, 3d Earl of Derby. Lord Dudley m. third, Mary, dau. of Wm. Lord Howard of Effingham, who had been Lord High Admiral of England, Lord Chamberlain, and Lord Privy Seal. She has a monument in St. Margaret's church, Westminster, erected by her last husband, Richard Mompesson, Esq. She was sister to Miss Douglas Howard, the mother of Sir Robt. Dudley, son of the Earl of Leicester. Edward Lord Dudley died 1586.*

"Mr. John Dudley," son of this Lord Edward, was buried at Sedgley, March 3, 1644-5. He acquired a lease of Sedgley Park. His wife was Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Whorwood, of Stourton Castle and Compton, in Co. Staff. She says she had by said Dudley one son and four daughters. All her children died s. p. except Anne, who m. Edward Gibson of York, Esq., and had children.

Lord Edward's eldest son, Edward Dudley, succeeded his father and was summoned to Parliament from 1593 to 1639, and died June 23, 1643.

Mr. Grazebrook says this last Edward Lord Dudley was by no means an estimable character. He took a concubine and left his lawful wife, who had to sell her jewels for her support. By the concubine Lord Edward had many children. By his lawful wife he had one son and three daughters. See pedigrees of both the legitimate and illegitimate children of this Edward, Lord Dudley, who d. 1643. His children by Lady Theodosia were:

i. FERDINANDO (so named doubtless for his father's first cousin, Ferdinando, Earl of Derby), b. Sept. 4, 1588; Kt. of the Bath 1610; m. Honora Seymour, dau. of Edward Seymour, Lord Beauchamp, son and heir (ob. c. p.) of Edward, Earl of Hertford, by the Lady Katherine (sister of Lady Jane) Grey, SILAS DUDLEY.

Silas Dudley was a merchant of Boston, and is mentioned in the Suffolk Probate Records, Vol. 112, p. 11, March 8, 1813. Amount of his estate $2,691. Elsewhere I find that Thankful Price, daughter of Capt. Matthew Price of Falmouth, Mass., married first, Silas Dudley of Acton, Mass., who kept a dry goods store in Court St., Boston. She married secondly, Wm. Endicott, merchant tailor of State St., Boston, who died at Old Cambridge about 1851. Wm. Endicott was son of Capt. Wm. Endicott of Salem, and was brought up with Robert Endicott of Beverly, tailor. Caroline mother, of Wm. C. Rogers of Hoboken, N. J., was a daughter of Silas Dudley and Thankful (Price), his wife. They also had a son Charles Dudley, who was born about 1806, and kept a store in Boston, 1832-1847.

He was a reader of history and well versed in politics. He was a good farmer; died Apr. 15, 1808.

His wife, Tryphena Stone, was born Jan. 19, 1730. Her mother's name was Sarah Meigs. Caleb Stone was son of Nathl. and Mary (Bartlett). Lieut. Nathl. Stone was the son of John and Mary, who came from England, John being a clothier. He died Feb., 1687.

After the close of the war he settled near his father in Richmond, residing there the rest of his life. His wife was a dau. of Tyrannus Collins, born April 19, 1764, died Nov. 4, 1860, at the house of her daughter Mary, in Cazinovia, N. Y., aged 96 years.

On the night of June 29, Mr. Dudley placed in a post-office box at Niagara Falls a letter addressed to his attorney here, which reads, as follows:

'I am resolved to end my troubles to-night, and before morning I will be beyond all pain.'

On the same night two New York travelling men stated that they saw a body go over the falls, but none was found on the following day.

Mr. Dudley was about sixty years of age, and at one time was manager of the St. James Hotel, N. Y. During the war he was connected with the Paymaster's Department. He had been ill for a number of years and was in financial distress." Col. Dudley had an incurable disease inherited from his father and grandfather. He wrote me in 1886 that he had chronic cystitis and stone in the bladder and suffered untold agony. In 1892 he wrote that he was still sick.

E. C. DUDLEY, M. D.

DR. E. C. DUDLEY was born in Westfield, Mass., May 29, 1850. His direct ancestor, William Dudley from old England, landed in Boston in 1638, and afterwards settled in the famous old village of Guilford, Conn., the cradle of so many noted New England families. His father's father and his mother's grandfather fought in the Revolutionary War and at a later period of our history his great-uncle held the important position of postmaster-general.

Dr. Dudley's father was a farmer in the summer and in the winter taught the district school. Those who have some knowledge of New England life and character will appreciate what the union of school and farm meant. New England farms were not the most productive, and they required close attention to make their cultivation a success. The village life seventy-five years ago resembled that in Merry England without the interference of a superior and governing class, and the school teacher in both countries was a man representing the culture of the people. On the "old sod" he dealt with an intelligence which had been repressed by its surroundings. In New England the people were infected with a bustling industry which was forever endeavoring to find methods for accomplishing more work in a given time. Idleness was regarded as a crime. The district teacher had no easy task to keep his shoulders above the tide of knowledge coming from every source open to their eager search. Most of them became bent, from too studious a life, and dyspeptic from a diet suited to the out-of-door life of their companions. But when the bookworm is joined to the tiller of the soil, strength and knowledge go hand in hand. Could we suggest a better parentage for one who had to carve his career to fame and fortune in the bustling Queen City?

The subject of this sketch attended the public schools in Westfield until thirteen, and from this age until eighteen was in the service of an apothecary. This gave him a practical knowledge of pharmacy which has always proved serviceable. In September, 1868, at the age of eighteen, he began the study of Latin, Greek, algebra and geometry with a tutor, and eight months later passed the entrance examinations for the Freshman class of the academical department of Dartmouth College. He graduated from this institution in 1873 with the degree of A. B. While a student at college he taught school four terms, and at the end of each term returned to Dartmouth, made up lost studies, and continued with his class. During his collegiate career he relied almost entirely on his own efforts for support.

In the summer of 1872, he was attached to the U. S. Coast Survey with Prof. Quinby, who was engaged in triangulations between the New Hampshire sea-coast and Lake Champlain. He attended medical lectures at Yale in 1873-4, and coached the boys preparing for the Freshman class in Latin, Greek and mathematics. He took his medical degree at Long Island College Hospital in 1875, and was valedictorian of his class. After serving for a short period at the West Pennsylvania Hospital, in Pittsburg, and at the Charity Hospital, Blackwell's Island, he entered on his service at the Woman's Hospital in New York, and remained there eighteen months, completing the term in 1878. From this time he has been practicing in Chicago.

In 1882 the Northwestern University Medical School (Chicago Medical College) invited Dr. Dudley to accept the position of Professor of Gynecology, and he still holds this position. In 1885 he was elected, by the Dartmouth Chapter, a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society.

Among the various positions he has held or holds may be mentioned that of Gynecologist to St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago; member of the N. Y. County Med. Society; Chicago Gynecological Society; American Academy of Medicine; American Gynecological Society; British Gynecological Society; Woman's Hospital Alumni Association, and membership in various State and other local societies.

He founded and was editor of the "Chicago Medical Review."

Dr. Dudley has not been a prolific writer, but the character of his work has arrested attention abroad as well as at home. His practice is, we believe, among the largest of Chicago, and he has a very large consulting practice in the surrounding States. We present with this number a portrait which shows those lines of strength of purpose which, together with untiring energy and decided originality, were his marked characteristics while among us in the East.

Dr. E. C.⁷ Dudley, was son of John H.⁶, son of Joseph⁵, son of Cyprian⁴, son of Lieut. Joseph³ of Saybrook, Conn., son of Dea. William², son of William¹, the immigrant ancestor.

CATHARINE ADELIA^m DUDLEY (Henry Chase⁹, Desire⁸ West, Lucretia⁷ Woodbridge, Capt. Russell⁶, Anna Olmstead⁵, Rev. Samuel⁴, Rev. Benjamin³, Mercy² Dudley, Gov. Thomas¹) was born June 30, 1830, married George J. Bramble, April 12, 1849, who died March 16, 1853, in New Orleans, La.

Mrs. Bramble resides in New London, Conn. She attended the late Dudley reunion at Boston, of 1892, and is much interested in family history. She writes me that her grandmother, Desire West (the mother of her father, Henry Chase Dudley, see page 382), was a daughter of Lucretia Woodbridge, who married Nathl. West of Tolland Conn., and this Mr. West was a descendant of Admiral Francis West, brother of Gov. John West of Virginia, and also to Thomas West, Lord De La Ware, or Delaware. She also says that Desire West was a granddaughter of Hon. Zebulon West of Tolland. Mrs. Bramble's father, Henry Chase Dudley, m. Hetty Davis of Barnstable county, Mass., a great-granddaughter of Hon. Daniel Davis of Mass., who d. Dec. 18, 1834, having been a member of the Prov. Congress and the Hon. Council in 1776. Mrs. Bramble writes that Lucretia Woodbridge was a daughter of Captain Russell Woodbridge and his wife Anna Olmstead. Capt. R. W. was son of Rev. Samuel and his wife Mabel Russell. Anna was daughter of Dea. Joseph Olmstead. Mabel was granddaughter of the worshipful Mr. Russell, who came from England in 1619, and was Treasurer of the Mass. Bay Colony. (See Woodbridge).

CORNELIA COLLINS HUSSEY

LUCY^o WILLIAMS (Elizabeth¹ Cotton, Dorothy³ Bradstreet, Anne² Dudley, Gov. Thomas¹) married Rev. Joseph Buckminster, who was born March 1, 1719-20, grad. II, C. 1739, and settled at Rutland, 1742. Seven of his children are named on page 751-2. The other children were:

viii. WM. STODDARD, b. June 6, and d. Oct. 5, 1761.

ix. ISABELL, b. Oct. 25, 1761.

Their sister Sarah was born 1717, not "1717." Their brother, Rev. Joseph Stevens Buckminster, pastor of Brattle street church, Boston, was admitted to Harvard University in 1797, aged 13, one year in advance. He grad. 1800, and became an assistant at Exeter Academy; studied theology, and was ordained and settled over the Brattle street church, Jan. 30th, 1805. In 1811 he was appointed Lecturer at Harvard University, upon the Dexter foundation. He grew more liberal in his doctrinal views as time advanced. "Love of study was the passion of his soul," says his sister, Eliza Buckminster Lee, in her sketch of his life. He was considered pre-eminent in science at the age of 23 years. His death occurred June 9, 1812, at the age of 28. He had been deeply engaged in preparing biblical lectures for Harvard. Epilepsy was his chronic disorder.

MRS. CORNELIA (COLLINS) HUSSEY.

Cornelia Collins Hussey, philanthropist, was born in New York, in 1827. Her maiden name was Collins. Her parents were Stacy Bidd and Mary Dudley Collins. Her mother was daughter of Edward and Mary Eves Dudley of Roscrea, Ireland. She is a member of the Society of Friends, to which sect her family have belonged for several generations. In early years she was in sympathy with the anti-slavery movement, and before reaching her majority became a manager of the Colored Orphan Asylum in her native city. In 1851, Miss Collins became the wife of William H. Hussey, of New Bedford, a man of similar tendencies with herself. About that time she made the acquaintance of Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, who had just settled in medical practice in New York. Dr. Blackwell became Mrs. Hussey's medical adviser, and some years afterwards, in co-operation with her and several other ladies and gentlemen, among whom was the late Cyrus W. Field, she formed a body of trustees for the New York Infirmary for Women and children. The purpose of that society was to give poor women medical treatment at the hands of doctors of their own sex. From that hospital developed in the course of time a medical college for women. Later Mrs. Hussey's only daughter studied her profession, first in the college and then in the infirmary. The family moved to Orange, N. J. As her children grew up, Mrs. Hussey took an active interest in the woman suffrage agitation and became a member of the executive committee of the American Suffrage Association, and subsequently, on the request of Miss Anthony, was made vice-president for New Jersey of the National Suffrage Association. She retained these positions during a number of years. In 1876, efforts were made in several large cities to permit the licensing of the social evil, and Mrs. Hussey, always interested in efforts for social purity, was chosen secretary of the committee formed to oppose such evil legislation. When that work had been brought to a successful termination, Mrs. Hussey became interested in the claim of Miss Anna Ella Carroll for a government pension, on account of services rendered during the war and her plans of the Tennessee campaign. Through her efforts considerable sums of money were raised by private subscription, and articles were published in some of the leading magazines on the work of Miss Carroll. During the last twenty years Mrs. Hussey has contributed numerous articles to the "Woman's Journal," and various other reform periodicals, as well as to the papers of her State.

DUDLEYS OF IRELAND, by Mrs. Hussey.

(See pedigree, pp. 152-3.)

Edward Dudley, of Roscrea, Ireland, son of Eliazer and Ann Hort Dudley, was born in 1769, and in 1790 was married to Mary Eves. He remained in Roscrea till 1807, until after the birth of his eighth child, a daughter Mary Eves, named after her mother. Report says that he was a banker in Roscrea, and about this time, falling into business difficulty, he concluded to come to America. He brought with him his wife and youngest daughter, a small child at the time, leaving, among friends in Ireland, the rest of his numerous family, four sons, John, Samuel, Edward and William, and one daughter Margaret. This daughter came over in 1815, and died unmarried in 1812. Two of his eight children had apparently died young in Ireland. The four sons came over to New York, where their father had settled, subsequently at different times. John lived mostly in Ohio, and died leaving no children. Samuel married a Miss Peters, and left two daughters, Cornelia and Anna, both married and living. William married in 1836 a Miss Anne Shoemaker, and died of consumption about a year after.

GEORGE BENJAMIN HUSSEY. See pp. 983 and 992.

Edward was a young man of unusual merit and much personal attractiveness. He never married, and died of consumption in 1835. He had been in business in Mobile and had accumulated quite a small fortune, which he bequeathed to his aged father and three brothers and sisters.

In a letter written by Uncle Samuel Dudley to his father, dated 10th mo., 21, 1835, he says of his brother, Edward Dudley, then far gone in consumption: "He was universally beloved and esteemed here. I can bear testimony to his uniform correctness through life and earnest desire to do the things that were right, and a persevering industry to endeavor to earn an honest living by the labor of his hands. Always, whenever any member of the family needed pecuniary assistance, he felt it his duty to contribute, and that cheerfully." He died after a long and suffering illness, at the house of his sister Mary, who had married, in 1821, Stacy B. Collins of New York. This sister, who had married at the early age of eighteen, was the mother of quite a large family of children, five girls and subsequently two boys, who both died young. At this time (1831) they lived at 512 Broadway, New York. The scarlet fever, in 1831, ravaged the family.

6 Mo., 30, 1834.

In writing to Samuel Dudley of Roscrea, grandfather says: "My attention, and that of my wife has been very much taken up with a great affliction that has taken place in the family of my daughter, Mary D. Collins. In the beginning of the year (1831) she and her six children, with a servant-maid, were attacked with the scarlet fever, and most of them had it at the same time, and the others in succession. The first that was taken was her daughter, Anna Dudley, aged about eight and one half years, a very lovely child, very engaging, and the darling of the family. She lingered for about a week, and was removed by death. It was a sorrowful parting to us of the family, but more particularly to her poor mother, who had the complaint at the same time, and although she, with the rest of the family, after a lingering illness recovered, yet the loss of such a dear child, together with the great anxiety and fatigue and illness she underwent, has lain so heavy on her that she has not been well since, and for the last two months we have almost despaired of her recovery. She died in June, 1838, after a long illness.

In a letter to John, grandfather says: "Her close was peaceful and serene, so much so that those in the room could not tell the particular moment when she breathed her last. She said several times lately that she was willing to go whenever her Heavenly Father thought fit to take her, and at times prayed for release from the state of suffering she was in. Indeed, for many weeks she appeared in a heavenly frame of mind, and endeavoring to wean her affections from every earthly tie, and we have no doubt she has entered into a blissful immortality. Happy, indeed, for her, but her sorrowing friends feel her loss unspeakably great. We, her aged parents, feel stripped in our last days of a charming, lovely prop and comfort, and to her dear children the bereavement is incalculable, which they will feel during their whole lives. She died at Milton, where she had been three weeks, hoping for benefit, but it was too late."

I have so far said little of my grandfather, but in fact we know but little of him, being young most of his life, and mother having died when I was ten years old. He was in various kinds of business during a long life, mostly in New York City, but he does not seem to have been very successful, judging from many remarks about very limited means, in letters written to his sons in this country, and nephews and nieces in England and Ireland. His niece, Jane Driver, in writing to him in 1842, from North Brighton, Eng., says: "We love and respect thee as the much beloved brother of our ever-lamented precious parent, and through thy letters we gladly trace him in thee." Speaking of her brother, Samuel Dudley, of Mount Dudley, Roscrea, Ireland, she says: "We think him like my father in many respects, and the old neighbors who remember thee, and with affection, say he is like his Uncle Edward, the essence of generosity." Perhaps this very trait of generosity hindered his success. This brother was Sheldon Dudley of Mount Dudley, Roscrea, Ireland, a fine man, a consistent friend, and father of a large family of sons and daughters.

In 1842, he writes, that he has only two children spared to him. Four lovely grandchildren had also been removed by death, and he speaks of himself and wife Amy as old people, both turned of 66 years, and she quite feeble. Grandfather was not naturalized till 1838.

In regard to his business troubles in Ireland, he writes in a letter to his eldest son John, living in Steubenville, Ohio, in 1842, that at that time, not being able to pay all my debts (his brother Sheldon had arranged to settle them for him), "my creditors obtained the statute of bankruptcy against me, and it was under that statute all my property was sold and two of my creditors were appointed assignees to settle up all my affairs, to wit: Patrick Mackem and Samuel Kyle, and the accounts were settled by said assignees." He died about 1845, leaving a wife and one son John, the eldest of the family.

Mary Dudley, wife of Stacy Budd Collins, left four children, all girls: Emma, who soon followed her mother by consumption; Mary Stacy, who married John Murray and died of consumption, leaving one son, John Murray, Jr., of Santa Barbara, Cal. He is married and has one daughter, Virginia Murray; Cornelia, who married William Howland Hussey of New Bedford, Mass., and has three children, none married; Mary Dudley, Frederick and George Benjamin. She and Mrs. Joshua H. Worthington are the only members of the family still living. Mrs. Worthington is a widow and has no children. She lives in Germantown, Pa.

DR. A. P. DUDLEY.

The following sketch for No. 9, of the History of the Dudley Family has been furnished by this gentleman who has lately visited Ireland to examine the family history, and on his authority is here inserted:

DUDLEY, AUGUSTUS PALMER (see portrait opp. p. 868), surgeon, was born in Phippsburg, Me., July 1th, 1853. He is a direct descendant of the Irish branch of the Dudley family, all of whom originally belonged to the Society of Friends. His great-grandfather Michael Dudley, was a son of George and a grandson of Large Dudley, whose ancestor George, the first of the family, went from England to the north of Ireland and settled in the town of Tipperary, county Tipperary, at a place called Mount Dudley. From there the Dudleys of Ireland migrated and spread out. Michael Dudley came to America in 1775, landing at Castine in the province of Massachusetts, and settled in Georgetown, Me., which was then a part of Massachusetts. Through the maternal line Dr. Dudley is descended from the Pereys of the north of England and south of Scotland, whose lineage dates back to the tenth century, and from the Wymans of Wales. William Oliver, his paternal great-grandfather, and William Wyman, his maternal great-grandfather, both served in the war of the Revolution. His paternal grandfather, Patrick Dudley, and maternal grandfather, Francis Dudley, were soldiers and pensioners of the war of 1812, being respectively orderly-sergeant and ensign of Company F, South Militia, at Fort Hummelwell's Point. His father, Palmer Dudley, a native of Phippsburg, Me., was for many years prominent in the affairs of his native town. Dr. Dudley received his preparatory education at the public schools and at the Portland Academy. He entered the Medical Department of Bowdoin College and was graduated from Dartmouth Medical School in 1877. He commenced practice in Portland, Me., but removed to New York in 1881, where he entered the Woman's Hospital as house-surgeon, and continued for eighteen months. He then went to San Francisco, where he had charge of the California Woman's Hospital for one year. He returned to New York in 1884 and resumed practice. He was appointed Instructor in Diseases of Women at the Post-Graduate Medical School in 1887, and Visiting Gynecologist to the Randall's Island Hospital and Northeastern Dispensary. During the past three years he has twice successfully performed the Caesarean operation, saving both mother and child. In May, 1893, he was made Professor of Diseases of Women in the Post-Graduate Medical School to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Prof. Charles Carroll Lee. He has written numerous papers on his specialty, among which are: "Vaginal Hysterectomy in America," "Varicocele in the Female," "Surgical Treatment of Subinvolution," "A New Method of Surgical Treatment for Restoration of Lacerated Perineum," "A New Method of Surgical Treatment for Certain Forms of Retro-displacement of the Uterus with Adhesions," etc., etc. Dr. Dudley has also written extensively for medical journals, some articles of which have been translated into French and other foreign periodicals. He is a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, New York Obstetrical Society, American Gynecological Society, American Congress of Physicians and Surgeons, etc., etc. He is especially interested in the Dudley genealogy, and in the summer of 1891 made a trip to Europe for the purpose of tracing back the lineage of his American ancestors. Through the courtesy of Sir Bernard Burke, he was granted free access to the records in Dublin Castle, and by the kindness of Dr. William E. Dudley, of Bath, Eng., he was enabled to secure a complete history of the Irish branch of the family, as above described.

In July, 1884, Dr. Dudley married Susie Stephens, daughter of Jesse Mason of Victoria, B. C., who died in July, 1888, without issue. In September, 1891, Dr. Dudley again married Cassandra Coon, a daughter of W. J. Adams of San Francisco, Cal.

LETTER OF GILMAN DUDLEY (See page 486, No. 153.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 12, 1848.

DEAR SIR:

I received yours of the 7th inst., asking information concerning my ancestors and relatives. My father Trueworthy Dudley and grandfather Gilman Dudley were born in Exeter, N. H. They removed from Exeter, to Brentwood, N. H. My father went to Pembroke, N. H., to live with his uncle Col. Samuel Conner, who fell in battle at Ticonderoga in the war of the Revolution.

My father died at Pembroke, a year ago last November, at the age of 92 or 3.

My grandfather and uncle Samuel C. Dudley moved from Brentwood to Sanbornton, N. H. My grandfather died there. My uncle is now living. I suppose he must be about 90 years old. He has the family records. For further particulars, inquire of my brother Trueworthy Dudley, Esq., No. 509 Washington street, Boston, or James Harvey Dudley of Boston.

Are you looking for the heirs of the large property said to be in England for the Dudley's? My son Thomas C. Dudley has written to England for information.

Your humble servant,

GILMAN DUDLEY.

The Dudley arms above described was the old Somery coat, as that this Elstree Dudley house was descended from Symon Dudley of Hackney, Middlesex, whose son John of End-or obtained it, with some change, from Cooke of Herald's College.

HON. GEORGE A. DUDLEY.

George Anson Dudley, third son of James and Lydia Leete
 Dudley, was born at Sachem's Head, near Guilford, Conn., June 14, 1810, a lineal descendant of both Wm. Dudley and Gov. Leete.
 He died at his home in Ellenville, Ulster Co., N. Y., March 3, 1886. In 1838 he married Sarah Jane Tutbill, who survives him with a son and daughter. When he was six years of age he removed with his father to New York state, and remained in Dutchess Co. up to 1833. After that to the time of his death he lived in Ulster Co. Of a naturally intellectual bent, his early education was obtained under adverse circumstances in district schools, the Red Hook Academy and the Oneida Institute at Whitesboro, near Utica. Here his eyes failed him and he was obliged to relinquish his cherished idea of going to college.

In 1831 he accepted a clerkship in a hardware store in New York City, in 1833 developed into a district school teacher, and in 1836, in company with several others, he went by canal and by way of the lakes to Detroit, thence by stage and on foot to Chicago, a small town in the then far west. He soon after returned to Ulster Co., where the family had removed, and in 1837 was appointed collector to the Delaware and Hudson Canal Co., at Ellenville, which position he held for fourteen years. He also engaged in general merchandise; also, opened a coal yard and iron store, continuing the latter business for twenty-five years. He was the first town superintendent of schools, and had practical charge of the public schools of Ellenville for more than forty years, being president of the Board of Education almost consecutively from its organization. In politics Mr. Dudley was originally a whig, and was a delegate to the first republican convention held in New York State, at Saratoga Springs in 1854. The year following he was elected to the assembly by the republicans and temperance men of the second district of Ulster Co. He was postmaster at Ellenville for six years, and in 1869 inaugurated the movement which brought about the organization of the Ellenville Savings Bank. He became its first secretary and treasurer, holding these positions to the time of his death. During the latter years of his life Mr. Dudley became a prohibitionist, wrote and spoke extensively for the cause, and in 1875 was that party's candidate for state engineer and surveyor.

In the many positions of trust held by Mr. Dudley during his active career, his integrity and honor were never questioned. He was orderly, prompt and methodical to the extreme in business matters, and successful in all he undertook. He took pride in saying that he had never had a note protested, and that no one had ever lost a dollar by him; yet, though prudent and saving he was noted for his generosity in all directions, both in public and private charity, being a cheerful giver. No man contributed more liberally of his time and money to a cause he thought would benefit mankind.

A man of marked character, possessing an acute and active mind, Mr. Dudley was firm and even positive in his opinions, and, having the courage of his convictions, lived faithfully and conscientiously according to what he believed to be right. Though a profound thinker, he was yet ever charitable to the views of others, and seemed to enjoy association with those of opposite opinions. The cause of education was one of intense interest to him, and with all his heart he entered into its service. The public schools of Ellenville are a monument to his efficient zeal in this direction, and many an anxious teacher and perplexed pupil will bear testimony to his ever ready sympathy and stimulating advice. Upon the occasion of his funeral the schools were closed, and teacher and pupils passed in mournful procession beside his coffin, placing upon it a sprig of evergreen or a flower. Always gentle and patient, his counsel was freely sought and as freely given, and generally followed by those seeking aid in any direction. His command of himself was wonderful, and those who had known him intimately for more than fifty years never heard him utter an indecorous word or give expression to an impure thought.

Commenting upon his loss, a prominent citizen of Ellenville, said: "In the death of Mr. Dudley I feel that the wife has lost a loving husband, the children a kind and affectionate father, the poor one of their best friends, the schools their firmest support, the Savings Bank one of its most efficient officers, and the village of Ellenville one of its most honored and useful citizens.

SKETCH OF JAMES H. DUDLEY.

James Hervey Dudley, youngest son of James and Lydia (Leete) Dudley, was born July 14, 1817, in the town of Stanford, Dutchess Co., N. Y. He was a lineal descendant of William Dudley of Guilford, Conn., on his father's side, and of Gov. William Leete on his mother's side.

William Dudley and William Leete came from near London, Eng., in the same vessel, and in company with many others, under the pastoral care of Rev. Henry Whitfield. The Stone house, built by Mr. Whitfield at Guilford, is still standing, and in good repair, and is the oldest house built by Protestants in America.

The company left England in the fall of 1638; spent that winter in Boston, where they were urged to locate, and strong inducements were offered for that purpose. But, preferring to be a colony by themselves, they declined, and went prospecting as far as Quinepiack, New Haven. Being pleased with the Indian lands at Menuncatuc, a considerable portion of which was then under cultivation, they made the purchase of the Indians, and named the settlement "Guilford," in remembrance of Guilford, in England, from whence some of the company had emigrated.

Dudley and Leete were young men, with newly married wives. Dudley's first child was born on shipboard and Leete's was the first white child born in the town.

The descendants of these two families have intermarried several times since then, and their posterity are to be found in nearly every state in the Union.

John Dudley, grandfather of James Hervey, left Guilford with his numerous family in 1775, and settled in the town of Richmond, Berkshire Co., Mass., while John Leete, his maternal grandfather, remained in Guilford till 1793, when he, with his large family, also removed and located in the town of Stanford, Dutchess Co., N. Y.

Both were men of considerable means, bought large farms, and with their families exerted an extensive and useful influence in each locality for many years. But at the present time there is not a descendant of the name of either family, in either town where they originally settled.

James, son of John Dudley, and Lydia, daughter of John

JAMES HERVEY DUDLEY, Esq. See pp. 988, 368 and 967.

Leete, were married May 1, 1805, and located in Richmond, near his paternal homestead, and carried on the blacksmith business there for several years, but, his health failing, he with his wife and Chester Leete, their first child, removed to Sachem's Head, Conn., where his son, George Anson, 2d, was born, June 14, 1810. The following year, he, with his family, removed to Dutchess Co., N. Y., and permanently located at "Separate," a locality in the town of Stanford, near the old "Separate Meeting House," and but a few rods from the town line of Amenia. Here he built a new blacksmith shop and cultivated his small farm for many years. Here his youngest son, James Hervey, — the subject of this sketch. — was born July 14, 1817.

The schools and other opportunities for reading and amusements were much the same as most country boys at that time were favored with; and, such as the boy had, he improved. When of suitable age he assisted his father in the shop, or on the farm, as occasion required.

When fifteen years of age, his father and family removed to Honk Hill, in the town of Wawarsing, Ulster Co., N. Y., where he had bought quite an extensive farm, but lived to cultivate it less than two years.

After his father's death in 1835, he went to Poughkeepsie, and served an apprenticeship of three years at carpentry.

In 1839, he commenced business for himself, as builder, joiner and architect, which he continued for some fifteen years, during which time he erected or rebuilt nearly one hundred buildings, including two churches and one large freight and passenger barge.

In 1853 he engaged in the lumber and coal trade, which he carried on quite successfully for sixteen years, when he sold out, and bought the "Poughkeepsie foundry and machine plant," which he conducted until 1874, when he again sold out, and of late years has not been engaged in any active mercantile or mechanical business. Jan. 4, 1842, he married Charlotte, youngest daughter of John C. and Lavinia Wiltsi, descendants of old Huguenot families.

The same year he built the house No. 33 Conklin street, Poughkeepsie, and moved into it the following spring, and still resides there. There four of his children were born, and there three of the children died. In the same house his twenty-fifth and fiftieth marriage anniversaries were duly celebrated, and there the parents expect to spend the remainder of their days.

Mr. Dudley was one of the original members of the First Congregational church in the then village of Poughkeepsie, which was organized in 1837, and for more than forty years he has been its stated clerk, and has often been sent as delegate to other bodies.

For more than fifty years he has been director or officer of the "Poughkeepsie Lyceum," one of the very few surviving literary societies that were so numerous in the Northern States some thirty to forty years since. On its platform has been heard nearly all the best speakers and elocutionists of this country, and many from other countries.

He served eleven consecutive years as school commissioner, and was instrumental in introducing co-education and vocal music in the public schools of the city. He designed and superintended the erection of most of the public school buildings in the city; also furnished drawings and specifications for many private and public buildings, among others the Congregational church, of which he is a member, and superintended its erection and completion. He represented his ward five terms in the board of county supervisors, and during the rebellion was active in sending recruits to the front.

His first vote for president was cast in 1840, with the old "Liberty party," and with that party he continued to vote at every election, until the nomination of John C. Fremont, in 1856. Since that time he has been in full sympathy with the "grand old Republican party."

In temperance he has been an out-and-out teetotaler. — never bought a glass of ardent spirits, wine or beer, nor used tobacco in any form. When the charter of the "Old Ladies' Home" was granted he was named as one of the trustees, and for many years has been president of the board.

Although engaged in active business most of his life, his annual practice was to spend some weeks with "rod and gun" in pursuit of "fur, fin, or feather," — especially the latter — in the Adirondacks, Thousand Islands, or some other wild region, and with decided benefit to health and after work, and he has written many articles on the subject for the press.

THE VIRGINIA DUDLEYS.

MR. W. G. STANARD writes me January 30, 1894, that he has been lately searching the original records of Virginia, and he says it appears that there were two families of Dudleys, one being descended from Richard Dudley and the other from William.

Richard had a grant of land in Gloucester county, Va., in 1659. He was alive in 1667.

W. Dudley (probably Wm.) had a grant of land in Lancaster county, Va., in 1657, and was alive in 1670.

All the county records of Gloucester Co. and King and Queen's Co. have been destroyed; also the parish registers, where the Dudleys appear to have lived. But Middlesex records are complete, and he has searched them from an early date. They show that W. Dudley of Middlesex, who died in 1678, left issue: Elizabeth, James, Thomas and William.

The will of Major Robert Dudley of Middlesex, gent., dated Oct. 14, 1701, probated Nov. 3, 1701, mentions the testators: eldest son Robert Dudley, who receives land in Middlesex where testator formerly lived, and had the land from his father Richard Dudley, deceased. Testator Robert Dudley calls his youngest son George, and two daughters, Avarilla and Elizabeth; and testator appoints his brother Ambrose Dudley and his friend Peter Beverly, of Gloucester Co., his executors.

There is an inventory of James Dudley, presented by his son James in Middlesex Co., Dec. 1, 1707.

There is a will of Robert Dudley, of Middlesex Co., delivered March 9, 1709-10, proved August 1, 1710. Legatees: son Ranson

FREDERICK HUSSEY.

See p. 992.

Dudley, and daughter Avarilla Dudley (Ranson was the name of a Gloucester Co. family).

There is a will of James Dudley of Middlesex, dated Feb. 1710-11, proved April, 1711, legatees: sons James and Robert, daughter Judith, wife Elizabeth.

There is a will of James Dudley dated Middlesex, 1702-3, proved Middlesex, May, 1711, legatees: eldest son James, son William, daughters Elizabeth and Sarah.

There is a Middlesex deed dated March, 1695, by James Dudley and his wife Ann, for land formerly purchased by his father W. Dudley.

There is a deed in Middlesex Co. dated March, 1695, by Thomas Dudley and his wife Frances, for land given him by his father W. Dudley.

Also a deed dated March, 1695, by Thomas Williamson and wife Mary, formerly Mary Dudley, widow.

Mr. W. Dudley was a Justice of the Peace for Middlesex in 1676.

Elizabeth was the widow of Mr. W. Dudley, of Middlesex, qualified as his administratrix July, 1677, with W. Churchill and W. Dudley securities.

There is a Middlesex deed dated September, 1680, by W. Dudley of Middlesex, who had married Mary Bawd, daughter and heiress of W. Bawd, late of Lancaster Co., deceased.

Another deed is dated Middlesex, July, 1687, for land held by his father Wm. Dudley in 1667.

Mr. Robert Dudley was sheriff of Middlesex in 1690-91.

There is a deed in Middlesex, 1684, by John Dudley, son of Wm. Dudley, gent., which mentions John's brother, James Dudley.

James Curtis in his will, 1720, mentions his daughter Ann Dudley.

A Middlesex inventory by Mr. Robert Dudley was received Oct. 1, 1745.

The will of Jean Dudley of Middlesex is dated March, 1744, legatees: sons W. and Stanton Dudley, and other children not named.

W. Dudley's will, Middlesex, proved May, 1760, legatees: wife Jane, son Charles, brother Stanton Dudley.

Will of Rev. Thomas Sax of Lancaster Co. (which then included Middlesex), 1654, names Richard, second son of Edward Dudley.

A deed by W. Dudley, Lancaster Co., Feb. 20, 1657, mentions that he was of Gloucester Co., and conveys land to Henry Thatcher, 2000 acres on south side of Rappahanoek river.

The will of Thomas Pooles, Lancaster Co., Jan. 25, 1660, gives Elizabeth Robinson two cows for her children, Elizabeth and Robert Dudley.

Marriage Bonds in Middlesex Co. : Ann Dudley and Thomas Joy, 1751. Lucy Dudley and John Clare, 1766. Louis Dudley and Frances, daughter of John Aldin, 1761. Stanton Dudley and Mary Berry, 1760. Marlow Dudley and Anna Maria Ashton, 1763. Rebecca, widow of W. Dudley, and Richard Iveson, 1762.

There is a deed dated June, 1713, by Robert Dudley of Princess Anne Co.

Ambrose Dudley had a grant of land in Gloucester Co., 1704.

Capt. Richard Dudley was alive 1667, and Col. Richard Dudley was alive 1678; both were of Gloucester Co., and I think were identical with the patentee of 1659.

John Stephens (who lived in the Northern Neck of Va.), by will, March 1, 1661, left 500 acres of land to Alexander, son of Richard Dudley, and made Richard Dudley his residuary legatee.

Henry Dudley served in the Revolution as an officer in the 2nd Va. Regiment, 1777-82, and was dead 1792. Wm. Dudley was his heir at law. Jane Beverly Dudley was of King and Queen's Co. in 1820.

Thomas Dudley was a member of the House of Delegates from King and Queen's Co., 1787.

Ambrose Dudley (probably of King and Queen's Co.) was alive 1765.

Ambrose Dudley was a member of the House of Burgesses, 1710.

Ambrose Dudley, born in Spotsylvania Co., 1750, said to have served in the Revolution as a captain.

James Dudley, son of W., of Warwick Co., entered Wm. and Mary College, 1770.

John Dudley of Hanover m. Ursula, dau. of Robt. Beverly of Beverly Patent, King and Queen's Co., and they had :

- i. W., m. Lynch of Caroline Co.
- ii. Mary, m. Wm. McKendoe.
- iii. Jane, m. W. Armstrong of Caroline Co.
- iv. Ursula, m. John George.
- v. A dau., m. Hazlegrove.
- vi. Nancy, m. John Rogland.

John Dudley was probably son of Ambrose who came from England early in the 18th century, and settled near Jamestown, at Hall's Landing, where he died about 1750. This is stated in some cyclopædia; but Mr. Stanard does not find that any Ambrose Dudley ever settled or lived near Jamestown. However, he does not discredit the account of John Dudley's descendants.

CHARLES STOKES DUDLEY.

(From a Sketch by Geo. T. Edwards.)

Charles Stokes Dudley was born at Clonmel, Ireland, in 1780, and was the son of Robert and Mary Dudley, members of the Society of Friends. His father's family had been resident in Ireland since the time of Cromwell, while his mother was the daughter of Joseph and Mary Stokes, of Bristol, of whom it is recorded that they had thirty children, and that half that number were on one occasion present in Temple Church, Bristol, to hear a brother preach. Mary Stokes was intelligent and thoughtful, and, while still young, she became dissatisfied with her life of worldly pleasure. She owed her conversion, instrumentally, to the preaching of John Wesley, who became much interested in her, and was greatly distressed when she was afterwards led to embrace the principles of the "Friends." She became the third wife of Robert Dudley in 1777, and Charles, the subject of this notice, was her eldest son. From his father he seems to have inherited much of that cheerful and genial temper as well as literary tastes, by which he was distinguished; while resembling his mother, to whom he was devotedly attached, in the winning, persuasive influence, command of language, and active benevolence, which were marked features in a character that combined some of the best traits of English and Irish nationality. In a home, cultured and refined, he received the valuable early training so characteristic of the families of Friends, of which body his mother became an acceptable minister, and in due time he was sent to a school of good repute, at Ballitore, kept by a Mr. Shackleton. Some distinguished men received their early education here, among them Edmund Burke and Lord Gough; though the school at one time got the name of the Aviary, from there being among the pupils several with the names of Sparrow, Eagle, Finch, and Crow. Towards the close of his stay at Ballitore, Mr. Shackleton decided from conscientious motives to give up reading the ancient classics, and enforced his decision by requiring that his pupils should bring all such books and formally bury them in the grounds, an order which the subject of this notice so far evaded that he contrived to secrete and preserve a favorite copy of Livy. But a fearful storm had for some time been gathering, which, when young Charles Dudley had reached his seventeenth year, burst upon the country in the outbreak of the rebellion of 1798, bringing trouble and disaster to many an Irish family. The country was placed under martial law. Robert Dudley had to receive a detachment of Hanoverian soldiers into his house, Prior Park, near Clonmel, and, while remaining there with his younger boys, thought it prudent to send his wife and four young daughters to England, under the care of his son Charles. Provided with an official military pass, they safely effected their escape before the sad scenes of pillage and bloodshed commenced. The copy of the permit which enabled them to reach the port from which they took ship, was as follows and is a striking memento of those troublous times, which, it is hoped, Ireland will never again witness: "Permit the bearer hereof, Mary Dudley, wife of Robert Dudley, of Prior Park, near Clonmel, with her five children, all minors, Charles, Elizabeth, Mary, Hannah, and Charlotte Dudley, all of the society of the people called Quakers, with their two servants, Edward Doherty and Philip Murphy, to pass from hence to Waterford on their lawful occasions." This was signed by the brigade-major and another in command, and was addressed, "To all officers, civil and military." More than a year elapsed before the family were reunited; and somewhere about this time Charles Dudley settled in Bristol, in connection with a large mercantile house. To this period of his life he always referred with pleasure, not only from having been brought into friendly intercourse with Southey, Coleridge, and others, to whom he was attracted by his literary tastes, but as the time when the thoughtlessness of youth gave place to more sober and serious convictions. Possessed of considerable poetical gifts, from an early age he wrote verses under the nom de plume of "Theron," an occupation that gave him solace and delight to nearly the closing days of his life. In 1802, having barely attained his majority, he married Hester Savory, whose brother was grandfather of the late Lord Mayor of London, Sir Joseph Savory, and to this lady, who possessed many attractions, there is an interesting reference in one of the letters of Charles Lamb. But the happiness of his wedded life was of short duration; for, in a few short months, his beautiful wife, having caught cold at a funeral, which was followed by fever, was suddenly taken from him, as well as an infant to which she expected to give birth. With the breaking-up of his happy home, his grief was for a time overwhelming, and never in after life did he even allude to this sore bereavement. After the death of his father, in 1807, his mother and sisters settled in England, near the metropolis, and Charles Dudley took up his abode with them. That his severe domestic trial was made a blessing to him spiritually, there is every reason to believe, and that after the sowing in tears came the reaping in joy, as he was led to a saving knowledge of Him who is the Resurrection and the Life. His gifted mother's love and sympathy did much for him in his day of trial, and now he began to take an interest in the work of God, and especially in that of the Bible Society. In 1815, he became a member of the parent committee, and in 1817, his name appears among the Honorary Life Governors, having "rendered essential services to the society."

The extent of his labors during the seven years of his unofficial connection with the Society will be apparent when it is stated, as recorded in the annual report for 1818, that in one year he travelled more than 4,500 miles, attended 107 committees, and 128 general meetings, 59 of which were for the formation of new auxiliaries and branches. His retirement, however, from these engrossing and fruitful labors was happily of short duration. The committee became increasingly impressed with the importance of fostering and extending the auxiliary system, of maintaining the loyal adhesion of the branches to the parent stem, while leaving them at liberty to direct and control their own local operations. In seeking for some one to undertake this work, the Committee at once turned to their former colleague, who, in 1819, felt at liberty to respond to their invitation that he should become one of the officers of the Society and take charge of its Home Organization. With this appointment begins one of the most important parts of Mr. Dudley's life.

The Committee in 1819 appointed Mr. Dudley to superintend the Society's Auxiliaries in the provinces. He was admirably qualified for this special work as his previous voluntary and unpaid service, as well as the whole record of his subsequent labors, abundantly testify. His remarkable genius for organization, and the method and system laid down for the efficient working of the various affiliated societies, may be seen in the goodly 8vo volume which he published in 1821, entitled, An Analysis of the System of the Bible Society, including a Sketch of the Origin and Results of Auxiliary and Branch Societies and Bible Associ- tions, with Hints for their Better Regulation. The system there minutely unfolded, though somewhat elaborate and complex, was nevertheless most ingenious and efficient, and it is said that when the new Poor Law system was being established in the country, hints for its orderly working were taken from "Dudley's Analysis." Mr. Dudley had now entered on his great life work, and for nine years he had the sole charge of the Society's home organization. Traveling into every part of the country, before the facilities furnished by railways were known, wherever he went he carried with him an enthusiastic attachment to the great principles of the Society, great practical sagacity and a truly catholic and Christian spirit which rarely failed to arouse interest and secure co-operation.

He met from time to time the royal Dukes of Kent, Sussex, and Gloucester, all interested and taking part in the Society's operations. He could speak of personal acquaintance with William Wilberforce, Charles Simeon, Legh Richmond, Rowland Hill, Thomas Scott, the commentator, Robert Hall, the great preacher, Dr. Chalmers; John Owen, Joseph Hughes, and Dr. Steinkopff, the three first secretaries, sometimes styled, "the head, and heart, and lungs of the Bible Society." He would recount pleasant intercourse and co-operation in his much-loved work with Joseph John Gurney, Hannah More, Elizabeth Fry, Daniel Wilson, afterwards Bishop of Calcutta, Edward Bickersteth, William Jay, the Sumners, Cunninghams, Claytons, John Angell James, and others too numerous to mention.

In 1857 increasing infirmities led him to appeal to the Committee for a colleague, which was at once responded to by the appointment of Rev. J. P. Hewlett, a fellow-laborer in every way like-minded, and who worked with Mr. Dudley as a son with a father. Relieved now from all active work, and from the responsibility involved in the care of an important district, he was permitted to enjoy a few years of quiet resting after the arduous labors of his long and busy life. Having contracted a second happy marriage in 1824, and been blessed with thirteen children, eight of whom survived him, he was surrounded in his declining days by an attached and loving family by whom he was tenderly cared for and nursed. Cheering indeed to those around the dying bed were the words, "I have not a cloud or doubt on my mind. You do not know how near and precious I feel my Saviour to be." And again, after nearly seven days entire silence, the last audible utterance was in words still reflecting the deep peace within: "How sweet to be at rest! Thou will keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee." Shortly after, the silver cord was loosed, and the golden bowl broken, and on the evening of Nov. 4th, 1862, the Society's first and ablest District Secretary passed away to his heavenly rest, having entered his 83rd year.

BRADSTREET.

(See pages 659 and 746.)

Isaac J. Greenwood, A. M., of New York City, N. Y., has an article in the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register, for April, 1894, giving much new light on the Bradstreets of England, before they emigrated to other countries.

Our Gov. Simon Bradstreet was baptised at Horbling, in Lincolnshire, March 18, 1603-4, being son of Rev. Simon Bradstreet, of Horbling, whose will is recorded in the Const. Co. of the Bishop of Lincoln, as follows:

"In the name of God Amen The xx day of December 1620 I Simon Bradstreete of Horblinge in the County of Lincolne minister and preacher of Gods worde doe ordayne and make this my last will and testament in manner & forme following first I bequeath my soule into the hands of Almighty God my faithfull Creator and in Jesus Christe his sonne my Savio^r & Redeemer and my bodie to the earth from whence it was taken and my worldly goods I thus bestow, Jtem I give and bequeath to Samuall Bradstreete my oldest sonne xl^s to be paide at the age of xxj^y yeares Jtem I give to Simon Bradstreete my second sonne xl^s to be paide at the age of xxj^{tie} yeares as is aforesaid Jtem I give to John Bradstreete my youngest sonne xl^s when he shall accomplish the age of xxj^{tie} yeares as is aforesaid And my will is further that Margaret my wife shall have my house wth the Close to the said house adjoyning and alsoe the medowe and all other things to the said house appertayning w^{ch} I bought of one Richard Watson of North Rawceby in the foresaid County of Lincolne dureing her naturall life And further my will is that after her decease that the said house medowe and all the appertences thereto belonging or apptayninge shalbe solde and the price thereof to be equallie devyded amongst my three sonnes if then they be all living, if not, to him or them that doth survive or live Jtem I give to the poore of Horblinge and Brigend x^s to be distributed according to the discrecon of my Supviso^{rs} All the rest of my goods not given and not bequeathed I giue to Margaret my wife whome I make my sole and only Executo^r of this my last will And I desire James Lambley gentleman Robert Taverner and Thomas Wright to be Superviso^{rs} of this my last will In wittnes whereof I have sette my hand & seale the day and yeare above written — Simon Bradstreete — James Lamley, Robert Taverner, Thomas Wright."

Probatum fuit temoi testam' apud Lincoln' xiijs die Aprillis anno dni 1621 coram venli virs Rogers Parker sacre theolog' Profess' Decans et Surr' venlis viri troferi Wivell It deoris R^{di} pris dni Georgij p'viden' dia Lincoln' Epi vicar' genlis &c Commissuq' fuit onus execucois liusdem testam^{ti} Executrici in eod' noiat' prius vigore Comiss' &c inrat' salno iare &c.

The above baptism of Gov. Simon Bradstreet was found with other baptisms of his family in the Horbling parish register transcript in possession of the Bishop of Lincoln. The oldest register of Horbling begins in 1653. The baptisms all took place on Sunday, and were apparently of Rev. Simon's children:

1, Samuel, baptised Sept. 19, 1602. This was doubtless the Samuel Bradstreet who graduated at Emanuel College, Cambridge, 1615, according to the catalogue, which I consulted in 1850.

2, Gov. Simon, in 1850, as given above.

3, Mercie, bap. March 9, 1605-6. She was buried two days later.

4, John, bap. Feb. 8, 1606-7. Perhaps he was the John Bradstreet who settled in Ireland in time of Cromwell, and became a great landholder, being the ancestor of the Baronets of Ireland.

The transcripts from which these four extracts have been taken are each signed by the Vicar, Simon Bradstreet; the earliest found during his incumbency dates "from the 3 daie of October 1596 vntil the 3 of the same in the year 1597;" it is signed "Symon Broadstreet Vicar' ibur."

His own burial occurs in the transcript, running "from the 25 of Mareh 1620 vnto the 25 Mareh 1621."

The name Simon has long continued in the family, and is still preserved in the line of the Irish Baronets, to whom Hutchinson alludes as connected. However, contemporary with Simon, the Vicar of Horbling, was the Rev. Symon Bradstreet of Hasset, co. Suffolk, living 1630,* and Symon Bradstreete, citizen and grocer of London, who died in February, 1627-8, as we learn from his proof of will given in Mr. Waters's Gleanings.† The latter leaves all his property to his nephew and executor, Samuel Bradstreete, and apparently discards his daughter Margaret, who, without his "love, leave or consent," had married Edmund Slater, citizen and mercer of London. Slater, in his license of 23 May, 1625, for a marriage at Lamborne or Birchanger, Essex, is called of St. Magnus (London); his wife of Bishop's Stortford, Herts., and her father as of Brainford, Middlesex, brewer. Four years later, 7 May, 1629, Edmund Slater, gent., of Bishop's Stortford, Herts., widower, aged 30, has license of marriage at St. Bennet, Paul's Wharf, to Grace Glascocke, aged 21, with consent of her father, Henry Glascocke, gent., of Farnham, Essex. Bishop's Stortford lay some thirty miles north of London, close to the westerly border of Essex, with Farnham and Birchanger just above it.

If we may judge from what can be gathered in the MSS. of the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's, the family name of Bradstreet is of pure cockney origin, originating in Bread Street, that locality in the metropolis where was anciently established a bread market. Thus in 1273 Master Thomas de Bread Street, clerk, received the grant of a quit rent issuing from a tenement in the parish of All Hallows, Bread Street. His name also occurs as "de Bredstrate," and "de Bradstrat," till in 1294 we find him Rector of Tollesbery, Essex, acting as deputy of the Bishop of London, for collecting from the neighboring church of Heybridge the tenth lately granted King Edward I. at Ely. In 1293 Walter de Bredstrete received a tenement in the parish of All Hallows de Bredstrete, under the will of Peter, son of John le long (see Cal. Hasting Wills); and William de Bredstrate, bokeler, had a grant in 1243 of land in Wood Street, parish of St. Alphege.

JOHN WARD DEAN, A. M.

SKETCH OF JOHN WARD DEAN, A. M.

This engraving was made from a photograph of the original portrait of Mr. Dean which hangs in the library of the N. E. Historic Genealogical Society, at 18 Somerset street, Boston.

He learned the bookbinder's trade in Portland; came to Boston in 1836, and remained here three or four years. In 1841 he engaged in the bookbinding business in Providence, R. I., under the firm style of Dean & Burgess. In 1843 he returned to Boston and entered into partnership with his brother, Jeremiah, under the style of Dean & Co., as bookbinders. From 1848 to 1859 he carried on the business alone. He was, 1859 to 1861, with Wm. Hill, as Dean & Hill; and in 1872 with his brother as Dean & Co., in the leather stamping and gilding business. In 1850 Mr. Dean joined the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Society. From 1839 to 1843 he resided at Providence, R. I., and since then in Boston and vicinity. He was the principal founder of the Historical Magazine, and he edited the first volume of it and part of the second. Then it was removed to New York city. Some of his works are: 1, The Dean Genealogy written in connection with W. R. Deane, 1849; 2, Declaration of Remarkables in the Life of John Dane, 1854; 3, The Kingsbury Genealogy, 1859; 4, Memoir of Michael Wigglesworth, 1863; 5, Brief History of the New England Historical and Genealogical Register; 1866; 6, Memoir of Giles Firmin, 1866; 7, Embarcation of Cromwell, 1866; 8, Memoir of Rev. Nathaniel C. Ward, 1868. He has prepared and seen through the press, seventeen pamphlets of sketches, memorial and historical; also, six volumes of historical matter, edited by himself. To these should be added many pamphlets of valuable genealogical compilations. He wrote the History of the Gerrymander, 1892.*

In May, 1870, Mr. Dean was chosen president of the Prince Society, of which he was one of the founders, succeeding Mr. Samuel G. Drake, who had held the office from the formation of the society, in 1858. He was recording secretary of the American Statistical Association from 1860 to 1872; corresponding secretary of the Prince Society, 1858 to 1863; vice-president of same, 1863 to 1870; president from 1870 to 1880, and vice-president from 1880 to present time; treasurer of N. E. Historic Genealogical Society, 1855 to 1857; recording secretary, 1857 and 1858; co-corresponding secretary, 1859 to 1862; and librarian, 1872 to 189-, and still is librarian. He was justice of the peace for Middlesex, 1870 to 1877. Dartmouth College has conferred on him the degree of Master of Arts.

* A complete list of Mr. Dean's works was published in the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register for Oct., 1888. But he has issued some since that date.

Many historical and biographical writers, and particularly authors of books on local and family history, have acknowledged their indebtedness to him for assistance. Several of his literary friends have dedicated books to him, namely, William H. Whitmore, A. M., his "Handbook of American Genealogy," and his "American Genealogist"; Rev. Caleb Davis Bradlee, D. D., his "Sermons for all Sects"; Rev. George M. Bodge, his "Soldiers of King Philip's War"; and Rev. Elias Nason, his "Memoir of Mrs. Susanna Rowson."

Mr. Dean has long been a great friend to this History of the Dudley Family. He was treasurer of the Dudley association in 1857, as mentioned on page 948. As a descendant of Mercy (Dudley) Woodbridge, he has ever felt deep interest in tracing the genealogy of this family, both in England and America. Mr. Dean is no flatterer, but I can see plainly that he is well satisfied with the success of the work. He scarcely could have had so much faith in the enterprise as it has deserved and justified.

STEVENS, GILBRETH, FLYNT.

Daniel Stevens and his wife Mehetabel^a (Dudley), see pages 917-918, had eleven children, of whom, Mehetabel^b, the third child, married Hon. Moses S. Carr, of Hallowell, Me. This lady's granddaughter, Mrs. Olivia P. Flynt, wrote me Oct. 20, 1892, from 319 Columbus Avenue, Boston, Mass., as follows:

Of the eleven children of Daniel and Mehetabel^b (Dudley) Stevens, I have seen seven of them all together at my early home in Augusta, Me., many times. They were, without exception, uncommonly intelligent, refined, talented, and noble women, making the world better for their individual lives.

My grandmother, Mehitabel Dudley Stevens, was the third child, and married, when but sixteen years of age, Moses S. Carr, of Hallowell, who was of English parentage but born in Hallowell, and he came to Boston as representative of his district and senator thirteen years in succession, coming to the Old State House on State Street. My grandmother lived to be seventy-six years of age, and had at that time every one of her teeth perfectly sound, and her dark brown hair without one spear of gray visible. She was a very handsome woman, tall and graceful, with a most dignified yet kindly cordial manner which won her many friends. She had five children, three boys and two girls. My grandfather Carr died when a little over forty years of age (I think forty-five years).

My mother was the second daughter. Married Benjamin Gilbreth, of Augusta, Maine, where I was born sixty-six years ago last Monday, and I married Edwin R. Flynt, of Farmington, Me.

I have one sister living with me, Miss Mary A. Gilbreth, and one brother, C. H. Gilbreth, living at Knoxville, Illinois, all there is left of my mother's nine children. One of my brothers left, when he died, three children, who have lived in Boston several years at 156 West Chester Park with their mother.

The eldest is Mrs. Anne Gilbreth Cross, of Providence, R. I., next Miss Mary E. Gilbreth, a teacher of Advanced Botany and a student at Harvard Annex, and the next Frank B. Gilbreth, a builder and successful inventor.

Want of time prevents my giving you a more detailed account of the descendants which is within my knowledge, but I will add that Mrs. Mary Morrill Lovering, who was the daughter of Abigail Stevens, their fifth child, and John Morrill, living at Manchester, Me., was ninety years of age last April, and is wonderfully bright and capable at the present time. She wrote me last week a most interesting and long letter which any one could read as well as printing. A cousin of hers, Mrs. Melvina Morrill Longfellow, who was the youngest daughter of Nancy Stevens, the eighth child, and Henry Morrill, lives at Augusta, Me. She is about sixty-six years of age.

Dr. STEPHEN GALE TAYLOR, Ph.D.

SKETCH OF DR. S. G. TAYLOR.

• [See portrait opposite.]

DR. STEPHEN GALE² TAYLOR (Sarah E⁷. Jewett, Andrew⁶ Jewett, Ann⁵ Wiggins, Jonathan⁴ Wiggins, Hannah³ Bradstreet, Anne² Dudley, Gov. Thomas¹ Dudley) was born in Sanbornton, N. H., March 23, 1819. He was educated at Dartmouth College, Hanover, N. H., where he graduated B. A. in the class of 1847, and received the degree of A. M. from the same institution in the year 1855. By profession and inclination he was a teacher; this was his life work, and into it he put all the energy and high accomplishments of his rare, good character.

He was for many years, at the outset of his career, connected with the Norwich Academy, in Connecticut. Thence he went to Tarrytown, upon the Hudson, where he spent a couple of years and enjoyed the friendship of Washington Irving. From Tarrytown, Dr. Taylor went to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he established a classical school. In this institution he made for himself such a name, that upon the organization of the now famous Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, Dr. Taylor was invited to a prominent place among its corps of professors, and, accepting the invitation, transferred the larger part of his school to this new enterprise.

In this position he remained until he was called to be the organizer and principal of the then new school, established by the Board of Education of Brooklyn, known as No. 15. Under his care No. 15 grew to be the best and most flourishing school in the city, having an annual attendance of more than two thousand pupils.

While at the height of his success in this institution he was unanimously chosen principal and president of the faculty of the Adelphi Academy, which under his control grew to be the best liberal and fitting Academy in the state, without a superior, in fact, in the country. It was while he was doing his crowning work in the Adelphi Academy, that the Regents of the University of the State of New York, recognizing his merits and appreciating the long and valuable service he had rendered the cause of education, conferred upon him the degree of Ph. D. (honoris causa) in the year 1879. In the year 1883 he was made a member of the executive committee of the Board of Regents of the University, and resigned his position as principal of the Adelphi Academy. He died in Brooklyn, March 20, 1884, aged 65 years.

In the forty years of his career as an educator, it was Dr. Taylor's rare privilege to have instructed the mind and moulded the character of thousands of men and women of the present generation, many of whom have attained conspicuous places in the community. It was his greater honor to have endeared himself to every one of them by the nobleness and sweetness of his character. He m. July 9, 1856, Mary A. Cobb, of Portland, Me. Their children are:

i. ARTHUR WILSON TAYLOR, b. Sept. 1, 1857, graduated M. D. at the "College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia College," New York, in the year 1880, and was appointed a medical officer in the United States army. He served on the western frontier for ten years, and with distinction through several Indian campaigns. Was promoted, 1885, captain and assistant surgeon, U. S. Army, and retired from active duty, 1892, on account of physical disability contracted in the line of duty. He m. Elizabeth Shurtleff, and is living in Salt Lake City, Utah; no children.

M., 1888, and from the Law School of Columbia College in 1888 with the degree LL. B. (cum laude). He was Seligman Fellow in Political Science, in 1889, in which year he received the degree of Ph. D. from the school of Political Science of Columbia College. He is practising law in New York City and is unmarried.

DEAR SIR:—Your letter of inquiry written on the 26th and mailed or rather post-marked the 30th, came to hand this morning. I have before me a copy of William Dummer's will made in 1756. In this will he mentions his sister Anna Powell, nephew Jeremiah Powell, John Powell and William Powell, kinsman Nathaniel Dummer, kinswoman Mary Carlton, kinsman Wm. Vans, son of Hugh Vans, and the nephews and nieces of his sister Anna Powell, but does not make any mention of either wife or children. Gov. Wm. Dummer died 10 Oct., 1761. Capt. Joseph Atkins died 25 Jan., 1773, in his 93d year. Mary Atkins his widow died 10 Nov., 1774, in her 84th year. One of their children was Dudley Atkins, whose name was changed to Dudley A. Tyng. His son Dudley A. Tyng had his name changed to Dudley Atkins. Stephen H. Tyng, D. D., is another son, but holds on to the Tyng, & James Tyng is another, & Capt. Charles Tyng, another. In our town records I find the following: "Joseph Atkins, Esq., of Newbury, informed of his intent "of marriage with dame Mary Wainwright of Boston & I posted up "their said intent as the law direct- March the 21st 1729-30.

NATHANIEL COFFIN, Town Clerk."

From the above it appears that Joseph Atkins married the widow Mary Wainwright. He was then 50 years old & she 39. Their son Dudley Atkins was born 1731. I know not how many children Francis Wainwright & his wife Mary had, nor how many, if any, Catherine Dummer had.

May 31, 1856. This morning in looking over my letters I find to my great surprise that I had not sent the within. Excuse my neglect.

Yours truly,

JOSHUA COFFIN.

*This Denison Family appears to have been of ancient prominence. Their arms, as engraved on the gravestone of John Denison, who died at Ipswich, in 1747, were: Argent, on a chevron between three pellets, a torteau gules. The chevron is probably sable, as I find in Edmondson's Heraldry that Denssen anciently bore "Ar. a chev. sa." The torteau is gules, and of course it could not be properly shown on a red chev. as Burke has it. The crest is a cubit arm, in hand a cutlass, and the legend or motto, "Domus grata." In the N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 46. 1892, at page 127, there is an autobiography of Maj. Gen. Daniel Denison, recently discovered, in which it is stated that he was son of Wm. Denison of Roxbury, the immigrant, who was son of John (?) of Bishops Stortford, in Hertfordshire, Eng., and lived there till 1631. Maj. Gen. Denison says that he and his brother John were bred scholars at Cambridge, in England. See also the Denison pedigree in the volume above referred to, at page 353. Maj.-Gen. Denison graduated at Emmanuel College in 1629, and his brother John graduated at Queen's College, and took his A. M. degree in 1623. See same col. as above, p. 274.

* This John Wilds' wife Sarah was hung as a witch in 1692. Her son Ephraim was a constable and arrested some of the witches. One of them confessed she was a witch, and accused the constable's mother of bewitching her. Thus was she avenged and saved her own life. The lady, Sarah Wild, who was hanged, left children. One of her grandsons was John Wilds.

† DEAR SIR: Your note, informing me of my nomination as a member of the "Dudley Association," was duly received. I should have answered it at once but for the death of my father, which occurred about the time of receiving it. My father's death has cut me off from inquiries which might have enabled me to answer your questions fully. There are no data found among his papers which would aid me. I beg to say, however, that my Uncle Dudley Wildes, of Topsfield, and my grandfather, both had the same christian name, and I think received it from an ancestor. If I am not mistaken, my father once told me that it came into the family by intermarriage of an ancestor with one of the descendants of Gov. Simon Bradstreet. I know of no record, however, establishing this, but still believe it to have been the fact. If this statement is deemed sufficient as a ground of membership, I shall be glad of enrollment with the kinsmen, and will forward you the fee on acknowledgment.

I remain, dear sir, yours truly,

GEORGE DUDLEY WILDES.

* This John Winthrop, son of Wait Still, was born in Boston, Aug. 26, 1681, d. at Sydenham, near London, Aug. 1, 1747. Mr. R. C. Winthrop, Jr., says in his "Short Account" of his family, p. 10, that John, F. R. S., removed from Boston to Connecticut to devote himself to the improvement of his property there. But he, not being suited to that sort of business, failed of success, and, feeling aggrieved at the decisions of the courts respecting the distribution of his father's estate, he went to Eng. and in 1727 and obtained redress from the Privy Council, and asked for political preferment, but could not obtain what he claimed as his hereditary right or due. So he stayed there twenty years, becoming an active member of the Royal Society, and having one of its volumes of Transactions dedicated to him. He visited old Groton, according to his diary, in 1728, and found memorials of his Winthrop ancestors still existing there. His widow at New London died in 1776, aged 92. John Winthrop, F. R. S., was son of Wait Still, son of John, governor of Connecticut, son of Gov. John, a Puritan leader here in Mass. Bay Colony. (See his Life, by his descendant, Hon. Robert C. Winthrop.)

All the Winthrops in America, bearing that surname, are probably descendants of Ann Dudley and her husband, John Winthrop, Esq., F. R. S. So thinks Robert C. Winthrop, Jr., Esq.

AUGUSTINE JONES, A. M., LL. B.

This gentleman is a descendant of Gov. Thomas Dudley, as follows: his father was Richard Mott^s Jones (Savanna^r Dudley, Micajah^o, Samuel^o, James^o, Stephen^o, Rev. Samuel^o, Gov. Thomas^o). He was born at China, Me., Oct. 16, 1835, grad. at Bowdoin College in 1860, in the class with Hon. Thomas B. Reed and Judge Joseph W. Symonds, of Portland, Me. He grad. at Harvard Law School in 1867, and studied law with Gov. John A. Andrew, and practised in Boston twelve years, being a representative to the legislature in 1878. The next year he became Principal of the Friends N. E. Boarding School at Providence, R. I. He wrote a series of papers at the suggestion of J. G. Whittier, on the Universal Church, a theme proposed by Rev. James Freeman Clarke, and they were published, receiving the endorsement of Mr. Whittier as good "Quaker Doctrine." He read a paper on Nicholas Upsall of Boston, before the N. E. Historic Gen. Society, which is printed in the Hist. and Gen. Register for Jan., 1880. He has published several pamphlets on moral and social questions, and delivered an address on Robert Burns before the Advance Club in Providence, Feb., 1892, and another on Moses Brown of Providence in 1892, before the R. I. Historical Society, which was published by the said society.

In a magazine called "The Phoenix Echo," published (1889) by the school, Mr. Jones is complimented very highly. It is said that the History of the School would not be complete without some mention of its principal, to whose influence and energetic efforts its success in latter years has been due. In answer to the need of the school, he became its principal in 1879, leaving a flourishing practice in order to do so. His views of education are broad and liberal. He is honored and loved by his pupils. "During the last fifteen years, under Augustine Jones, many and great improvements have been made." Pictures and carvings have been added, and many books to the library, and a gymnasium for the girls, &c. The permanent funds of the institution also have been increased by nearly a hundred thousand dollars. He is president of the Advance Club of Providence, and of the Public Park Association. Mr. Jones married, 1867, Caroline Osbourne of Dover, N. H., and has a dau., Caroline Rathbone Jones, and a son, Wm. Augustine, who is in Brown University, a sophomore.

COATS OF ARMS*,

which have been borne by the Dudleys or their connections of other names. Only a few of them are here given:

BRADSTREET, Gov. Simon, of New England, 1630: Argent a greyhound pass. gules., on a fess sable, three crescents or. Crest: An arm in armour embowed the hand grasping a cutlas all ppr.

BRADSTREET of Ireland, the same as the above, except that the crescents are on a chief. This is most likely to be the correct arms, and our Gov. Bradstreet's seal may be slightly inaccurate. But it was used by him and may be seen on his will in Suff. Probate office. Perhaps the Bradstreets of Ireland were descendants from our Gov. Simon Bradstreet's brother John, A. M. (See p. 1005.)

COTTON, Rev. John, of Boston, 1641: Sable, a chevron between three griffins' heads erased argent.

SALTONSTALL of New England, 1630: Argent, a bend gules, between two eagles displayed sable. Crest: out of a ducal coronet, a demi-pelican vulning herself.

WINTHROP, Gov. John of New England, 1630: Ar. three chevrons erenellee gu., over all a lion ramp. sa., crowned and langued az. Crest: A hare ppr. running on a mount vert.

WAINWRIGHT, Col. John of New England, 1700: Ar., on a chev. az., a lion ramp. between two fleur-de-lys of a field, all within a bordure engrailed sa., a crescent for difference.

HAYNES of Copford Hall, England. Gov. John Haynes of New England bore nearly the same coat: Ar., three crescents barry undee, az. and gu. Crest: a stork rising ppr.

RUSSELL, Richard, of Boston, Mass.; Ar., on a chev. between three cross-crosslets sa., an eag'le's head erased or, a bordure engrailed gu. charged with eight plates. Crest: a demi-lion

*The heraldry of New England is quite different from that of the mother country, because we have no law of primogeniture or of hereditary titles and honors, and no College of Arms to grant coats of arms, or regulate them. The first comers were mostly common people, who had no coats of arms that they could use. Those who had them seldom used them on their seals. They were not thinking much about hereditary marks of distinction; but how to make a living and plant the gospel here. However, now-a-days, every town and state, and many other corporations invent and use coats of arms. It looks much better to invent a new crest, than to assume or appropriate one that does not belong to us by any right. To those who wish to ascertain the facts about their rightful arms, or whether any coat belongs to them, I would suggest that they consult the committee on heraldry of the N. E. Historic Gen. Society of 18 Somerset street, Boston, Mass. It requires experts, who are disinterested parties, to explain heraldry, not those who get large fees for furnishing bogus arms.

ramp. argent, charged on the shoulder with a saltire coupé az., between the paws a cross-crosslet fitehee erect sa.

DAVENPORT of New England. Argent, a chev. sa., between three cross-crosslets fitehee of the second. Crest: a felon's head coupé at the neck ppr. haltered or.

QUINCY of Boston, New England: Gu. six mascles or, three, two and one.

WHITING of New England: Party per saltire azure and ermine, in the fesse point a leopard's face or, in chief three bezants. Crest: a lion's head erased.

SEWALL of Boston, New England: Sable, a chev. between three bees argent.

LEVERETT of New England: Argent, a chev. between three leverets courant sable.

Robert Dudley, of Clonmel, who m. Mary Stokes, bore for his arms: Two lions pass. within a bordure. Crest, out of a ducal coronet, a demi lion forchee.

Sheldon Dudley, of the Roscrea branch, also bore the same coat quite recently.

By this it would seem that they claimed to be of the Hackney and Endsler family, of Simon Dudley's descendants, as his son John had some such coat granted to him in 1588. (See page 8.)

Mr. H. Sydney Grazebrook, the noted antiquary, wrote me from England in 1888: "My cousin, who is the senior coheir to the abeyant Barony of Dudley, has many valuable family papers, inter alia, a fine, old illuminated pedigree of his ancestors drawn up between 1643 and 1647, of which I have a copy."

Here is an item I found in a newspaper not long ago:

HEIRS TO EIGHTY MILLIONS.

[From the Bradford (Pa.) Era.]

W. L. Dudley, of this city; Peter Dudley, of Williamsport; Miss S. M. Dudley, of Trout Run; A. C. Dudley, of Trenton, Mo., and Mrs. J. C. Anthony, of Cooper's Plains, N. Y., have suddenly discovered that they are heirs to a large fortune. Wm. Dudley, the owner of a vast estate, died in London, in 1813. His property, through some reason, was placed in chancery and has since remained there. The Dudleys above mentioned claim to be descended from the rich man who died in London, and have concluded to make an effort to secure their share of the property. They have secured the services of Attorneys Stone and Sturgeon, of this city, who will see that the matter is thoroughly investigated. The value of the estate is put at the enormous sum of $80,000,000. There may be something in it.

Such wild, foolish statements are often printed in various parts of this country.

PREFACE.

This is the eleventh number of the History of the Dudley Family, besides the Appendix Memorial of the Reunion, but it is called the "Tenth No." because one No. was printed for the 100 pages between Nos. II and III. The price of each No. is one dollar and the Memorial of the Reunion of 1892 is fifty cents. I will furnish the whole in one volume cloth-binding for $12.00 C. O. D., or in two volumes for $12.50.

This No. X. Index to the whole work is $1.00 C. O. D. or, if sent by mail, 8 cents extra for postage. It contains a list of the illustrations nearly 200 in number on 152 pages of the 12 parts, 21 tabular pedigrees, a general, alphabetical index of subjects, an alphabetical index of Dudleys by name and an alphabetical index of other names, etc. There are also in this No. X. corrections, additions, etc., a table of Contents, lists of subscribers, and other important matters. Thus ends the whole History of the Dudley Family, according to my plan and purpose when I began printing the work A. D. 1886. I am heartily thankful that I have lived and been able to finish this vast undertaking. Those, who have helped me in any way have my sincere thanks. If an author had spent $20,000 to compile such a work, he could not have produced so good a result without such an experience as I have had. I early read among the sayings of the great sages of old, that we should be slow to undertake an enterprise, but when we do begin, carry it through. This has given me strong courage to persevere; for I firmly believed it to be correct philosophy. The obstacles which I have overcome have been very numerous. Some have been laughed at, some pushed aside by main force, others kicked down, and others trampled out of sight. Neither thieves, nor fire, nor hypocrites, nor devils have been able to stop the progress of this enterprise. I defied the whole of them together; and yet my own way has been successful.

No sect or party or clique or cabal has caused me to swerve from truth, justice and integrity.

If any one hereafter finds any fault in my book, let him inform me and I will correct it. Those, who write me, often show that they have failed to read the work all through.

This history and genealogy of all the Dudleys will cause those of our name to look up their connections with the lines herein traced. I have endeavored to learn the origin and pedigree of every branch and every family bearing the name. Those who have recently assumed the name not being of the ancient line, have not been enrolled in this book, as such was my plan. They can make a book for their own Dudley lineage.

One old lady has often urged me to insert a coat of arms, which was procured from a New York heraldic painter, but I refused her request. It has four quarterings, such as Sir John Dudley, duke of Northumberland, bore, (or might have borne), for his father and mother's families, and under it the legend of Gov. Joseph Dudley, "Nec gladio nec arcu." The lady appears indignant and claims it as a legitimate coat for our Dudleys. This will show how I sometimes make enemies, by rejecting people's strange requests. What right have we to the arms of Sir John Dudley's maternal ancestors? And "nec gladio, nec arcu" was probably invented by Gov. Joseph Dudley. He first used it. It never belonged to the duke of Northumberland.

The pedigree of the Tipton Dudleys on page 812 was from Mr. Grazebrook's collections. He wrote about the Barons of Dudley thirty years ago for the Herald and Genealogist.

I wrote about the English Dudleys, at the same time, for the same magazine. He wrote me long and learned letters correcting my errors. Sometimes I showed him the right way in my writings. He was searching and inquiring just as I was. He supposed that the Warwick and Northumberland house of Dudleys were not descended from the Suttons, and were of "plebeian origin." But he subsequently came over to my ground, and squarely declared that Sir Philip Sydney and Dugdale were right when they asserted that Leicester and Northumberland were of the Sutton branch. He found it was so by the wills of their ancestors. I inquired of him what he had learned about the London Dudleys, of several houses; for instance Symon Dudley and Thomas, grandfather of Roger. But he has not yet indicated what researches he has made in that direction. Probably he has not studied their genealogy. I wish he would.

He is a great scholar and antiquary. I hope he or some other investigator will find more about the Dudleys of Russells Hall. We ought to know what became of their parish records, and why they were not reported by the heralds in their Visitations.

Many persons have expressed their opinion that this life-long work of mine will not pay, and I shall get by it only a posthumous fame or grateful remembrance. But I would not give a straw for such a reward. I want all my relatives to feel rejoiced that such a good work has been done, patronize it, read it, forgive my errors, praise my merits, remember me as their benefactor, make my life more happy on account of this great effort to benefit my family and all our race.

AUTHORITIES.

I promised at the start to give a list of authorities consulted, or quoted, in this History; but, soon afterwards, I began to refer to most of the authorities. This was done because it seemed to be more practicable, as well as more agreeable to historical friends and correspondents.

However, I often failed to explain the sources upon which I relied. In many cases, persons sending me information would request that their names should not appear as the authors. In other cases, I did not have memoranda to show who were the authors. Many writers do not give their authorities.

In gathering facts about the early Suttons and their ancestors, I made great use of the County Histories of England, by Thoroton, Nash, Erdeswick, Bridges, Blore, Baker, Nichols, Dugdale, Ormerod, Surtees, etc., the Herald's Visitations, the papers at the British Museum, public records of parishes, wills, and post-mortem inquisitions, as well as the great historical magazines and the publications of the record societies, town, city and national histories, etc. The antiquaries furnish a vast amount of facts and dates.

In London the best record authorities are the Wills and Administrations at Somerset House. They are indexed by the Record society—50,000 of them.

The British Museum contains an immense collection of Pedigrees and collections for Family History—both originals and copies—also Printed Parish Registers and books of Genealogy.

The Herald's College, in Queen Victoria street has a vast collection, to consult which fees are required.

There is the Tyssen Library in Hackney which has a local collection of Genealogies and Manuscripts relating to Hackney and its vicinity.

Lambeth Palace Library has Wills and Administrations proved at Lambeth 1313—1644.

The Bishops of the Church of England have copies of Parish Records, which have been deposited with them since the time of Henry VIII.

Worsley's History of the Isle of Wight furnished facts about the Bramshots and Dudleys. The works on heraldry, peerages, landed gentry, etc., had much useful information for my purpose. State papers have been consulted, the local genealogists and historians furnish important facts both in England and America. In this country I have travelled from State to State and from town to town to examine records of towns, parishes, churches, counties, courts, registries of deeds, wills, etc. Correspondents from all parts of the world have taken great interest in my work. They have corrected my errors, sent me books and papers, pictures, etc. Some of them have not been named in my history, because they requested to be left out, as American genealogists and others bother them too much with their inquiries.

One of the most important ideas that I can think of worthy of expressing here is, that many writers will solicit facts and historical help from expert antiquaries and then publish the matters as their own discoveries, entirely ignoring their worthy benefactors. I will not intentionally follow their example.

When records have been sent me by persons who give the genealogy of their own fathers and children, I have sometimes supposed it would not be best to name the authorities. Some have sent me pamphlets to copy sketches from, and I have not mentioned the source of my sketch, as it was indorsed by my correspondent. On page 976 the sketch of Dr. E. C. Dudley was from a medical magazine, but I omitted a few lines of it. The Gynæcological Magazine of New York was the work referred to.

The numerous town histories and family Genealogies have been my most excellent sources. Family history is now a great science and art, thanks to the pioneers of fifty years ago. I realized the obstacles to such research at that time.

H. Sydney Grazebrook, Esq., writes that he has been sick of late, and sadly lacks the "mens sana in corpore sano." He says he has never made so sweeping an assertion, as indicated by me, saying that he denied that, "Thomas, son of Edward Lord Dudley, might have been ancestor of our New England Gov. Dudley."

He has not been able to find any authentic information about that Thomas Dudley. See page 641.

Mr. Grazebrook says that the Latin words "Coognatus Domini Dudley" mean "kinsman of the Lord Dudley," whereas I wrote that the prebendary was "named" Lord Dudley. Mr.

John Hewitt was a very distinguished member of the Royal Archaeological Institute. He said in one of his papers that "it appeared from an old document in Latin, which he found, that the relics were removed from Lichfield Cathedral by a kinsman of Lord Dudley." The old document referred to is preserved among the archives of the Roman Catholic College of Oscot, and is printed by Mr. Hewitt.

It is the death-bed statement, or confession, to a priest, made in 1615, by a man who was then in possession of the bones of St. Chad and who recounts how they came into his possession. The document in Latin was drawn up by the priest and attested by four other priests, who saw him sign it.

Mr. G. further says, he did not say, that Sir Wm. Dugdale was the "great Homer of Genealogical writers." He said "the good Homer nods," — a quotation from Horace :

"Quando que bonus dormitat Homerus."

Meaning that the most able of men will sometimes make mistakes; and Dugdale's mistakes were sometimes copied by other writers. Mr. G. says, I honored him by copying from his paper on the Barons of Dudley.

The Haines family on p. 764-5 was gathered from several sources, one being Mr. A. M. Haines of Galena, Ill.

From Hon. John Kelley's genealogies in the Exeter Newsletter of 1847-56, I have copied many data of great importance. Kelley's papers have been the source of many family genealogies and he ought to have had more credit from some authors. He received the pedigrees from members of the great families and corrected them by the public records in the probate offices and registries of deeds. He wrote me about the Dudleys, and I have some of his letters to other members of our Dudley family in New Hampshire. I purchased files of his Exeter Newsletter nearly forty years ago, and had them bound in good shape.

It is impossible for me to remember all who ought to be mentioned here. Some friends have written that they preferred to wait till the work should be completed, indexed and bound, rather than subscribe for the parts in pamphlet form.

PALMER DUDLEY.

The subject of this sketch, now a resident of Portland, Me., was born in Phippsburg, Me., Feb. 19, 1822; he was the fourth son of Patrick Dudley, the eldest son of Michael, the emigrant. His early life was spent upon the farm first cultivated by his grandfather, Michael Dudley. He received his education at the common schools. While yet in his teens he engaged in the business of milling, which he followed for a livelihood until late in life, being considered one of the most expert lumbermen in the State. He was for many years prominent in the affairs of his native town, being in politics a staunch Democrat. He was also interested in the military affairs of the State, and on March 18, 1843, he was by Governor Kavanagh commissioned ensign of Company F of Infantry in the 1st Regiment of the 1st Brigade, 4th Division, Militia of the State of Maine, which commission he held seven years, and was honorably discharged on April 18, 1851. During the late War of the Rebellion he answered the second call for volunteers made by President Lincoln in 1861, and was elected lieutenant of a company of one hundred men raised at Phippsburg, expecting to join the 3d Maine Regiment; but when the latter was ordered to move to the front, there were three volunteer companies that could not get in, the regiment being full; the Phippsburg company, being one of these, was therefore honorably discharged and disbanded by Colonel Wildes, United States officer, after being under waiting orders for three months.

On Dec. 21, 1843, he married Frances Jane Wyman, daughter of Capt. Francis Wyman, of Phippsburg, by whom he has had six children, four of whom are now living.

THE IRISH AND AMERICAN DUDLEYS.

BY AUGUSTUS PALMER DUDLEY, M. D.

Dr. Dudley has examined documents in the Royal Irish Academy and the Record Office of the Ulster King at Arms in Dublin Castle; Wills and Records, in the Chancery Record Office, Four Courts, Dublin; and Records and transactions of the Society of Friends, Dublin, etc.

The first record we have of this branch of the Dudleys in America is in 1775, when Michael, John and Thomas Dudley, brothers, Irish soldiers, who had been pressed into the English service, landed at Castine or Belfast, in Eastern Maine, then a province of Massachusetts.

*Michael was born in 1740. The exact place of his birth we do not know, but as all records that we can obtain point to his having emigrated from Belfast, in the north of Ireland, we presume that he was born in Tipperary, County Tipperary. When he came to this country, he landed at Castine, in the State of Maine, settled at Georgetown, Maine, and married Ruth Whelan, of this place, the banns being published Nov. 27, 1780, and the marriage taking place Dec. 19, 1780. Their children were Patrick, Charles, James, Mary and Rachel; all the dates of their births are not known, as the town records from 1777 to 1792 are missing. Michael's wife died Jan. 17, 1821, at the age of sixty-nine, and he himself died Nov. 10, 1833, at the age of ninety-three.

Michael* who came to America in 1775 with his two brothers John and Thomas, was the eldest son of George who it is claimed in Ireland emigrated to America about 1755. George was the fifth son of Larry, of Frankford, King's Co., Ireland, whose last will is dated July 16, 1755, at Dublin. His six sons who were all "cut off with a shilling," were: John, Ferdinand, Guilford, Robert, George and Large. See pedigree page 152 and page 501.

The first Dudley who went from England to Ireland was Robert, who had a son Ferdinand, who had a son John Large, who had a son Guilford Moffatt, who had a son John Stewart. The family settled first at a place called Mount Dudley, in the town of Tipperary, County Tipperary, and branched out from there. The earliest generations are buried at Killebon, Tipperary.

NOTE.—I print this paper for Dr. A. P. Dudley; but I do not know his particular authorities. His large account of the English Dudleys I have omitted because the same has been already printed in my history, as may be seen on pages 152, 168, 501, 722, 734, 129, 33, etc. I have not room to repeat the same accounts; but I give in this paper what is new.

John settled in Whitefield, Maine, and married a daughter of Fitzgerald, and had four children: Thomas, Michael, Mary and Jane. Thomas never married and was lost at sea. Michael married a Miss Kincaid and had twelve children. Mary married a Mr. Herring and had seven children. Jane married Wm. Narey and had five children.

Thomas settled in Stark (Industry), Me. It is not known whom he married, but his first son was named James, and was born July 13, 1776; his other children were: Betsy, born March 2, 1804; John, born Feb. 2, 1807; Richard, born Sept. 2, 1809; James Earl, born April 3, 1811; and Melville, born July 7, 1813. James died July 7, 1843.

MICHAEL,^{1*} born in Ireland in 1740, emigrated to America in 1775. He married Dec. 19, 1780, Ruth

* Mr. H. Sydney Grazebrook, the antiquary, writes to Brigade-Surgeon W. E. Dudley, Dec. 9, 1887, that he has found important information about the origin of his (W. E. D.'s) ancestor's strange name Exuperius or Exuprus. In looking over a calendar of Saints of the thirteenth century, he found that the 28th of September was dedicated to "St. Exuperius Bp."; and, following up this clue, he examined old French dictionaries of biography, and learned that this saint is mentioned in two of them as flourishing in the 5th century at Toulouse. The French call him "St. Exupere." See page 734 for some account of Exuperius Dudley of Stanton in the County of Derby, Eng.

See, also, pages 501-504 and 722 for Dr. W. E. Dudley's large notice of his branch in Ireland.

He says Thomas Large, whose daughter married John Dudley, and had a son, Large Dudley, made his will April 19, 1678, and names his wife (Margaret) and son Thomas, who had then daughters but no son. He (Thomas Large) also names five daughters, and the husbands of four of them, viz.: Meares, Talbot, Humphrey and another Talbot.

From the dates Dr. W. E. Dudley infers that this John Dudley must have been a grandson of Exuperius and father of Large Dudley. This Large Dudley named his sons, 1, John, 2, Ferdinando, and 3, Guilford. This Roserea Guilford Dudley, Surgeon W. E. traced through the Queen's County Friends' Meeting books, as having been apprenticed in Cork. Another Guilford of Cork married Mary Chamberlain, 29 Sept., 1789, and died 27 July, 1805. A Guilford Dudley died at Cork 27 Jan., 1837, aged 49, and a Guilford of Sheffield (son of Guilford and Rebecca) married Ellen Power, July 2, 1846, "so that the name has now gone over to England," says Surgeon Dudley.

The odd name of "Ferdinando" was apparently derived from the last Lord Dudley of England, who died 22 Nov., 1621. See history of the Dudley family at page 168 pedigree.

He (Surgeon Dudley), argues that there must have been a connection between this Irish family and the Barons of Dudley, because the latter lived in the southwest of Ireland and had then no newspapers, highways, etc., but little intercommunication existing between distant parts of the kingdom. "But the connecting link between the two families I could not find," he says, "when I was making inquiries in 1869-70." See pages 557 and 131, History of Dudley family. Surgeon D. says further: "Exuperius Dudley of Stanton may have been George of Killeben's son who had gone to live in England." He found a State paper in the Record

Whelan, and died Nov. 10, 1833. His wife died Jan. 17, 1821, aged sixty-nine. She was therefore born in 1752. Children:

- i. PATRICK². ii. CHARLES². iii. JAMES². iv. MARY².

The first headstone placed in the old Dudley burying ground in Phippsburg, Maine, is marked: "Sacred to the memory of Ruth, wife of Michael Dudley, who died June 17, 1821, aged 69 years."

Office in London, saying that Purser and George Dudalle committed depredations on the southern coast of Ireland and were looked upon as pirates and condemned as such. Hence there was a warrant for their arrest.

Sir George Dudley's father was Sir John, Lord Dudley, called "Lord Quondam" because he lost his castle and lands. See sketch of him, page 129. History of Dudley Family, and his great funeral page 33.

Mr. Surgeon W. E. Dudley argues that Sir George, who had been a warrior, a Papist, a Protestant and all things to suit occasions, was just the man to be pardoned after all, by Lord Leicester's generous intercession, after the Spanish Armada's destruction, and then to leave a family in Ireland. He had twice deserted the Catholic faith and professed Protestantism. Mr. Grazebrook found the record of his marriage license in London. See page 962. It is in Col. Chester's Licenses.

TESTIMONIALS.

THE DUDLEY Genealogy, part two, edited by Dean Dudley, is no less interesting than its predecessor. The prominent position which the family have occupied, both in England and America, entitles it to a memorial of this nature, even more than many families whose genealogies have hitherto been perpetuated in print. Mr. Dudley has worked with care and skill; the text and illustrations are excellent; the pages of each part are replete with interest. If the remainder is as good, the work as a whole promises to be a most important contribution to historical as well as genealogical literature, for which all historical students will be duly grateful.—CECIL H. C. HOWARD, Astor Library, New York.

WHEN the first part of this work was issued we ventured to speak of it as the beginning of a most interesting family history. Of all the families in the whole circle of genealogical story there is none of more renown than the Dudleys, and the chronicler of the valiant deeds and useful lives of those who have made the name illustrious has laid every one who bears it under peculiar obligation. The work, both text and engravings, is beautifully printed. Mr. Dudley has collected the material for the family history with a diligent hand, and arranged it with the skill of an historian. Those who would see what can be done in the way of a family history by a man of genius for such composition should read these interesting pages of Mr. Dean Dudley. When completed, this work will be a far grander and more durable monument to the Dudley family than brass or marble in their utmost eloquence could hope to raise.—BOSTON TRANSCRIPT.

I CANNOT say too much in praise of your book—its candid style, its embellishments, its research, its pure diction, its comprehensiveness. It is a superb piece of historical and literary workmanship.—COL. HENRY DUDLEY TEEBOL, Cincinnati, Ohio.

THE style of the work and its general appearance pleased me much, and I have read No. 1 with a good deal of interest. When complete, I doubt not the book will prove a valuable addition to the historical lore of New England.—DR. T. U. COE.

BANGOR, MAINE, March 9th, 1877.

HON. ELIAS DUDLEY FREEMAN says of my History:—"You have accomplished a work of magnificent extent and value."

Mr. James H. Dudley, the genealogist of his Connecticut branch, writes: "The wonder is that you have got the work so nearly perfect."
